MR HALLIWELL'S PREFACE¹ TO THE FORMER EDITION

THE "Interlude of Youth" is probably the most interesting early-printed moral play that has descended to our times, and it may therefore be considered somewhat singular that it has hitherto escaped the notice of the publication societies. Its great rarity may, however, account for this circumstance, only two or three copies of any edition being known to exist. Waley's edition appeared probably about the year 1554, and has a woodcut on the title-page of two figures, representing Charity and Youth, two of the characters in the interlude. Another edition was printed by Copland, and has also a woodcut on the title-page, representing Youth between Charity, and another figure which has no name.

¹ The "Interlude of Youth" From the rare black letter edition, printed by Waley about the year 1554 Edited by James Orchard Halliwell, Esq Brixton Hill, 1849, 4to 75 copies privately printed over its head. The colophon is "Imprented at London, in Lothbury, over against Sanct Maigarytes church, by me, Wyllyam Copland." See Collier's "History of Dramatic Poetry," vol. 11, p. 313. "The 'Interlude of Youth,'" observes Mr Collier, "is decidedly a Roman Catholic production, and I have therefore little doubt that it made its appearance during the reign of Mary," and he adds, p. 315, "on the whole, this piece is one of the most amusing and most humorous of the class to which it belongs." A fragment of a black-letter copy of the interlude is preserved at Lambeth Palace,¹ and is described by Mr Maitland in his "List of Early Printed Books," p. 311.

Hazlitt's "Handbook," p. 464.]

INTERLUDE OF YOUTH.

CHARITY

Jesu that his arms did spread,
And on a tree was done to dead,
From all perils he you defend !
I desire audience till I have made an end,
For I am come from God above
To occupy his laws to your behove,
And am named Charity ,
There may no man saved be Without the help of me ,
For he that Charity doth refuse ,
Other virtues though he do use ,
Without Charity it will not be ,
For it is written in the faith
Qui manet in charitate in Deo manet
I am the gate , I tell thee ,
Of heaven , that joyful city ,
There may no man thither come ,
But of charity he must have some ,
Or ye may not come , i-wis ,
Unto heaven , the city of bliss ,
Therefore Charity , who will him take ,
A pure soul it will him make
Before the face of God
In the A B C , of books the least ,

It is written Deus charitas est
 Lo ! charity is a great thing,
 Of all virtues it is the king
 When God in earth was here living,
 Of charity he found none ending
 I was planted in his heart,
 We two might not depart ¹
 Out of his heart I did spring,
 Through the might of the heaven-king
 And all priests that be,
 May sing no mass without charity
 And charity to them they do not take,
 They may not receive him, that did them make
 And all this world of nought

YOUTH

Aback, fellows, and give me room,
 Or I shall make you to avoid soon !
 I am goodly of person,
 I am peerless, wherever I come
 My name is Youth, I tell thee,
 I flourish as the vine-tree
 Who may be likened unto me,
 In my youth and jollity ?
 My hair² is royal and bushed thick,
 My body pliant as a hazel-stick,
 Mine arms be both big³ and strong,
 My fingers be both fair and long,
 My chest big as a tun,
 My legs be full light for to run,
 To hop and dance, and make merry
 By the mass, I reck not a cherry, Whatsoever I do !
 I am the heir of all my father's land,

THE INTERLUDE OF YOUTH

And it is come into my hand
I care for no more

CHARITY

Are you so disposed to do,
To follow vice, and let virtue go ?

YOUTH

Yea, sir, even so
For now-a-days he is not set by,
Without he be unthrifly

CHARITY

You had need to ask God mercy ,
Why did you so praise your body ,

YOUTH

Why, knave what is that to thee ?
Wilt thou let ¹ me to praise my body ?
Why should I not praise it, and it be goodly ?
I will not let for thee

CHARITY

What shall it be, when thou shalt flit
Fro thy wealth into the pit ?
Therefore of it be not too bold,
Lest thou forethink ² it, when thou ait old
Ye may be likened to a tree,
In youth flourishing with royalty,
And in age it is cut down,

² Regret

And to the fire is thrown
 So shalt thou, but thou amend,
 Be burned in hell without end !

YOUTH

Ye whoreson, triwest thou so ?
 Beware, lest thou thither go !
 Hence, caitiff, go thy way,
 Or with my dagger I shall thee slay !
 Hence, knave, out of this place,
 Or I shall lay thee on the face !
 Sayest thou that I shall go to hell,
 For evermore there to dwell ?
 I had liever thou had evil fare !¹

CHARITY

Ah, yet, sir, do by my reed,
 And ask mercy for thy misdeed,
 And thou shalt be an heritor of bliss,
 Where all joy and mirth is,
 Where thou shalt see a glorious sight
 Of angels singing, with saints bright,
 Before the face of God

YOUTH

What, sirs, above the sky ?
 I had need of a ladder to climb so high !
 But what, and the ladder slip ?
 Then I am deceived yet,
 And if I fall, I catch a queck,
 I may fortune to break my neck,

And that joint is ill to set Nay, nay, not so

CHARITY

Oh, yet remember, and call to thy mind,
 The mercy of God passeth all thing
 For it is written by noble clerks,
 The mercy of God passeth all works,
 That witnesseth Holy Scripture, saying thus Miseratio domini super omnia opera ejus
 Therefore doubt not God's grace, Thereof is plenty in every place

YOUTH

What, methink ye be clerkish,
 For ye speak good gibb'ish !
 Sir, I pray you, and you have any stoe, Soil¹ me a question, ere ye cast any more,
 Lest when your cunning is all done,
 My question have no solution
 Sir, and it please you this,
 Why do men eat mustard with salt fish ?
 Sir, I pray you soil me this question
 That I have put to your discretion

CHARITY

This question is but a vanity,
 It longeth not to me
 Such questions to assoil

YOUTH

Sir, by God, that me dear bought,
 I see your cunning is little or nought,

¹ Solye

And I should follow your school,
 Soon ye would make me a fool !
 Therefore crake no longer here,
 Lest I take you on the ear,
 And make your head to ache !

CHARITY

Sir, it falleth not for me to fight,
 Neither by day, ne by night,
 Therefore do by my counsel, I say,
 Then to heaven thou shalt have thy way

YOUTH

No, sir, I think ye will not fight,
 But to take a man's purse in the night
 Ye will not say nay,
 For such holy caitiffs
 Were wont to be thieves,
 And such would be hanged as high
 As a man may see with his eye
 In faith, this same is true

CHARITY

God save every Christian body
 From such evil destiny,
 And send us of his grace
 In heaven to have a place !

YOUTH

Nay, nay, I warrant thee,
 He hath no place for thee,
 Weenest thou he will have such fools
 To sit on his gay stools ?
 Nay, I warrant thee, nay !

HUMILITY

Well, sir, I put me in God's will,
 Whether he will me save or spill ,
 And, sir, I pray you do so,
 And trust in God, whatsoever ye do

YOUTH

Sir, I pray thee hold thy peace,
 And talk to me of no goodness ,
 And soon look thou go thy way,
 Lest with my dagger I thee slay !
 In faith, if thou move my heart,
 Thou shalt be weary of thy part,
 Ere thou and I have done

CHARITY

Think what God suffered for thee,
 His arms to be spread upon a tree ,
 A knight with a spear opened his side,
 In his heart appeared a wound wide,
 That bought both you and me !

YOUTH

God's fast ! what is that to me ?
 Thou daw, wilt thou reed me
 In my youth to lose my jollity ?
 Hence, knave, and go thy way,
 Or with my dagger I shall thee slay !

CHARITY

O sir, hear what I you tell,
 And be ruled after my counsel,

That ye might sit in heaven high
With God and his company

YOUTH

Ah, yet of God thou wilt not cease
Till I fight in good earnest,
On my faith I tell thee true,
If I fight, it will thee rue
All the days of thy life

CHARITY

Since¹ I see it will none otherwise be,
I will go to my brother Humility,
And take good counsel of him,
How it is best to be do therein

YOUTH

Yea, marry, sir, I pray you of that,
Methink it were a good sight of your back,
I would see your heels hither,
And your brother and you together
Fettered fine fast!
I-wis, and I had the key,
Ye should sing well-away,
Ere I let you loose!

CHARITY

Farewell, my masters everychone!
I will come again anon,
And tell you how I have done

YOUTH

And thou come hither again,
I shall send thee hence in the devil's name

What ! now I may have my space
 To jet here in this place ,
 Before I might not stir,
 When that churl Charity was here ,
 But now, among all this cheer,
 I would I had some company here ,
 I wish¹ my brother Riot would help me,
 For to beat Charity
 And his brother too

Huffa ! huffa !² who calleth after me ?
 I am Riot, full of jollity
 My heart as light as the wind,
 And all on riot is my mind,
 Wheresoever I go
 But wot ye what I do here ?
 To seek Youth my compeer
 Fain of him I would have a sight,
 But my lips hang in my light
 God speed, master Youth, by my fay

YOUTH

Welcome, Riot, in the devil's way !
 Who brought thee hitherto ?

RIOT

That did my legs, I tell thee
 Methought thou did me call,
 And I am come now here
 To make royal cheer,
 And tell thee how I have done

² See Hazlitt's "Popular Poetry," iv, 239

YOUTH

What ! I weened thou hadst been hanged,
But I see thou art escaped,
For it was told me here
You took a man on the ear,
That his purse in your bosom did fly,
And so in Newgate you did lie

RIOT

So it was, I beshrew your heart
I come lately from Newgate,
But I am as ready to make good cheer,
As he that never came there ,
For, and I have spending,
I will make as merry as a king,
And care not what I do ,
For I will not lie long in prison,
But will get forth soon,
For I have learned a policy
That will loose me lightly,
And soon let me go

I love well thy discretion,
For thou art all of one condition ,
Thou art stable and steadfast of mind,
And not changeable as the wind
But, sir, I pray you at the least,
Tell me more of that jest,
That thou told me right now

RIOT

Moreover, I shall tell thee,
The Mayor of London sent for me

Forth of Newgate for to come,
For to preach at Tyburn

YOUTH

By our Lady ! he did promote thee,
To make thee preach at the gallow-tree !
But, sir, how didst thou 'scape ?

RIOT

Verily, sir, the rope brake,
And so I fell to the ground,
And ran away, safe and sound
By the way I met with a courtier's lad,
And twenty nobles of gold in his purse he had
I took the lad on the ear,
Beside his horse I felled him there
I took his purse in my hand,
And twenty nobles therein I fand ¹
Lord, how I was merry !

YOUTH

God's fate ! thou didst enough there
For to be made knight of the collar

RIOT

Yea, sir, I trust to God Allmicht
At the next sessions to be dubbed a knight

Now, sir, by this light !
That would I fain see,

¹ Found

And I plight thee, so God me save,
 That a sure collar thou shalt have,
 And because gold collars be so good cheap,
 Unto the roper I shall speak
 To make thee one of a good price,
 And that shall be of warrantise

RIOT

Youth, I pray thee have ado,
 And to the tavern let us go,
 And we will drink divers wine,
 And the cost shall be mine,
 Thou shalt not pay one penny, 1-wis,
 Yet thou shalt have a wench to kiss,
 Whensoever thou wilt

YOUTH

Marry, Riot, I thank thee,
 That thou wilt bestow it on me,
 And for thy pleasure so be it,
 I would not Charity should us meet,
 And turn us again,
 For right now he was with me,
 And said he would go to Humility,
 And come to me again

RIOT

Let him come, if he will,
 He were better to bide still,
 And he give thee crooked language,
 I will lay him on the visage,
 And that thou shalt see soon,
 How lightly it shall be done,
 And he will not be ruled with knocks,

We shall set him in the stocks,
To heal his sore shins !

YOUTH

I shall help thee, if I can,
To drive away that hangman ,
Hark, Riot, thou shalt understand
I am heir of my father's land,
And now they be come to my hand,
Methink it were best therefore,
That I had one man more
To wait me upon

RIOT

I can speed thee of a servant of pice,
That will do thee good service ,
I see him go here beside ,
Some men call him Master Pride ,
I swear by God in Trinity
I will go fetch him unto thee,
And that even anon

YOUTH

Hie thee apace and come again,
And bring with thee that noble swain

Lo, Master Youth, here he is,
A pretty man and a wise ,
He will be glad to do you good service
In all that ever he may

Welcome to me, good fellow,
I pray thee, whence comest thou ?
And thou wlt my servant be,
I shall give thee gold and fee

PRIDE

Sir, I am content, 1-wis,
To do you any service
That ever I can do

YOUTH

By likelihood thou should do well enou' ,
Thou art a lkely fellow

PRIDE

Yes, sir, I warrant you,
If ye will be ruled by me,
I shall you bring to high degree

YOUTH

What shall I do, tell me,
And I will be ruled by thee

PRIDE

Marry, I shall tell you Consider ye have good enou'
And think ye come of noble kind ,
Above all men exalt thy mind ,
Put down the poor, and set nought by them ,
Be in company with gentlemen ,
Get up and down in the way,

And your clothes look they be gay ,
 The pretty wenches will say then,
 Yonder goeth a gentleman ,
 And every poor fellow that goeth you by,
 Will do off his cap, and make you courtesy
 In faith, this is true

YOUTH

Sir, I thank thee, by the rood,
 For thy counsel that is so good ,
 And I commit me even now
 Under the teaching of Riot and you

RIOT.

Lo, Youth, I told you
 That he was a lusty fellow

YOUTH

Marry, sir, I thank thee
 That you would bring him unto me

PRIDE

Sir, it were expedient that ye had a wife,
 To live with her all your life

A wife ? nay, nay, for God avow,
 He shall have flesh enow',
 For, by God that me dear bought,
 Over-much of one thing is nought ,
 The devil said he had liever burn all his life
 Than once for to take a wife ,
 Therefore I say, so God me save,

He shall no wife have Thou hast a sister fair and free,
 I know well his leman she will be Therefore I would she were here,
 That we might go and make good cheer
 At the wine somewhere

YOUTH

I pray you hither thou her do bring
 For she is to my liking

PRIDE

Sir, I shall do my diligence
 To bring her to your presence

YOUTH

Hie thee apace, and come again ,
 To have a sight I would be fain
 Of that lady free.

RIOT

Sir, in faith I shall tell you true,
 She is fresh and fair of hue,
 And very proper of body ,
 Men call her Lady Lechery

YOUTH

My heart burneth, by God of might,
 Till of that lady I have a sight

(Intret Superbia cum Luxuria et dicat Superbia)

PRIDE

Sir, I have fulfilled your intent,
And have brought you in this present,
That you have sent me for

Thou art a ready messenger,
Come hither to me, my heart so dear,
Ye be welcome to me as the heart in my body

LECHERY

Sir, I thank you, and at your pleasure I am,
Ye be the same unto me

YOUTH

Masters, will ye to tavern walk?
A word with you here will I talk,
And give you the wine

LECHERY

Gentleman, I thank you verily,
And I am all ready
To wait you upon

RIOT

What, sister Lechery?
Ye be welcome to our company

LECHERY

Well, wanton, well, fie for shame!
So soon ye do express my name

What ! if no man should have known,
I-wis I shall you beat ! well, wanton, well !

A little pretty niset,¹
Ye be well nice, God wot !
Ye be a little pretty pye ! i-wis, ye go full gingerly

LECHERY

Well, I see your false eye
Winketh on me full wantonly ,
Ye be full wanton, i-wis

YOUTH

Pride, I thank you of your labour
That you had to fetch this fair flow'!

PRIDE

Lo, youth, I told thee
That I would bring her with me
Sir, I pray you tell me now,
How she doth like you ?

YOUTH

Verily, well she pleaseth me,
For she is courteous, gentle, and free
How do you, fair lady?
How fare you, tell me

LECHERY

Sir, if it please you, I do well enou',
And the better that you will wit

YOUTH

Riot, I would be at the tavern fain,
 Lest Charity us meet and turn us again
 Then would I be sorry, because of this fair lady

RIOT

Let us go again betime,
 That we may be at the wine,
 Ere ever that he come

PRIDE

Hie thee apace, and go we hence,
 We will let for none expense

YOUTH

Now we will fill the cup and make good cheer
 I trust I have a noble here
 Hark, sirs, for God Almighty, Hearest thou not how they fight?
 In faith we shall them part
 If there be any wine to sell,
 They shall no longer together dwell,
 No, then I besrew my heart

RIOT

No, sir, so mot I the,
 Let not thy servants fight within thee,
 For it is a careful life
 Evermore to live in strife,
 Therefore, if ye will be ruled by my tale,
 We will go to the ale,
 And see how we can do,
 I trust to God that sitteth on high,

To lese that little company
Within an hou[re] or two

PRIDE

Now let us go, for God's sake,
And see how merry we can make

RIOT

Now let us go apace,
And I be last there, I beshrew my face !

YOUTH

Now let us go that we were there
To make this lady some cheer

LECHERY

Verily, sir, I thank thee,
That ye will bestow it on me,
And when it please you on me to call,
My heart is yours, body and all

YOUTH

Fair lady, I thank thee ,
On the same wise ye shall have me,
Whatsoever you please

Riot, we tarry very long

RIOT

We will go even now with a lusty song

PRIDE

In faith, I will be rector of the chou

YOUTH

Go to it then hardily, and let us be agate

Abide, fellow, a word with thee
 Whither go ye, tell me ?
 Abide, and hear what I shall you tell,
 And be ruled by my counsel

Nay, no fellow ne yet mate,
 I trow thy fellow be in Newgate,
 Shall we tell thee whither we go ?
 Nay, i-wis, good John-a-Peepo !
 Who learned thee, thou mistaught man,
 To speak so to a gentleman ?
 Though his clothes be never so thin,
 Yet he is come of noble kin ,
 Though thou give him such a mock,
 Yet he is come of a noble stock,
 I let thee well to wit

RIOT

What ! Sir John,¹ what say ye ?
 Would you be fettered now ?

¹ [Intended as a sneer at Charity's pious sentiments. Sir John is the common term in old plays, and literature generally, for a parson.]

Think not too long, I pray ye ,
 If misfortune come soon enou',
 Ye shall think it a little [too] soon

YOUTH

Yet, sirs, let this cease,
 And let us talk of goodness

RIOT

He turneth his tail, he is afeard ,
 But, faith, he shall be scared ,
 He weeneth by flattering to please us again,
 But he laboureth all in vain

CHARITY.

Sir, I pray you me not spare,
 For nothing I do care
 That ye can do to me

No, whoreson ? sayest thou so?
 Hold him, Pride, and let me go ,
 I shall set a pair of rings,
 That shall set to his shins,
 And that even anon.

PRIDE

Hie thee apace and come again,
 And bring with thee a good chain,
 And hold him here still.

CHARITY

Jesus, that was born of Mary mild,
 From all evil he us shield,
 And send you grace to amend,
 Ere our life be at an end ,
 For I tell you truly,
 That ye live full wickedly ,
 I pray God it amend !

RIOT

Lo, sirs, look what I bring.
 Is not this a jolly ringing ?
 By my troth, I trow it be
 I will go with Charity
 How say'st thou, Master Charity ?
 Doth this gear please thee ?

CHARITY.

They please me well indeed !
 The more sorrow, the more meed !
 For God said, while he was a man,
Beati qui persecutionem patiuntur propter iustitiam Unto his apostles he said so,
 To teach them how they should do

PRIDE.

We shall see how they can please ,
 Sit down, sir, and take your ease ,
 Methink these same were full meet
 To go about your fair feet

By my truth, I you tell
 They would become him very well ,

Therefore lie that they were on,
Unto the tavern that we were gone

RIOT

That shall ye see anon,
How soon they shall be on ,
And after we will not tarry long,
But go hence with a meriy song

PRIDE

Let us begin all at once

YOUTH

Now have at thee, by Cock's bones,
And soon let us go !

[Exeunt Pride, Youth, Riot, and Lechery]

CHARITY

Lo, masters, here you may see beforne,
That the weed overgroweth the corn
Now may ye see all in this tide,
How vice is taken, and virtue set aside
Yonder ye may see youth is unstable,
But evermore changeable ,
And the nature of men is frail,
That he wotteth not what may avail Virtue for to make
O good Lord, it is a pitiful case,
Sith God hath lent man wit and grace
To choose of good and evil,
That man should voluntarily
To such things himself apply,
That his soul should spill

Christ that was crucified, and crowned with thorn,
And of a virgin for man was born,
Some knowledge send to me
Of my brother Charity

CHARITY

Dear brother Humility,
Ye be welcome unto me,
Where have ye be so long ?

I shall do you to understand,
That I have said mine evensong ,
But, sir, I pray you tell me now,
How this case happened to you ?

I shall tell you anon ,
The fellows that I told you on,
Have me thus arrayed

HUMILITY

Sir, I shall undo the bands
From your feet and your hands
Sir, I pray you tell me anon Whither they be gone,
And when they come again

CHARITY

Sir, to the tavern they be gone,
And they will come again anon,
And that shall you see.

HUMILITY

Then will we them exhort
Unto virtue to resort,
And to forsake sin

CHARITY

I will help you that I can
To convert that wicked man

YOUTH

Aback ! gallants, and look unto me,
And take me for your special,
For I am promoted to high degree,
By right I am king eternal ,
Neither duke ne lord, baron ne knight,
That may be likened unto me,
They be subdued to me by right,
As servants to their masters should be

Ye be welcome to this place here ,
We think ye labour all in vain ,
Wherefore your brains we will stir,
And keel¹ you a little again

Sayest thou my brains thou wilt stir,
I shall lay thee on the ear,
Were thou born in Trumpington,²

² [Trumpington is in Essex, a county proverbial, rightly or wrongly, for the stupidity of its inhabitants]

And brought up at Hognorton ?¹
 By my faith it seemeth so ,
 Well, go, knave, go !

CHARITY

Do by our counsel and our reed ,
 And ask mercy for thy misdeed ,
 And endeavour thee, for God's sake ,
 For thy sins amends to make Ere ever that thou die

Hark, Youth, for God avow ,
 He would have thee a saint now ,
 But, Youth, I shall you tell
 A young saint an old devil ,
 Therefore I hold thee a fool ,
 And thou follow his school

YOUTH.

I wauant thee I will not do so ,
 I will be ruled by you two

PRIDE

Then shall ye do well ,
 If ye be ruled by our counsel ,
 We will bring you to high degreee ,
 And promote you to dignity

¹ [Equivalent to calling him a churl. See Hazlitt's "Proverbs," 1869, pp 315 316 and 489, and Halliwell's "Dictionary," v Hognorton. But in none of the instances cited there do we find Trumpington mentioned.]

HUMILITY.

Sir, it is a pitiful case,
 That ye would forsake grace.
 And to vice apply

YOUTH

Why, knave, doth it grieve thee !
 Thou shalt not answer for me
 When my soul hangeth on the hedge once,
 Then take thou, and cast stones,
 As fast as thou wilt !

CHARITY

Sir, if it please you to do thus,
 Forsake them and do after us,
 The better shall you do

RIOT

Sir, he shall do well enou',
 Though he be ruled by neither of you ,
 Therefore crake no longer here,
 Lest you have on the ear,
 And that a good knock.

PRIDE.

Lightly see thou avoid the place,
 Or I shall giv thee on the face Youth, I trow that he would Make you holy, ere ye be old ,
 And, I swear by the rood,
 It is time enough to be good,
 When that ye be old.

YOUTH

Sir, by my truth, I thee say
I will make merry, whiles I may,
I cannot tell you how long

PRIDE.

Yea, sir, so mot I thrive,
Thou art not certain of thy life,
Therefore thou wert a stark fool
To leave mirth and follow their school

HUMILITY

Sir, I shall him exhort
Unto us to resort,
And you to forsake

PRIDE

Ask him if he will do so,
To forsake us and follow you two,
Nay, I warrant you, nay!

HUMILITY

That shall you see even anon,
I will unto him gone,
And see what he will say

Hardily go on thy way,
I know well he will say nay

YOUTH

Yea, sū, by God that me dear bought,
 Methink ye laboui all for nought ,
 Weenest thou that I will for thee
 Or thy brother Chārity Forsake this good company ?
 Nay, I warrant you

PRIDE

No, master, I pray you of that,
 For anything forsake us not,
 And all our counsel rule you by ,
 Ye may be emperor, ere ye die

YOUTH

While I have life in my body,
 Shall I be ruled by Riot and thee

RIOT

Sir, then, shall ye do well,
 For we be true as steel ,
 Sir, I can teach you to play at the dice,
 At the queen's game ¹ and at the Irish ² ,
 The treygobet ³ and the hazard ⁴ also,
 And many other games mo ,
 Also at the cards I can teach you to play,
 At the t̄riump and one-and-thirty,

YOUTH.

I thank thee, Riot, so mot I the,
 For the counsel thou hast given me,
 I will follow thy mind in every thing,
 And guide me after thy learning

CHARITY

Youth, leave that counsel, for it is nought,
 And amend that thou hast miswrought,
 That thou may'st save that God hath bought

YOUTH

What say ye, Master Charity?
 What hath God bought?
 By my troth, I know not Whether he goeth in white or black,
 He came never at the stews,
 Nor in no place, where I do use,
 I wis he bought not my cap,

² [We do not find this mentioned elsewhere. The same remark applies to aums ace]

³ [Halliwell, in his "Dict" v Pink, says — "A game, the same as post and pair." Surely this is not so. It seems rather to be used, here at least, in the sense of gamble. But pink, after all, may signify something very different, viz., lechey.]

Nor yet my jolly hat,
 I wot not what he hath bought for me
 And he bought anything of mine,
 I will give him a quart of wine,
 The next time I him meet

CHARITY

Sir, this he did for thee,
 When thou wast bond, he made thee free,
 And bought thee with his blood

YOUTH

Sir, I pray you tell me,
 How may this be
 That I know, I was never bond Unto none in England

CHARITY

Sir, I shall tell you—
 When Adam had done great trespass,
 And out of Paradise exiled was,
 Then all the souls, as I can you tell,
 Were in the bondage of the devil of hell,
 Till the Father of heaven, of his great mercy,
 Sent the Second Person in Trinity
 Us for to redeem,
 And so with his precious blood
 He bought us on the rood,
 And our souls did save

How should I save it, tell me now,
 And I will be ruled after you
 My soul to save

What, youth, will ye forsake me ?
I will not forsake thee

HUMILITY

I shall tell you shortly,

For that you have offended

PRIDE.

Youth, wilt thou do so ?
Follow them, and let us go ?
Marry, I trow, nay

YOUTH

Here all sin I forsake,
And to God I me betake ,
Good Lord, I pray thee have no indignation,
That I, a sinner, should ask salvation

CHARITY

Now thou must forsake Pride,
And all Riot set aside

PRIDE

I will not him forsake,
Neither early ne late ,
I ween'd he would not forsake me ,
But if it will none otherwise be,
I will go my way

YOUTH

Sir, I pray God be your speed,
And help you at your need

RIOT

I am sure thou wilt not forsake me,
Nor I will not forsake thee

YOUTH

I forsake you also,
And will not have with you to do

RIOT

And I forsake thee utterly Fie on thee, caitiff, fie !
Once a promise thou did me make,
That thou would me never forsake,
But now I see it is hard
For to trust the wretched world ,
Farewell, masters, everychone

For your sin look ye mourn,
And evil creatures look ye turn ,
For your name, who maketh inquisition,
Say it is Good Contrition
That for sin doth mourn

Here is a new array,
For to walk by the way,
Your prayer for to say

Here be beads¹ for your devotion,
 And keep you from all temptation ,
 Let not vice devour
 When you see misdoing men,
 Good counsel give them,
 And teach them to amend

YOUTH

For my sin I will mourn,
 All creatures I will turn ,
 And when I see misdoing men,
 Good counsel I shall give them,
 And exhort them to amend

CHARITY

Then shall ye be an heritor of bliss,
 Where all joy and mirth is

YOUTH

To the which eternal
 God bring the persons all Here being, amen !

Thus have we brought our matter to an end
 Before the persons here present ,
 Would every man be content,
 Lest another day we be shent

HAWKINS'S PREFACE.

THE editor has been favoured with two copies of this moral interlude, one of which is preserved in the library belonging to Lincoln Cathedral,¹ the other is in the possession of Mr Garrick. It was written in the reign of Edward the Sixth by one R. Wever, of whom the editor can give the reader no further information. The former was printed at London by Abraham Vele. The latter is a very different copy from the other. A more obsolete spelling runs through the whole, and it contains great variations besides, which the reader will find at the bottom of each page. The conclusion being imperfect, the printer's colophon is wanting, so that it cannot be known where this edition was printed. According to Dr Percy's tables, it was printed by Richard Pinson.²

The design of this interlude was to expose the super-

stitions of the Romish Church, and to promote the Reformation. The stage (as the learned Dr Percy observes) in those days literally was what wise men have always wished it—a supplement to the pulpit chapter and verse are as formally quoted as in a sermon. See “Prologue of the Messenger,” &c. From this play we learn that most of the young people were new gospellers, or friends to the Reformation, and that the old were tenacious of the doctrines imbibed in their youth, for thus the Devil is introduced lamenting the downfall of superstition—

The old people would believe still in my laws,
But the younger sort lead them a contrary way,
They will not believe, they plainly say,
In old traditions and made by men,
But they will live as the scripture teacheth them, &c

And in another place Hypocrisy urges—

The world was never merry,
Since children were so bold,
Now every boy will be a teacher,
The father a fool, and the child a preacher

[This is certainly a piece of rather heavy and tedious morality, replete with good instruction, but didactic to a fault. It is deficient in the curious allusions, which abound in other productions of the same kind, and even that mysterious character, Abominable Living, whose introduction promises some amusement and illustration, moves off the scene almost immediately after her first appearance, while Little Bess, whose entrance might have been a vehicle for some diverting or sentimental situation, does not “come on” at all.]

LUSTY JUVENTUS.

THE PROLOGUE OF THE MESSENGER

FOR as much as man is naturally prone
To evil from his youth, as Scripture doth recite,¹
It is necessary that he be speedily withdrawn
From concupiscence of sin, his natural appetite An² order to bring up youth Ecclesiasticus doth write,—
An untamed horse will be hard, saith he,
And a wanton child wilful will be Give him no liberty in youth, nor his folly excuse,
Bow down his neck, and keep him in good awe,
Lest he be stubborn no labour refuse
To train him to wisdom and teach him God's law,
For youth is frail and easy to draw
By grace to goodness, by nature to ill
That nature hath ingrafted, is hard to kill Nevertheless, in youth men may be best
Trained to virtue by godly mean,
Vice may be so mortified and so supprest,

² And, Copland's edition

That it shall not break furth, yet the root will remain,
 As in this interlude by youth you shall see plain,
 From his lust by Good Counsel brought to godly conversation,
 And shortly after to frail nature's inclination

The enemy of mankind, Satan, through Hypocrisy

Feigned or chosen holiness of man's blind intent, Forsaking¹ God's word, that leadeth right way,
 Is brought to Fellowship and ungracious company,
 To Abominable Living till he be wholly bent,
 And so to desperation, if good counsel were not sent

From God, that in trouble doth no man forsake
 That doth call, and trust in him for Christ's sake

Finally, youth by God's special grace
 Doth earnestly repent his abominable living
 By the doctrine of good counsel, and to his solace God's mercy entereth to him reciting God's merciful promises, as they be in writing
 He believeth and followeth, to his great consola-tion²

And these parts ye shall see briefly played in their fashion

Here entereth LUSTY JUVENTUS, or YOUTH, singing as followeth

In a herber³ green, asleep⁴ where as I lay,
 The buds sang sweet in the middes of the day,
 I dreamed fast of mirth and play

 Which is my joy and heart's delight
 In youth is pleasure, in youth is pleasure

LUSTY JUVENTUS, or YOUTH, spealeth

What, ho? Are they not here?
 I am disappointed, by the blessed mass!
 I had thought to have found them making good cheer,
 But now they are gone to some secret place
 Well, seeing they are gone, I do not greatly pass, Another time I will hold them as much, Seeing they break³ promise, and keep not the tweche⁴

What shall I do now to pass away the day?
 Is there any man here that will go to game?
 At whatsoever he⁵ will play,
 To make one I am ready to the same
 Youth full of pleasure is my proper name
 To be alone is not my appetite,⁶ For of all things in the world I love merry company
 Who knoweth where is e'er a minstrel?

 My companions ² are at it, I know right well,
 They do not all this while in a corner sit Against another time they have taught me ³ wit
 I beshrew their hearts for serving me this, ⁴
 I will go seek them, whether I hit or miss

Here entereth GOOD COUNSEL, to whom YOUTH yet speaketh

Well 1-met, father, well 1-met
 Did you hear any minstrels play,
 As you came hitherward upon your way ²
 And if you did, I pray you wish ⁵ me thither,
 For I am going to seek them, and, in faith, I know not whither

GOOD COUNSEL

Sir, I will ask you a question by your favour What would you with the minstrel do?

JUVENTUS

Nothing but have a dance or two,
 To pass the time away in pleasure

¹ The word fittē sometimes signified a part or division of a song, but in its original acceptation a poetic strain, verse, or poem from being applied to music, the word was easily transferred to dancing, as in the above passages. See Dr Percy's "Relics of Anc Eng Poetry," vol II, p 297 [edit 1765] —Hawkins

GOOD COUNSEL

If that be the matter, I promise you sure,
 I am the more sorrier that it should so be,
 For there is no such passing the time appointed in the Scripture,
 Nor yet thereunto it doth not agree !
 I wish that ye would so use your liberty,
 To walk as you are bound to do,
 According to the vocation which God hath called you to

JUVENTUS

Why, sir, are you angry, because I have spoken so ?
 By the mass, it is alone for my appetite

GOOD COUNSEL

Show me your name, I pray you heartily,
 And then I will my mind express

JUVENTUS

My name is called Juventus, doubtless Say what you will, I will give you the hearing

GOOD COUNSEL

For as much as God hath created you of nothing, Unto his own likeness by spiritual illumination,
 It is unmeet that ye should lead your living
 Contrary to his godly determination Saint Paul unto the Ephesians giveth good exhortation,

Saying, walk circumspectly, redeeming the time ,
 That is, to spend it well, and not to wickedness incline

No, no, hardly none of mine ,
 If I would live so stait, you might count me a fool ,
 Let them keep those rules, which are doctors divine ,
 And have be brought up all their days in school

GOOD COUNSEL

Moses in the law exhorteth his people ,
 As in the book of Deuteronomy he doth plainly
 write ,
 That they should live obedient and thankful ,
 For in effect ¹ these words he doth recite
 All ye this day stand before the Lord's sight ,
 Both princes, rulers, elders, and parents , Children, wives, young, and old , therefore obey his commandments

I am too young to understand his documents ,² Wherefore did all they stand before his presence ?

GOOD COUNSEL

To enter with God peace and alliance , Promising that they would him honour, fear, and serve

² Teachings

All kind of people were bound in those covenants,
 That from his law they should never swerve,
 For God useth no partiality

JUVENTUS

What, am I bound, as well as the clergy,
 To learn and follow his precepts and law ?

GOOD COUNSEL

Yea, surely, or else God will withdraw
 His mercy from you, promised in his covenant,
 For, except you live under his obedience and awe,
 How can you receive the benefits of his Testament ?
 For he that¹ submitteth himself to be a servant,
 And his master's commandment will not fulfil nor regard,
 According as he hath done, is worthy his reward

JUVENTUS

It is as true a saying as ever I heard,
 Therefore your name, I pray you² now tell,
 For, by my truth, your communication I like wonders well

GOOD COUNSEL

My name is called Good Counsel

JUVENTUS

Good Counsel ?
 Now, in faith, I cry you mercy

¹ That, omitted in Copland's edition

² You, omitted in Copland's edition

I am sorry that I have you thus offended ,
 But, I pray you, bear with me patiently,
 And my misbehaviour shall be amended
 I know my time I have iudely spended,
 Following my own lust, being led by ignorance ,
 But now I hope of better knowledge through your acquaintance

GOOD COUNSEL

I pray God guide you with his gracious assistance Unto the knowledge of his truth, your ignorance to undo,
 That you may be one of those numbered Christians,
 Which followeth the lamb whither he doth go
 The lamb Jesus Christ my meaning is so,
 By sure faith and confidence in his bitter death and passion,
 The only price of our health and salvation

JUVENTUS

Sir, I thank you for your heafty oration
 And now, I pray you, show me your advisement,
 How I may live in this my vocation,
 According to God's will and commandment

GOOD COUNSEL

First of all, it is most expedient,
 That you exercise yourself in continual prayer,
 That it might please the Lord omnipotent
 To send unto you his holy spirit and comforter,
 Which will lead you every day and hour
 Unto the knowledge of his word and verity, Wherein you may learn to live most christianly

JUVENTUS

O Lord, grant me of thy infinite¹ mercy

[He kneeleth

The true knowledge of thy² law and will,
 And illumine my heart with spirit continually,
 That I may³ be apt thy holy precepts to fulfil, Strengthen me, that I may persevere still Thy commandments to obey
 And then shall I never slip nor fall away

[He riseth

GOOD COUNSEL

Full true be these words, which Christ himself did say,
 He that seeketh shall surely find

KNOWLEDGE entereth

Behold, Youth, now rejoice we may,
 For I see Knowledge of God[s]⁴ Verity stand here behmd
 He is come now to satisfy your mind
 In those things which you will desire, Therefore together let us approach him near

KNOWLEDGE

Now the Lord bless you all with his heavenly benediction,
 And with his fiery love your hearts inflame,
 That of his merciful promises you may have the fruition,
 The subtlety of the devil utterly to defame
 Now, good Christian audience, I will express my name,
 The True Knowledge of God's Verity, this¹ my name doth hight, Whom God hath appointed to give the blind then sight

GOOD COUNSEL

All praise be given to that Lord of might,
 Which hath appointed you hither at this present hour,
 For I trust you will so instruct youth aright,
 That he shall live according to God's pleasure

JUVENTUS

And I thank Jesus Christ my Saviour,
 That he is come to my company

KNOWLEDGE

I thank you, my friends, most heartily
 For your gentle salutation

Sir, I will be so bold, by your deliberation,
 To open my mind unto you now,

¹ Thus, Copland's edition, but the sense is the same

Trusting that, by your good exhortation,
 I shall learn those things which I never knew
 This one thing chiefly I would learn of you,
 How I may my life in this my vocation lead,
 According as God hath ordained and decreed

KNOWLEDGE

The prophet David saith, that the man is blessed,
 Which doth exercise himself in the law of the Lord,
 And doth not follow the way of the wicked,
 As the first psalm doth plainly record ¹
 The four score and thirteenth psalm thereunto doth accord,
 Blessed is the man whom thou teachest, O Lord saith he,
 To learn thy ² law, precepts, word, or verity
 And Christ in the gospel saith manifestly Blessed is he which heareth the Word of God and keepeth it,
 That is, to believe his word and live accordingly,
 Declaring the faith by the fruits of the spirit, Whose fruits are these, as St Paul to the Galatians doth write,
 Love, joy, peace, long suffering, and faithfulness,
 Meekness, goodness, temperance, and gentleness

GOOD COUNSEL

By ³ these words, which unto you he doth express
 He teacheth that you ought to have a steadfast faith,

² The, Copland's edition

³ Be, Copland's edition

Without the which¹ it is impossible doubtless To please God, as Saint Paul saith
 Where faith is not, godly living decayeth, For whatsoever is not of faith, saith St Paul, is sin,
 But where a perfect faith is, there is good working

JUVENTUS

It seemeth to me, that this is² your meaning,
 That, when I observe God's commandments and the works of charity,
 They shall prevail unto me nothing,
 Except I believe to be saved thereby

KNOWLEDGE

No, no, you are deceived very blindly,
 For faith in Christ's merits doth only justify,
 And make us righteous in God's sight

JUVENTUS

Why should I then in good³ works delight, Seeing I shall not be saved by them?

GOOD COUNSEL

Because they are required of all Christian men,
 As the necessary fruits of true repentance

KNOWLEDGE

But the reward of the heavenly inheritance
 Is given us through faith, for Christ's deserving,

¹ The which, omitted in Copland's edition

² Is, omitted, Copland's edition

³ God, Vele's edition

As St Paul declareth in the fourth chapter to the Romans, Therefore we ought not to work as hirelings
 Seeing Christ hath purged us once from all our wicked living,
 Let us no more wallow therem,
 But persever, like good banches, bearing fruit in him

JUVENTUS

Now I know where about you have been My elders never taught me so before

GOOD COUNSEL

Though you elders were blind, doubt not you therefore,
 For Saint Peter saith, vain is the conversation
 Which ye receive by your elders' traditions,

JUVENTUS

I will gladly receive your godly admonitions
 But yet, I pray you, show me the cause
 That they, being men of great discretions,
 Did not instruct me in God's laws,
 According to his will and ordinance

KNOWLEDGE.

Because they themselves were wrapped in ignorance,
 Being deceived by false preachers

JUVENTUS

O Lord, deliver me from wicked teachers,
 That I be not deceived with their false doctrine

GOOD COUNSEL

To God's word you must only incline,
All other doctrine clean set apart

JUVENTUS

Surely that I will from the bottom of my heat,
And I thank the living God which hath given me the knowledge

To know his doctrine from the false and pewart,¹
I being yet young and full tender of age,
And that he hath made me partake¹ of the heavenly inheritage,

Of his own² mercy, and not of my deserving,
For hell I have deserved by my sinful working
I know right well, my elders and parents Have of a long time deceived be
With blind hypocrisy and superstitious intents, Trusting in their own works, which is nothing but vanity,

Their steps shall not be followed for me
Therefore, I pray you, show me a brief conclusion,
How I ought to live in Christian religion

KNOWLEDGE

The first beginning of wisdom, as saith the wise Solomon,
Is to fear God with all thy³ heart and power,
And then thou must believe all his promises without any exception,
And that he will perform them both constant and sure

² One, Copland's edition

And then, because he is thy only Saviour,
 Thou must love him with all thy soul and mind,
 And thy neighbour as thyself, because he hath so assigned

To love my neighbour as myself? I cannot be so¹ kind
 I pray you tell me, what mean you?

KNOWLEDGE

My meaning is, as Christ saith in the sixth chapter of Matthew,²
 To do to him as you would be done to

JUVENTUS

I pray God give me grace so for to do,
 That unto his will I may be obedient

GOOD COUNSEL

Here you shall receive Christ's testament
 To comfort your conscience, when need shall require,
 To learn the contents thereof, see that you be diligent,
 The which all Christian men ought to desire,
 For it is the well or fountain most clear,
 Out of the which doth spring sweet consolation
 To all those that³ thirst after eternal salvation

² Chap Math, Copland's edition

³ Which, Vele's edition

Therein shall you find most wholesome preservation
 Both in troubles, persecutions, sickness, and adversity,
 And a sure defence in the time of temptation,
 Against whom the devil cannot prevail with all his army
 And, if you persevere therein unfeignedly,
 It will set your heart at such quietness and rest,
 Which cannot¹ never be turned with storms nor tempest

GOOD COUNSEL

With this thing you must neither flatter nor jest,
 But stedfastly believe it every day and hour,
 And let your conversation openly protest,
 That of your heart it is the most precious treasure
 And then your godly example shall other men procure
 To learn and exercise the same also
 I pray God strengthen you so for to do

JUVENTUS

Now for this godly knowledge which you have brought me to,
 I beseech the living God reward² you again
 From your company I will never depart nor go,
 So long as in this life I do remain,
 For in this book I see manifest and plain,
 That he that followeth his own lusts and imagination,

¹ Not, omitted in Vele's edition

 Which in comparison passeth all woldly gloriacion,
 Which cannot endure, but shortly cease
 Both the time and hour I may now bless,
 That I met with you, father Good Counsel,
 To bring me to the knowledge of this³ heavenly gospel

KNOWLEDGE

This your profession I like very well,
 So that you intend to live according,
 I pray God, your living do not rebel,
 But ever agree unto your saying,
 That, when ye shall make accounts or reckoning,
 Of this talent which you have received,
 You may be one of those, with whom the Lord shall be pleased

That they be greatly abused
 I set up great idolatry
 With all¹ kind of filthy sodometry,
 To give mankind a fall

The author seems here to ridicule the blasphemous questions discussed by the schoolmen among the Papists in his time, as, Whether the Pope be God or man, or a mean betwixt both? &c See Archbishop Whitgift's "Sermon before Queen Elizabeth" 1574 Sig B 2 — Haulms [In Germany they have a similar saying at present, and it seems to be used in this sense God is a good person, he lets things take their course]

The greater the occasion is to all Christian men

GOOD COUNSEL

Then I perceive you have forgotten clean
 The promise, that you made unto Knowledge and me .

You said such fleshly fruits should not be seen,
 But to God's word your life should agree
 Full true be the words of the prophet Hosè, No verity nor knowledge of God is now in the land,
 But abominable vices hath gotten the upper

 You go about my living to despise,
 But you will not see the beams in your own eyes

GOOD COUNSEL

For this thing most chiefly I do complain²
Have you not professed the knowledge of Christ's

And yet, I think, no more ungodliness doth reign
In any wicked heathen, Turk, or infidel,
Who can devise that sin or evil,
That you practise not from day to day?
Yea, and count it nothing but a jest or a play
Alas! what wantonness remaineth in your flesh!
How desirous are you to accomplish your own will!
What pleasure and delight have you in wickedness?
How diligent are you your lusts to fulfil!
St Paul saith, that you ought your fleshly lusts to kill
But unto his teaching your life ye will not frame
Therefore in vain you bear a Christian name

 May very justly laugh me to scorn,

GOOD COUNSEL

Why, Youth, art thou fallen into desperation ?
 What, man, pluck up thine heart, and rise,
 Although thou see nothing now but thy condemnation,
 Yet it may please God again to open thy eyes
 Ah, wretched creature, what doest thou surmise ?

The Lord, by his prophet Ezekiel, saith in this wise plainly,

As in the thirty-third chapter it doth appear
Be converted, O ye children, and turn unto me ,
And I shall remedy the cause of your departure ,
And also he saith in the eighteenth chapter ,
I do not delight in a sinner's death ,
But that he should convert and live thus the Lord saith

JUVENTUS

Then must I give neither credit nor faith Unto St Paul's saying, which this man did allege

GOD'S MERCIFUL PROMISES

Yes, you must credit them according unto knowledge,
 For St Paul speaketh of those which resist the truth by violence,
 And so end their lives without repentance
 Thus ¹ Saint Augustine ² doth them define,
 It unto the Lord's word you do you ears incline,
 And observe these things which he hath commanded,
 This sinful state, in the which you have lain,
 Shall be forgotten and never more remembered
 And Christ himself in the gospel hath promised,
 That he, which in him unfeignedly doth believe,
 Although he were dead, yet shall he live

JUVENTUS [He riseth]

These comfortable sayings doth me greatly move
 To arise from this wretched place

For me his mercy sake thou shalt obtain his grace,
 And not for thine own deserts, this must thou know
 For my sake alone ye shall receive solace,
 For my sake alone, he will thee mercy show
 Therefore to him, as it is most due,
 Give most hearty thanks with heart unfeigned,
 Whose name for evermore be praised

O sinful flesh, thy pleasures are but vain
 Now I find it true, as the scripture doth say, Broad³ and pleasant is the path which leadeth unto pain,
 But unto eternal life full nariow is the way⁴
 He that is not led by God's spirit surely goeth astray,
 And all that ever he doth shall be clean abhorred, Although he brag and boast never so much of God's word
 O subtle Satan, full deceitful is thy snare,
 Who is able thy falsehood to disclose?
 What is the man, that thou doest favour or spare
 And doest not⁵ tempt him eternal joys to lose?
 Not one in the world, surely I suppose Therefore happy is the man, which doth truly wait,
 Always to refuse thy deceitful and ciafty bait

And of an earnest professor of Christ's gospel
Thou madest me an hypocrite, blind and pervert,
And from virtue unto vice thou hadst clean turned

First, by hypocrisy thou didst me move,
The mortification of the flesh clean to forsake,
And wanton desires to embrace and love,
Alas ! to think on it my heart doth yet quake
Under the title of Friendship to me ye spake,
And so to wicked Fellowship did me bring,
Which brought me clean to Abominable Living
Thus, I say, Satan did me deceive,
And wrapped me in sin many a fold,
The steps of Good Counsel I did forsake and leave,
And forgot the words which before to me he told

Persuade you in no wise God's word to abuse,
But see that you stand steadfastly unto the vanity,
And according to the rule thereof your doings frame and use,
Neither kindred nor fellowship shall you excuse,
When you shall appear before the judgment seat,
But your own secret conscience shall then give an audit
All you that be young, whom I do now represent,
Set your delight both day and night on Christ's Testament

But in God's fear everywhere see that you abide

INTRODUCTION.

[SOME account of this piece may be found in Haslewood's Preface, which precedes our text of "Thersites" It may be added, that whatever shortcomings may be apparent in these productions from a literary and dramatic point of view, they are by no means devoid of a fair share of shrewd humour and pointed vivacity, and are, moreover, not unimportant contributions, especially when their early date is considered, to the illustration of manners The low-comic view predominates in most of them, and we meet with occasional grossnesses which, so far as "Jack Juggler" itself is concerned, are the more remarkable when it is recollect that the performance was presented by youths In none of these ruder specimens of the drama is any distribution to be found into acts and scenes, nor is it invariably clear how the entrances and exits were introduced

‘Plautus’s tragico-comedy of ‘Amphitryon’ has been perhaps more popular on the modern stage than any other ancient play. It is the groundwork of one of the best comedies of the great Molière, and of a once favourite English drama, which Sir Walter Scott, in an introduction not everywhere distinguished by his usual judgment, styles ‘one of the happiest effusions of Dryden’s comic muse.’ It has been several times translated into our tongue, and by Bonnell Thornton, with an elegance, spirit, and correctness that leave nothing to be desired.

“This is not the place to expatiate on the merits of the Latin play, but the assertion may be hazarded without much risk, that both the original and Thornton’s version are, taken as wholes, considerably superior to any of the imitations. Indeed, the character of Alcmena, as drawn by Plautus, so truly innocent, simple, and loving, her distress on being suspected by her husband, and his agony at finding her, as he believes, dishonest, immediately suggest, as the accomplished translator has observed, a not discreditable comparison with our ‘Othello.’ We may add, too, that the conclusion of the fourth act, where Amphitryon, ‘perplexed in the extreme,’ and defying the gods in the intensity of his despair, rushes to the house to wreak his vengeance on his family, and is struck down by lightning, rises to grandeur, almost to sublimity, and must produce immense dramatic effect in the representation. Very little of this sort of thing appears in the modern play. What Dryden has made of Alcmena will be understood, when we observe that he adapted her to the standard of contemporary taste Yet Scott has strangely said, that, 'in the scenes of a higher cast, Dryden far outstrips both the French and Roman poet!'

"The reader will not find any such important characters as gods and generals in the drama before him 'Jack Juggler' can hardly be called an imitation of the comedy of Plautus It is the play of 'Amphitryon' without the part of Amphitryon, and resembles more than anything else one of those pieces made up of the comic portions of plays, which used to be called 'drolls' In fact, 'Jack Juggler' is a caricature even of the comic parts All dignity is stripped from the characters, every ridiculous feature is much exaggerated, and the language and incidents are ingeniously vulgarized to reduce everything to the grotesque, the quaintness of the expressions greatly heightening the effect to a modern reader The amiable Alcmena becomes a 'verie cursed shrew' General Amphitryon sinks into Master Boungiace, a commonplace 'gentilman,' some what subject, we suspect, to being imposed upon by his wife and servants Bromia, the insignificant and well-conducted attendant, is changed into the smart and malicious Aulsoon tripe and goo

"There is no proper plot to the piece, the whole action consisting in getting Jenkin Careawale into as much trouble as possible, when he is left to go to bed with aching bones, and wishing bad luck to his second self He does not get off with a beating from Jack and his master The servant-maid lends her tongue, and her mistress both tongue and hand, for the amusement of the spectators and the revenge of Jack Juggler. Those who are acquainted with the tedious performances of those times will recognise with pleasure an uncommon raciness and spirit in this little interlude. The lines are rude, but sharp and bold, and Dame Coye may even be called a well-drawn and original character.

"In Mr Wright's 'Early Mysteries, and other Latin Poems of the Twelfth and Thirteenth Centuries,' will be found a rather clever and once very popular poem, founded on 'Amphitryon,' the 'Geta' of Vital of Blois. Amphitryon in this is a student of Greek learning, and the awkwardness of Almena's situation, after Jupiter's visit is got over, by her assuring her confiding husband that she thinks the whole affair must have been a dream."

THE PROLOGUE

*Interpone tuis interdum gaudia curs,
Vt possis animo quemvis sufferre laborem*
Do any of you know what Latin is this ?
Or else would you have an Expositorem
To declare it in English per sensum planior em ?
It is best I speak English, or else within a while I may percase mine own self with my Latin be guile

The two verses, which I rehearsed before,
I find written in the Book of Cato the wise
Among good precepts of living a thousand moe,
Which to follow there he doth all men advise
And they may be Englished briefly in this wise Among thy careful business use sometime mirth and joy,
That no bodily work thy wits break or 'noy

For the mind (saith he), in serious matters occupied,
If it have not some quiet mirth and recreation Interchangeable admixed, must needs be soon weareied,

And (as who should say) tried through continual operation
Of labour and business without relaxation
Therefore intermix honest mirth in such wise That your strength may be refreshed, and to labours suffice

For as meat and drink, natural rest and sleep,
For the conservation and health of the body,
Must needs be had, so the mind and wits to keep Pregnant, fresh, industrious, quick and lusty,
Honest mirth and pastime is requisite and necessary
For, Quod caret alterna, regere durabile non est Nothing may endure (saith Ouid) without some rest

Example proof hereof in earth is well found,
Manifest, open, and very evident,
For except the husbandman suffer his ground Sometimes to rest, it woll bear no fruit veria
ment,
Therefore they let the field lie every second year
To the end that, after rest, it may the better corn bear

Thus then (as I have said) it is a thing natural,
And naturally belonging to all living creatures,
And unto man especially above others all,
To have at times convenient pastance, mirth and pleasures,
So they be joined with honesty, and kept within due measures,
And the same well allowed not only the said Cato,
But also the Philosophers, Plutarch, Socrates, and Plato

And Cicer o Tullius, a man sapient and wise,
Willeth the same, in that his first book,
Which he wrote and entituled of an honest man's office
Who so is disposed thereupon to look,
Where to define and affirm he boldly on him took,
That to hear interludes is pastime convenient
For all manner men, and a thing congruent

He reckoneth that namely as a very honest disport,
And above all other things commendeth the old comedy,
The hearing of which may do the mind comfort,
For they be replenished with precepts of philosophy
They contain much wisdom, and teach prudent policy,
And though they be all writers of matters of none importance,
Yet they show great wit, and much pretty conveyance

And in this manner of making Plautus did excel, As recordeth the same Tullius, commanding him by name
Wherefore this maker delighteth passingly well
To follow his arguments, and draw out the same,
For to make at seasons convenient pastimes, mirth and game
As now he hath done this matter, not worth an oyster shell,
Except percase it shall fortune to make you laugh well

And for that purpose only this maker did it write, Taking the ground thereof out of Plautus first comedy

And the first sentence of the same, for higher things indite

In no wise he would, for yet the time is so queasy,
That he that speaketh best, is least thank-worthy Therefore, sith nothing but trifles may be had,
You shall hear a thing that only shall make you merry and glad

And such a trifling matter, as when it shall be done, Ye may report and say ye have heard nothing at all

Therefore I tell you all, before it be begun,
That no man look to hear of matters substantial,
Nor matters of any gravity either great or small
For this maker showed us that such manner things,
Do never well beseem little boys' handlings

Wherefore, if ye will not sourly your brows bend
At such a fantastical conceit as this,
But can be content to hear and see the end,
I woll go show the Players what your pleasure is,
Which to wait upon you I know be ready ere this
I woll go send them hither into your presence, Desiring that they may have quiet audience

JACK JUGGLER

Our Lord of heaven and sweet Saint John Rest you merry, my masters everychone,
And I pray to Christ and sweet Saint Stephen Send you all many a good even !

And you too, sir, and you, and you also,
 Good even to you an hundred times and a thousand mo

Now by all these crosses of flesh, bone, and blood,
 I reckon my chance iight marvellous good,
 Here now to find all this company,
 Which in my mind I wished for heartily,
 For I have laboured all day, till I am weary,
 And now am disposed to pass the time, and be merry

And I think none of you, but he would do the same,
 For who woll be sad, and needeth not, is foul to blame,

And as for me, of my mother I have been taught
 To be merry when I may, and take no thought
 Which lesson I bare so well away,

That I use to make merry once a day
 And now, if all things happen right,
 You shall see as mad a pastime this night,
 As you saw this seven years, and as proper a toy
 As ever you saw played of a boy

I am called Jack Juggler of many an one,
 And in faith I woll play a juggling cast anon
 I woll conjure the nowl,¹ and God before !

Or else let me lese my name for evermore
 I have it devised, and compassed how,
 And what ways I woll tell and show to you
 You all know well Master Bongiace,²

The gentleman that dwelleth here in this place ?
 And Jenkin Careaway his page, as cursed a lad,
 And as ungracious as ever man had,
 An unhappy wage, and as foolish a knave withal,
 As any is now within London wall

This Jenkin and I been fallen at great debate
For a matter, that fell between us a-late ,
And hitherto of him I could never revenged be,
For his master maintaineth him, and loveth not
me ,
Albeit, the very truth to tell,
Nother of them both knoweth me not very well
But against all other boys the said gentleman Maintaineth him all that he can
But I shall set little by my wit,
If I do not Jenkin this night 1equite
Ere I sleep, Jenkin shall be met,
And I trust to come partly out of his debt ,
And when we meet again, if this do not suffice,
I shall pay Jenkin the residue in my best wise It chanced me right now in the other end of the next street
With Jenkin and his master in the face to meet
I abode there a while, playing for to see
At the bucklers, as well became me
It was not long time , but at the last Back cometh my cousin Careaway homeward full fast
Pricking, prancing, and springing in his short coat,
And pleasantly singing with a merry note
Whither away so fast ? tarry a while, said one
I cannot now, said Jenkin, I must needs be gone
My master suppeth hereby at a gentleman's place,
And I must thither fetch my dame, Mistress Bon-grace
But yet, ere I go, I care not much
At the bucklers to play with thee one fair touch
To it they went, and played so long,
Till Jenkin thought he had wrong
By Cock's precious podstick, I will not home this night,
Quod he, but as good a stripe on thy head light !

Within half an hour, or somewhat less,
Jenkin left playing, and went to fetch his mistress ,
But by the way he met with a fruiterer's wife
There Jenkin and she fell at such strife
For snatching of an apple, that down he cast
Her basket, and gathered up the apples fast,
And put them in his sleeve, then came he his way
By another lane, as fast as he may ,
Till he came at a corner by a shop's stall,
Where boys were at dice, faring at all ,
When Careaway with that good company met,
He fell to faring withouten let,
Forgetting his message, and so did he fare,
That when I came by, he gan swear and stare,
And full bitterly began to curse,
As one that had lost almost all in his purse
For I know his old guise and condition,
Never to leave, till all his money be gone
For he hath no money but what he doth steal,
And that woll he play away every deal
I passed by, and then called unto my mind
Certain old reckonings, that were behind Between Jenkin and me, whom partly to recompense

I trust by God's grace, ere I go hence
This garments, cape, and all other gear,
That now you see upon me here,
I have done on all like unto his
For the nonce , and my purpose is To make Jenkin believe, if I can,
That he is not himself, but another man
For except he hath better luck than he had,
He woll come hither stark staling mad
When he shall come, I woll handle my captive so That he shall not well wot whither to go
His mistress, I know, she woll him blame,
And his master also will do the same ,

Because that she of her supper deceived is,
 For I am sure they have all supped by this
 But, and if Jenkin would hither resort,
 I trust he and I should make some sport,
 If I had sooner spoken, he would have sooner been here,
 For me seemeth I do his voice hear

CAREAWAY

Ah, sir, I may say I have been at a feast
 I have lost two shillings and sixpence at the least Marry, sir, of this gains I need make no boast,
 But, the devil go with all, more have I lost !
 My name is Careaway, let all sorrow pass !
 I woll ere to-morrow night be as rich as ever I was ,
 Or at the furthest within a day or twain
 My master's purse shall pay me again
 Therefore ho ! Careaway, now woll I sing hei, hei !
 But, by the Lord, now I remember another thing
 By my faith, Jenkin, my mistress and thou Are like to agree—God knoweth how—
 That thou comest not for her incontinent,
 To bring her to supper, when thou were sent ?
 And now they have all supped, thou wolt surely abi',
 Except thou imagine some pretty and crafty lie
 For she is, as all other women be,
 A very cursed shrew, by the blessed Trinity,
 And a very devil, for if she once begin
 To fight or chide, in a week she woll not lin ,
 And a great pleasure she hath specially now of late
 To get poor me now and then by the pate ,
 For she is an angry piece of flesh, and soon displeased,
 Quickly moved, but not lightly appeased

We use to call her at home Dame Coy,
A pretty gingerly piece, God save hei and St Loy '
As dainty and nice as an halfpenny-worth of silver spoons,
But vengeable melancholy in the afternoons
She useth for her bodily health and safeguard
To chide daily one fit to supperward ,
And my master himself is worse than she,
If he once thoroughly angered be
And a maid we have at home, Alison Trip-and-go .
Not all London can show such other two
She simpereth, she pranketh, and jetteth without fail,
As a peacock that hath spread and showeth her gay tail
She minceth, she bridleth, she swimmeth to and fro
She treadeth not one hair awry, she trippeth like a doe
Abroad in the street, going or coming homeward
She quavereth and warbleth, like one in a galliard, Every joint in her body and every part
O, it is a jolly wench to mince and divide a fart
She talketh, she chatteth like a pie all day,
And speaketh like a parrot popinjay,
And that as fine as a small silken thread,
Yea, and as high as an eagle can fly for a need.
But it is a spiteful lying girl, and never well,
But when she may some ill tale by me tell ,
She woll, I wairant you, anon at the first
Of me imagine and say the woist,
And whatsoever she to my mistress doth say,
It is written in the gospel of the same day
Therefore I woll here with myself devise
What I may best say, and in what wise
I may excuse this my long tarryng,
That she of my negligence may suspect nothing
For if the fault of this be found in me,
I may give my lfe for halfpennies three

[Hic cogitabundo similis sedeat]

Let me study this month, and I shall not find
 A better device than now is come to my mind
 Mistress, woll I say, I am bound by my duty
 To see that your womanhood have no injury ,
 Foi I hear and see more than you now and then,
 And yourself partly know the wanton wiles of men

When we came yonder, there did I see My master kiss gentlewomen two or three,
 And to come among otheis me-thought I see,¹
 He had a marvellous great phantasy
 Anon he commanded me to run thence for you,
 To come sup there, if you would , but (I wot not how)

My heart giudged, mistrusting lest that I, being away,

My master would some light cast play ,
 Whereupon, mistress, to see the end,
 I tarried half supper-time, so God me mend !
 And, besides that there was such othei company
 As I know your mistress-ship setteth nothing by , Gorgeous dames of the court and gallants also,
 With doctors and other rufflers mo

At last when I thought it time and season
 I came to certify you, as it was reason ,
 And by the way whom should I meet
 But that most honest gentleman in the street,
 Which the last week was with you here,
 And made you a basket and bouncing cheer ?
 Ah, Jenkin, quod he, good speed ! how farest thou ?
 Mairy, well, God yield it you, master, quod I how do you ?

How doth thy mistress ? is she at home ?
 Yea, sir, quod I, and suppeth all alone ,

And but she hath no manner good cheer,
 I am sure she would gladly have you there
 I cannot come now, said he, I have business, But thou shalt carry a token from me to thy mistiess

Go with me to my chamber at yon lane-end,
 And I woll a dish of costards unto her send
 I followed him, and was bold, by your leave,
 To receive and bring them here in my sleeve
 But I would not for all England, by Jesus Christ,
 That my master Bongrace hereof wist,
 Or knew that I should any such gear to you bring,
 Lest he misdeem us both in some worse thing,
 Nor show him nothing of that I before said,
 For then indeed, sir, I am arrayed ¹
 If you do, I may nothing hereafter unto you tell,
 Whether I see my master do ill or well
 But ² if you now this counsel keep,
 I woll ease you perchance twice in a week,
 You may say you were sick, and your head did ache
 That you lusted not this night any supper make,
 Specially without the doors, but thought it best
 To abide at home and take your rest,
 And I will to my master to bring him home,
 For you know he woll be angry, if he come alone
 This woll I say and face it so well,
 That she shall believe it every deal
 How say you, friends, by the arms of Robin Hood, Woll not this excuse be reasonable good?
 To muse for any better great folly it is,
 For I may make sure reckoning of this
 That, and if I would sit stewing this seven year,
 I shall not else find how to save me all clear

JACK JUGGLER

But if thou come from that gate, thou knave,
 I woll fet thee by the sweet locks,¹ so God me save !

JENKIN CAREAWAY

Woll the whoreson fight indeed, by mine honesty ?
 I know no quarrel he hath to me ,
 But I would I were within the house ,
 And then I would not set by him a louse ,
 For I fear and mistrust such quarreling thieves
 See, how he beginneth to strike up his sleeves !

JACK JUGGLER

His arse maketh buttons now, and who lusteth to feel,
 Shall find his heart creeping out at his heel,
 Or else lying hidden in some corner of his hose,
 If it be not already dropped out of his nose
 For, as I doubt not but you have heard beforne,
 A more dastaid coward knave was never born.

JENKIN CAREAWAY

The devil set the house a-fire ! I trow it is accurst ,
 When a man hath most haste, he speedeth worst ,
 If I be robbed or slain, or any harm get,
 The fault is in them, that doth not me in let

Compare the "Pardoner and the Friar" (1 231)—

"O! by Jis I' sh lug thee by the sweet ears ,' and a passage in the present piece—

"I have forgotten with tousing by the hair "

And I durst jeopard an hundred pound,
 That some bawdry might now within be found ,
 But except some of them come the sooner,
 I shall knock such a peal, that all England shall wonder

Knock at the gate hardily again, if thou dare ,
 And seeing thou wolt not by fair words beware,
 Now, fists, me-thinketh, yesterday seven past,
 That four men asleep at my feet you cast,
 And this same day you did no manner good Nor weie not washen in wain blood

What whoreson is this that washeth in wain blood ?
 Some devil broken loose out of hell for wood !
 Four hath he slain, and now well I see,
 That it must be my chance the fifth to be '
 But rather than thus shamefully to be slain, Would Christ my friends had hanged me, being but years twain !
 And yet, if I take good heart and be bold,
 Percase he woll be more sober and cold

JACK JUGGLER

Now, hands, bestir you about his lips and face,
 And strike out all his teeth without any grace !
 Gentleman, are you disposed to eat any fist-meat ?—

JENKIN CAREAWAY

I have supped, I thank you, sir, and list not to eat
 Give it to them that are hungry, if you be wise

It¹ shall do a man of your diet no harm to sup twice
This shall be your cheese to make your meat digest,
For I tell you these hands weigheth of the best

I shall never escape see, how he waggeth his hands!

JACK JUGGLER

With a stroke they will lay a knave in our Lady - bonds,²
And this day yet they have done no good at all

JENKIN CAREAWAY

Ere thou essay them on me, I pray thee lame them on the wall—
But speak you all this in earnest or in game?—
If you be angry with me, truly you are to blame,
For have you any just quarrel to me?

JACK JUGGLER

Ere thou and I part that woll I show thee—

JENKIN CAREAWAY

Or have I done you any manner displeasure?—

² Original has boons The sense appears to be that "Jack Juggler" will, by killing Careaway, leave him to the mercy of the Virgin

JACK JUGGLER

Ere thou and I part, thou shalt know, thou mayest be sure—

By my faith, if you be angry without a cause,
You shall have amends made with a couple of straws,
By thee I set whatsoever thou art,
But for thy displeasure I care not a farthing,
May a man demand whose servant you be?

JACK JUGGLER

My master's servant I am, for verity!

JENKIN CAREAWAY

What business have you at this place now?

JACK JUGGLER

Nay, marry, tell me what business hast thou?
For I am commanded for to watch and give diligence
That, in my good Master Bongrace's absence,
No misfortune may happen to his house, certain

JENKIN CAREAWAY

Well now I am come, you may go hence again,
And thank them that so much for my master hath done
Showing them that the servants of the house be come home,
For I am of the house, and now in woe I go

JACK JUGGLER

I cannot tell whether thou be of the house or no,
 But go no near,¹ lest I handle thee like a stranger,
 Thank no man but thyself, if thou be in any danger

JENKIN CAREAWAY

Manly, I defy thee, and plainly unto thee tell,
 That I am a servant of this house, and here I dwell

JACK JUGGLER

Now, so God me snatch, but thou go thy ways,
 While thou mayest, for this forty days
 I shall make thee not able to go nor ride
 But in a dung-cart or wheelbarrow lying on one side

I am a servant of this house, by these ten bones—²

JACK JUGGLER

No more prating, but get thee hence at once!

Why, my master hath sent me home in ³ his mes-

JENKIN CAREAWAY

What, wilt thou let me from mine own master's house?

JACK JUGGLER

Be tredging, or in fauth you bear me a souse¹
Here my master and I have our habitation,
And hath continually dwelled in this mansion,
At the least this dozen years and odd,
And here woll we end our lives, by the grace of God

JENKIN CAREAWAY

Why, then, where shall my master and I dwell?

JACK JUGGLER

At the devil, if you lust I cannot tell

In nomine patris, now this gear doth pass
For a little before supper here our house was,
And this day in the morning I woll on a book swear,
That my master and I both dwelled here

JACK JUGGLER

Who is thy master? tell me without lie,
And thine own name also let me know shortly,
For, my masters all, let me have the blame,
If this knave know his master or his own name

¹ Blow.

My master's name is Master Bongrace
 I have dwelled with him a long space,
 And I am Jenkin Careaway his page—

What, ye drunken knave, begin you to rage !
 Take that art thou Master Bongrace's page ?
 [Strikes him

It I be not, I have made a very good voyage—

JACK JUGGLER

Darest thou to my face say thou art I ?

CAREAWAY

I would it were true and no lie ,
 For then thou shouldest smart, and I should bet,¹ Where as now I do all the blows get

And is Master Bongrace thy master, doest you then say ?

CAREAWAY

I woll swear on a book, he was once this day—

And for that thou shalt somewhat have,
 Because thou presumest, like a saucy lying knave,
 To say my master is thine Who is thy master now? [Strikes him again]

By my troth, sir, whosoever please you
 I am your own, for you beat me so,
 As no man but my master should do

JACK JUGGLER

I woll handle thee better, if fault be not in fist—[Prepares to strike him]

Help! save my life, masters, for the passion of Christ!—

Why, thou lousy thief, dost thou cry and roar?—

CAREAWAY

No, faith, I woll not cry one whit more Save my life, help, or I am slain—

JACK JUGGLER

Yea, dost thou make a rumouring yet again?
 Did not I bid thee hold thy peace?—

In faith, now I leave crying now I cease help, help !

Who is thy master ?

Master Bongrace—

JACK JUGGLER

I woll make thee change that song, ere we pass this place,
For he is my master, and again to thee I say,
That I am his Jenkin Careaway
Who art thou ? now tell me plain

CAREAWAY

Nobody but whom please you, certain-

JACK JUGGLER

Thou saimest even now thy name was Careaway.

CAREAWAY

I cry you mercy, sir, and forgiveness pray
I said amiss, because it was so to-day,
And thought it should have continued alway,
Like a fool as I am and a drunken knave
But in faith, sir, ye see all the wit I have,
Therefore I beseech you do me no more blame,

But give me a new master and another name
 For it would grieve my heart, so help me God,
 To run about the streets like a masterless nod¹

JACK JUGGLER

I am he that thou saidest thou were,
 And Master Bongrace is my master, that dwelleth
 here,
 Thou art no point, Careaway, thy wits do thee fail

CAREAWAY

Yea, manly, sir, you have beaten them down into my tail,
 But, sir, might I be bold to say one thing
 Without any blows and without any beating?

True for a while, say on what thee lust

CAREAWAY

May a man to your honesty by your word trust?
 I pray you swear by the mass you woll do me no ill—

By my faith, I promise pardon thee I will—

CAREAWAY

What, and you keep no promise?

JACK JUGGLER

Then upon Careaway¹
 I pray God light as much or more as hath on thee to-day

CAREAWAY

Now dare I speak, so mote I the,
 Master Bongrace is my master, and the name of me
 Is Jenkin Careaway !

What, sayest thou so ?

CAREAWAY

And if thou wilt strike me, and break thy promise, do,
 And beat on me, till I stink, and till I die ,
 And yet woll I still say that I am I !

This Bedlam knave without doubt is mad—

CAREAWAY

No, by God, for all that I am a wise lad,
 And can call to remembrance every thing
 That I did this day sith my uprising ,
 For went not I with my master to-day
 Early in the morning to the tennis play ?
 At noon, while my master at his dinner sat,
 Played not I at dice at the gentleman's gate ?

Did not I wait on my master to supper-ward ?
 And I think I was not changed the way homeward !
 Or else, if thou think I lie,
 Ask in the street of them that I came by,
 And sith that I came hither into your presence,
 What man living could carry me hence ?
 I remember I was sent to fetch my mistress,
 And what I devised to save me harmless ,
 Do not I speak now ? [is] not this my hand ?
 Be not these my feet that on this ground stand ?
 Did not this other knave here knock me about the head ?
 And beat me, till I was almost dead ?
 How may it then be, that he should be I ?
 O I not myself ?—it is a shameful lie
 I woll home to our house, whosoever say nay,
 For surely my name is Jenkin Careaway.

JACK JUGGLER

I woll make thee say otherwise, ere we depart, if we can—

JENKIN CAREAWAY

Nay that woll I not in faith for no man,
 Except thou tell me what thou hast done¹
 Ever sith five of the clock this afternoon
 Rehearse me all that without any lie,
 And then I woll confess that thou art I

JACK JUGGLER

When my master came to the gentleman's place,
 He commanded me to run home a great pace,

To fet thither my mistress , and by the way
 I did a good while at the bucklers play ,
 Then came I by a wife, that did costards sell,
 And cast down her basket fair and well,
 And gathered as many as I could get,
 And put them in my sleeve here they be yet '

CAREAWAY

How the devil should they come there,
 For I did them all in my own sleeve bear ?
 He lieth not a word in all this,
 Nor doth in any one point miss
 For ought I see yet between earnest and game
 I must go seek me another name ,
 But thou mightest see all this —tell the rest that is behind,
 And there I know I shall thee a liar find

JACK JUGGLER

I ran thence homeward a contiary way,
 And whether I stopped there or nay,
 I could tell, if me lusteth, a good token ,
 But it may not very well be spoken

JENKIN CAREAWAY

Now, may I pray thee, let no man that hear,
 But tell it me privily in mine ear

JACK JUGGLER

Ay, thou lost all thy money at dice, Christ give it his curse,
 Well and truly picked before out of another man's purse !

God's body, whoreson thief, who told thee that same?

Some cunning devil is within thee, pain of shame!
In nomine patris, God and our blessed lady,
 Now and evermore save me from thy company!

JACK JUGGLER

How now, art thou Careaway or not?

CAREAWAY

By the Lord, I doubt, but sayest thou nay to that!

JACK JUGGLER

Yea, marry, I tell thee, Care-away is my name

CAREAWAY

And, by these ten bones, mine is the same!
 Or else tell me, if I be not he,
 What my name from henceforth shall be?

JACK JUGGLER

By my faith, the same that it was before,
 When I lust to be Careaway no more
 Look well upon me, and thou shalt see as now
 That I am Jenkin Careaway, and not thou
 Look well upon me, and by every thing
 Thou shalt well know that I am not lesing

CAREAWAY

I see it is so without any doubt,
 But how the devil came it about?

Whoso in England looketh on him steadily, Shall perceive plainly that he is I
 I have seen myself a thousand times in a glass ,
 But so like myself, as he is, never was ,
 He hath in every point my clothing and my gear
 My head, my cap, my shirt, and knotted hair,
 And of the same colour my eyes, nose, and lips
 My cheeks, chin, neck, feet, legs, and hips
 Of the same stature, and height, and age
 And is in every point Master Bongrace page,
 That if he have a hole in his tail,
 He is even I mine own self without any fail !
 And yet when I remember, I wot not how,
 The same man that I have ever been me thinketh
 I am now
 I know my master and his house, and my five wits
 I have
 Why then should I give credence to this foolish knave,
 That nothing intendeth but me delude and mock ?
 For whom should I fear at my master's gate to knock ?

JACK JUGGLER

Thinkest thou I have said all this in game ?
 Go, or I shall send thee hence in the devil's name ' Avoid, thou lousy lurden and precious stinking slave,
 That neither thy name knowest nor canst any master have !
 Wine-shaken pillory-peeper,¹ of lice not without a peck,
 Hence, or by Gods precious,² I shall break thy neck !

² [A common abbreviation, leaving its substantive to be supplied at pleasure]

CAREAWAY

Then, master, I beseech you heartily take the pain,
If I be found in any place, to bring me to me again

Now is not this a wonderful case,
That no man shall lese himself so in any place ?
Have any of you heard of such a thing heretofore ?
No, nor never shall, I daresay, from henceforth any more

JACK JUGGLER [Aside]

While he museth and judgeth himself upon,
I will steal away for a while, and let him alone [Erit Jack Juggler]

Good Lord of heaven, where did I myself leave ?
Or who did me of my name by the way bereave ?
For I am sure of this in my mind,
That I did in no place leave myself behind
If I had my name played away at dice,
Or had sold myself to any man at a price,
Or had made a fray, and had lost it in fighting,
Or it had been stolen from me sleeping,
It had been a matter, and I would have kept patience ,
But it spiteth my heart to have lost it by such open negligence
Ah, thou wholeson, drowsy, drunken sot !
It were an alms-deed to walk ¹ thy coat,
And I shrew him that would for thee be sorry,
To see thee well curried by and by ,

And, by Christ, if any man would it do,
 I myself would help thereto
 For a man may see, thou whoreson goose,
 Thou wouldest lese thine arse, if it were loose !
 Albeit I would never the deed believe,
 But that the thing itself doth show and pieve¹
 There was never ape so like unto an ape,
 As he is to me in feature and shape,
 But what woll my master say, trow ye,
 When he shall this gear hear and see ?
 Will he know me, think you, when he shall see
 me ?

If he do not, another woll as good as he
 But where is that other I ? whither is he gone ?
 To my master, by Cock's precious passion
 Either to put me out of my place,
 Or to accuse me to my master Bongrace !
 But I woll after, as fast as I can flee
 I trust to be there as soon as he
 That if my master be not ready home to come,
 I woll be here again as fast as I can run
 In any wise to speak with my mistress,
 Or else I shall never escape hanging doubtless

DAME COY

I shall not sup this night, full well I see ,
 For as yet nobody cometh for to fet me
 But good enough, let me alone
 I woll be even with them every-chone
 I say nothing, but I think somewhat, i-wis
 Some there be that shall hear of this !
 Of all unkind and churlish husbands this is the cast,
 To let their wives sit at home and fast ,

¹ Prove

While they be forth, and make good cheer
 Pastime and sport, as now he doth there
 But if I were a wise woman, as I am a mome,
 I should make myself, as good cheer at home
 But if he have thus unkindly serv'd me,
 I woll not forget it this months three,
 And if I wist the fault were in him, I pray God I be dead,
 But he should have such a curry,¹ ere he went to bed,
 As he never had before in all his life,
 Nor any man else have had of his wife !
 I would iate him and shake him after such a sort,
 As should be to him a corrosive full little to his comfort !

ALLISON TRIP-AND-GO

If I may be so bold, by your mistress-ship's license,
 As to speak and show my mind and sentence,
 I think of this you may the boy thank,
 For I know that he playeth you many a like prank,
 And that would you say, if you knew as much as we,
 That his daily conversation and behaviour see,
 For if you command him to go speak with some one,
 It is an hour, ere he woll be gone,
 Then woll he run forth, and play in the street,
 And come again, and say that he cannot with him meet

DAME COY.

Nay, nay, it is his master's play
 He serveth me so almost every third day,

But I woll be even with him, as God give me joy,
 And yet the fault may be in the boy—
 As ungracious a graft, so mot I thive,
 As any goeth on God's ground alive !

My wit is breeched in such a brake,
 That I cannot devise what way is best to take
 I was almost as far as my master is,
 But then I began to remember this,
 And to cast the worst, as one in fear
 If he chance to see me and keep me there,
 Till he come himself, and speak with my mistress
 Then am I like to be in shrewd distress
 Yet were I better, thought I, to turn home again
 And first speak with her, certain—
 Cock's body, yonder she standeth at the door !
 Now is it worse than it was before
 Would Christ I could get again out of her sight
 For I see by her look she is disposed to fight
 By the Lord, she hath there an angry shrew's look—

Lo, yonder cometh that unhappy hooe !

CAREAWAY

God save me, mistress, do you know me well ?

DAME COY

Come near¹ hither unto me, and I shall thee tell.
 Why, thou naughty villain, is that thy guise,

¹ Nearer

To jest with thy mistress in such wise?
 Take that to begin with, and God before!
 When thy master cometh home, thou shalt have moie
 For he told me, when he forth went,
 That thou shouldest come back again incontinent
 To bring me to supper where he now is,
 And thou hast played by the way, and they have done by this
 But no force I shall, thou mayest trust me,
 Teach all naughty knaves to beware by thee

CAREAWAY

Forsooth, mistress, if ye knew as much as I,
 Ye would not be with me half so angry,
 For the fault is neither in my master, nor in me, nor you,
 But in another knave that was here even now,
 And his name was Jenkin Careaway—

DAME COY

What, I see my man is disposed to play!
 I ween he be drunken or mad, I make God a vow!

CAREAWAY

Nay, I have been made sober and tame, I, now —
 I was never so handled before in all my life
 I would every man in England had so beaten¹ his wife!
 I have forgotten with tousling by the hair,
 What I devised to say a little ere

Have I lost my supper this night through thy negligence?

CAREAWAY

Nay then were I a knave, mistress, saving your reverence

DAME COY

Why, I am sure that by this time it is done—

CAREAWAY

Yea, that it is more than an hour agone—

DAME COY

And was not thou sent to fetch me thither?—

Yea, and had come right quickly hitherto,
 But that by the way I had a great fall,
 And my name, body, shape, legs, and all
 And met with one, that from me did it steal,
 But, by God, he and I some blows did deal!
 I would he were now before your gate,
 For you would pummel him jollily about the pate

Truly this wage-pasty¹ is either drunken or mad

¹ [A term of contempt, perhaps of no very definite or clear signification, but it does not seem to be glossed.]

CAREAWAY

Never man suffered so much wlong as I had ,
 But, mistiess, I should say a thing to you Tarry, it woll come to my remembrance even now
 I must needs use a substantial premeditation ,
 For the matter leth greatly me upon
 I beseech your mistress-ship of pardon and forgiveness,
 Desiring you to impute it to my simple and rude dulness
 I have forgotten what I had ¹ thought to have said
 And am thereof full ill-afraid ,
 But when I lost myself, I knew very well,
 I lost also that I should you tell

Why, thou wretched villain, doest thou me scorn and mock,
 To make me to these folk a laughing-stock ?
 Ere thou go out of my hands, thou shalt have something ,
 And I woll reckon better in the morning

CAREAWAY

And if you beat me, mistress, avise you ,
 For I am none of your servants now
 That other I is now your page,
 And I am no longel in your bondage

Now walk, precious thief, get thee out of my sight !

And I charge thee come in my presence no more this night
 Get thee hence, and wait on thy master at once

Many, sir, this is handling for the nonce
 I would I had been hanged, before that I was lost,
 I was never this¹ canvassed and tossed
 That if my master, on his part also,
 Handle me, as my mistress and the other I² do,
 I shall surely be killed between them three,
 And all the devils in hell shall not save me
 But yet, if the other I might have with me part,
 All this would never grieve my heart

[Enter Jack Juggler]

JACK JUGGLER

How say you, masters, I pray you tell,
 Have not I requited my merchant well?
 Have not I handled him after a good sort?
 Had it not been pity to have lost this sport?
 Anon his master, on his behalf,
 You shall see how he woll handle the calf!
 If he throughly angered be,
 He woll make him smart, so mot I the
 I would not for a price of a new pair of shone,
 That any part of this had been undone,
 But now I have revenged my quarrel,
 I woll go do off this mine apparel,
 And now let Careaway be Careaway again,
 I have done with that name now, certain,

² i.e., Jack Juggler

Except peraventure I shall take the self-same weed
 Some other time again for a like cause and need [Enter Bongrace and Careaway

BONGRACE

Why, then, darest thou to presume to tell me,
 That I know is no wise possible for to be ?

CAREAWAY

Now, by my truth, master, I have told you no lie ,
 And all these folks knoweth as well as I,
 I had no sooner knocked at the gate,
 But straightway he had me by the pate ,
 Therefore, if you beat me, till I fart and shit again,
 You shall not cause me for any pain ,
 But I woll affirm, as I said before,
 That when I came near, another stood at the door

BONGRACE

Why, thou naughty villain, darest thou affirm to me
 That which was never seen nor hereafter shall be ?
 That one man may have two bodies and two faces,
 And that one man at one time may be in two places ?
 Tell me, drankest thou anywhere by the way ?

CAREAWAY

I shrew me, if I drank any more than twice to-day, Till I met even now with that other I,
 And with him I supped and drank truly ,
 But as for you, if you gave me drinck and meat,
 As oftentimes as you do me beat,
 I were the best-fed page in all this city

But, as touching that, you have on me no pity,
And not only I, but all that do you serve,
For meat and drink may rather starve

BONGRACE

What, you saucy malapert knave,
Begin you with your master to prate and rave?
Your tongue is liberal and all out of frame
I must needs conjure it, and make it tame Where is that other Careaway that thou said was here?

CAREAWAY

Now, by my christendom, sir, I wot ne'er?

BONGRACE

Why, canst thou find no man to mock but me?

CAREAWAY

I mock you not, master, so mot I the,
Every word was true that I you told

BONGRACE

Nay I know toys and pranks of old,
And now thou art not satisfied nor content,
Without regard of my biddings and commandment,
To have played by the way as a lewd knave and negligent,
When I thee on my message home sent,
But also wouldest willingly me delude and mock,
And make me to all wise men a laughing-stock
Showing me such things as in no wise be may,

To the intent thy lewdness may turn to jest and play,
Therefore if thou speak any such thing to me again,
I promise it shall be unto thy pain

CAREAWAY

Lo, is not he in miserable case,
That serveth such a master in any place?
That with force woll compel him that thing to deny,
That he knoweth true, and hath seen with his eye?

Was it not, trowest thou, thine own shadow?

CAREAWAY

My shadow could never have beaten me so!

BONGRACE

Why, by what reason possible may such a thing be?

CAREAWAY

Nay, I marvel and wonder at it more than ye,
And at the first it did me curstly meve¹
Nor I would mine own eyes in no wise believe,
Until that other I beat me so,
That he made me believe it, whether I would or no
And if he had yourself now within his reach,
He would make you say so too, or else beshit your breech

¹ Move

I durst a good meed and a wager lay,
That thou layest down and slepst by the way,
And dreamed all this, that thou hast me told

CAREAWAY

Nay, there you lie, master, if I might be so bold,
But we rise so early that, if I had,
I had done well, and a wise lad
Yet, master, I would you understood,
That I have always been trusty and good,
And fly as fast as a bear in a cage,
Whensoever you send me in your message,
In faith, as for this that I have told you,
I saw and felt it as waking as I am now
For I had no sooner knocked at the gate,
But the other-I knave had me by the pate,
And I durst to you on a book swear,
That he had been watching for me there,
Long ere I came, hidden in some privy place,
Even for the nonce to have me by the face

MASTER BONGRACE

Why, then, thou spakest not with my wife ?

CAREAWAY

No, that I did not, master, by my life,
Until that other I was gone,
And then my mistress sent me after anon,
To wait on you home in the devil's name
I ween the devil never so beat his dame !

MASTER BONGRACE.

And where became that other Careaway ?

By mine honesty, sir, I cannot say,
 But I warrant he is now not far hence,
 He is here among this company, for forty pence

MASTER BONGRACE

Hence, at once seek and smell him out,
 I shall rap thee on the lying knave's snout
 I woll not be deluded with such a glossing lie, Nor give credence, till I see it with my own eye

CAREAWAY

Truly, good sir, by your mastership's favour,
 I cannot well find a knave by the savour,
 Many here smell strong, but none so rank as he
 A stronger-scented knave than he was cannot be
 But, sir, if he be haply found anon,
 What amends shall I have for that you have me
 done?

MASTER BONGRACE

If he may be found, I shall walk his coat

CAREAWAY

Yea, for our lady's sake, sir, I beseech you spare him not,
 For it is some false knave withouten doubt
 I had rather than forty pence we could find him out,
 For, if a man may believe a glass,
 Even my very own self it was
 And here he was but even right now,
 And stepped away suddenly, I wot not how

Of such another thing I have neither heard ne seen,
By our blessed lady, heaven queen !

MASTER BONGRACE

Plainly it was thy shadow, that thou didst see ,
For, in faith, the other thing is not possible to be

CAREAWAY

Yes, in good faith, sir, by your leave,
I know it was I by my apples in my sleeve,
And speaketh as like me as ever you heard ¹
Such hair, such a cap, such hose and coat,
And in everything as just as four pence to a groat
That if he were here, you should well see,
That you could not discern nor know him from
me ,
For think you, that I do not myself know ?
I am not so foolish a knave, I trow Let who woll look him by and by,
And he woll depose upon a book that he is I ,
And I dare well say you woll say the same ,
For he called himself by my own name
And he told me all that I have done ,
Sith five of the clock this afternoon ,
He could tell when you were to supper set [When] you send me home my mistress to fet ,
And showed me all things that I did by the way—

What was that ?

CAREAWAY

How I did at the bucklers play,
 And when I scattered a basket of apples from a stall,
 And gathered them into my sleeve all,
 And how I played after that also—

BONGRACE

Thou shalt have, boy, therefore,¹ so mote I go,
 Is that the guise of a trusty page,
 To play, when he is sent on his master's message ²

DAME COY

Lay on and spare not, for the love of Christ,
 Joll his head to a post,² and favour your fist!
 Now for my sake, sweetheart, spare and favour your hand,
 And lay him about the ribs with this wand

CAREAWAY

Now mercy that I ask of you both twain
 Save my life, and let me not be slain
 I have had beating enough for one day
 That a mischief take the other-me Careaway!
 That if ever he come to my hands again,
 I-wis it shall be to his pain
 But I marvel greatly, by our Lord Jesus,
 How he-I escaped, I-me beat me thus
 And is not he-I an unkind knave,
 That woll no more pity on myself have?

² [Beat his head against a post]

Here may you see evidently, i-wis,
 That in him-me no drop of honesty is Now a vengeance light on such a churlish knave
 That no more love toward myself have !

I knew very,¹ sweet-heart, and said right now,
 That no fault thereof should be in you

BONGRACE

No, truly, good bedfellow, I were then much unkind,
 If you at any time should be out of my mind

DAME COY

Surely, I have of you a great treasure,
 For you do all things which may be to my pleasure

I am sorry that your chance hath now been so ill
 I would gladly been unsupped, so you had your fill ,
 But go we in, pigsme, that you may sup ,
 You have cause now to thank this same hang-up ,
 For had not he been, you had fared very well

I bequeath him with a hot vengeance to the devil of hell,
 And heartily I beseech him that hanged on the rood,

¹ Verily

That he never eat nor drink that may do him good,
And that he die a shameful death, saving my
charity !

CAREAWAY

I pray God send him such prosperity,
That hath caused me to have all this business
But yet, sirs, you see the charity of my mistress
She liveth after a wonderful charitable fashion ,
For I assure you she is always in this passion,
And scarcely one day throughout the whole yea^r
She woll wish any man better cheer,
And some time, if she well-angered be,
I pray God (woll she say) the house may sink under me !

But, masters, if you happen to see that other I ,
As that you shall, it is not very likely,
Nor I woll not desire you for him purposely to look,

For it is an uncomparable unhappy hook ,
And if it be I , you might happen to seek,
And not find me out in an whole week
For when I was wont to run away,
I used not to come again in less than a month or tway

Howbeit, for all this I think it be not I ,
For, to show the matter indeed truly,
I never use to run away in winter nor in vere,¹
But always in such time and season of the yea^r,
When honey lieth in the hives of bees,
And all maner fruit falleth from the trees
As apples, nuts, pears, and plums also,
Whereby a boy may live abroad a month or two

¹ Spring

This cast do I use, I woll not with you feign, Therefore I wonder if he be I, certain But, and if he be, and you meet me abroad by chance,
 Send me home to my master with a vengeance!
 And show him, if he come not here to-morrow
 night,
 I woll never receive him again, if I might,
 And in the meantime I woll give him a groat,
 That woll well and thriftily walk his coat,
 For a more ungracious knave is not even now Between this place and Calicow¹
 Nor a more frantic-mad knave in Bedlam,
 Nor a more fool hence to Jerusalem
 That if to come again percase he shall refuse,
 I woll continue as I am, and let him choose,
 And but he come the sooner, by our lady bright,
 He shall lie without the doors all night For I woll shit² up the gate, and get me to bed,
 For I promise you I have a very giddy head
 I need no supper for this night,
 Nor would eat no meat, though I might,
 And for you also, master, I think it³ best
 You go to-bed, and take your rest For who of you had been handled as I have been,
 Would not be long out of his bed, I ween,
 No more woll I, but steal out of sight
 I pray God give you all good night!
 And send you better hap and fortune,
 Than to lese yourself homeward as I have done

[Exit Careaway

¹ Calicow or Calicut, i.e., Calcutta

² Shut

³ Original has I

Somewhat it was, saith the proverb old,
That the cat winked when her eye was out,
That is to say, no tale can be told,
But that some English may be picked thereof out If so to search the Latin and ground of it men will go about,
As this trifling enterlude that before you hath been rehearsed,
May signify some further meaning, if it be well searched

Such is the fashion of the world now-a-days,
That the simple innocents are deluded,
And an hundred thousand divers ways
By subtle and crafty means shamefully abused,
And by strength, force, and violence ofttimes compelled
To believe and say the moon is made of a green cheese
Or else have great harm, and percase their life lese

And an old saying it is, that most times might,
Force, strength, power, and colourable subtlety
Doth oppress, debar, overcome, and defeat right, Though the cause stand never so greatly against equity,
And the truth thereof be knownen for never so perfit certainty
Yea, and the poor simple innocent that hath had wrong and injury,
Must call the other his good master for showing him such mercy

And as it is daily seen, for fear of further disprofyt,
He must that man his best friend and master call,
Of whom he never received any manner benefit,

And at whose hand he never han any good at all,
And must grant, affirm, or deny, whatsoever he shall

He must say the crow is white, if he be so commanded,

Yea, and that he himself is into another body changed

He must say he did amiss, though he never did offend,

He must ask forgiveness, where he did no trespass,
Or else be in trouble, care, and misery without end,
And be cast in some arrearage without any grace,
And that thing he saw done before his own face

He must by compulsion stiffly deny,
And for fear, whether he woll or not, say tongue,
you lie!

And in every faculty this thing is put in ure,
And is so universal that I need no one to name,
And, as I fear, is like evermore to endure,
For it is in all faculties a common sport and game,
The weaker to say as the stronger biddeth, or to have blame,

As a cunning sophist woll by argument bring to pass,

That the rude shall confess, and grant himself an ass

And this is the daily exercise and practise of their schools,

And not among them only, but also among all others

The stronger to compel, and make poor simple fools

To say as they command them in all manner matters
I woll name none particular, but set them all together
Without any exception, for I pray you show me
one Amongst all in the world that seeth not such fashion

He that is stronger and more of power and might,
If he be disposed to revenge his cause,
Woll soon pick a quarrel, be it wrong or right,
To the inferior and weaker for a couple of straws,
And woll against him so extremely lay the laws,
That he woll put him to the worse, either by false injury,
Or by some craft and subtlety, or else by plain tyranny

As you saw right now by example plain
Another fellow, being a counterfeit page,
Brought the gentleman's servant out of his brain,
And made him grant that himself was fallen in dotage
Bearing himself in hand that he did rage,
And when he could not bring that to pass by
reason,
He made him grant it, and say by compulsion

Therefore happy are they, that can beware
Into whose hands they fall by any such chance,
Which if they do, they hardly escape care,
Trouble, misery, and woeful grievance,
And thus I make an end, committing you to his guidance,

That made and redeemed us all, and to you that be now here
I pray God grant and send many a good new year!

THE MESSENGER The prudent Prince Solomon
doth say,
He that spareth the rod, the child doth hate,
He would youth should be kept in awe alway
By correction in time at reasonable rate
To be taught to fear God, and their parents obey,
To get learning and qualities, thereby to maintain An honest quiet life, correspondent alway
To God's law and the king's, for it is certain,
If children be noseled¹ in idleness and ill,
And brought up therein, it is hard to restrain,
And draw them from natural wont evil,
As here in this interlude ye shall see plain
By two children brought up wantonly in play, Whom the mother doth excuse, when she should chastise,
They delight in dalliance and mischief alway,
At last they end their lives in miserable wise
The mother persuaded by worldly shame,
That she was the cause of their wretched life,
So pensive, so sorrowful, for their death she became,
That in despair she would sle herself with a knife
Then her son Barnabas (by interpretation
The son of comfort), her ill-purpose do[th] stay,
By the scriptures he giveth her godly consolation,
And so concludeth, all these parts will we play

BARNABAS cometh

BARNABAS My master, in my lesson yesterday,
 Did recite this text of Ecclesiasticus
Man is prone to evil from his youth, did he say,
 Which sentence may well be verified in us
 Myself, my brother, and sister Dalilah, Whom our parents to their cost to school do find
 I tarry for them here, time passeth away,
 I lose my learning, they ever lonter behind

If I go before, they do me threat
 To complain to my mother she for their sake,
 Being her tender tidlings,¹ will me beat Lord, in this perplexity, what way shall I take ?
 What will become of them ? grace God them send To apply their learning, and their manners amend !

ISMAEL and DALILAH come in singing

*Here we comen, and here we lonen,²
 And here we will abide abide-a*

BARNABAS Fye, brother, fye, and specially you, sister Dalilah,
 Soberness becometh maids alway

DALILAH What, ye dolt, ye be ever in one song !

ISMAEL Yea, sir, it shall cost you blows, ere it be long

BARNABAS Be ye not ashamed the truands to
 play,

Losing your time and learning, and that every day ?
 Learning bringeth knowledge of God and honest living to get

DALILAH Yea, marry, I warrant you, master hoddypeak

² [I do not find this word in any other glossaries, but it occurs again below]

BARNABAS Learn apace, sister, and after to spin and sew,
And other honest housewifely points to know ISMAEL Spin, quod-a¹ yea, by the mass, and with your heels up-wind,
For a good mouse-hunt is cat after Saint Kind¹ BARNABAS Lewd speaking corrupteth good manners, Saint Paul doth say,
Come, let us go, if ye will, to school this day,
I shall be shent for tarrying so long,

[Barnabas goeth out

ISMAEL Go, get thee hence, thy mouth full of horse-dung!
Now, pretty sister, what sport shall we devise?
Thus palting² to school, I think us unwise
In summer die for thirst,³ in winter for cold,
And still to live in fear of a churl who would?

DALILAH Not I, by the mass, I had rather he hanged were,
Than I would sit quaking like a mome for fear
I am sun-burned in summer, in winter the cold
Maketh my limbs gross, and my beauty decay,
If I should use it, as they would I should,
I should never be fair woman, I dare say

ISMAEL No, sister, no, but I can tell,
Where we shall have good cheer,
Lusty companions two or three,
At good wine, ale, and beer

DALILAH O good brother, let us go,
I will never go more to-to⁴ school
Shall I never know,

² Trudging

³ Thirst

⁴ So in old copy, which is perhaps right. To to, as an intensitive, is a common form

What pastime meaneth ?

Yes, I will not be such a fool

ISMAEL Have with thee, Dalilah Farewell our school !

Away with books and all,

[They cast away their books

I will set my heart

On a merry pin,

Whatever shall befall

EULALIA Lord, what folly is in youth !

How unhappy be children now-a-days ?

And the more pity, to say the truth,

Their parents maintain them in evil ways

Which is a great cause that the world decays

For children, brought up in idleness and play,

Unthrifty and disobedient continue alway

A neighbour of mine hath children hereby,

Idle, disobedient, proud, wanton, and nice

As they come by, they do shrewd turns daily ,

Their parents so to suffer them surely be not wise

They laugh me to scorn, when I tell them mine advice ,

I will speak with their elders and warn them neighbourly

Never in better time, their mother is hereby

[Enter Xantippe

God save you, gossip, I am very fain,

That you chance now to come this way ,

I long to talk with you a word or twain,

I pray you take it friendly that I shall say

Ismael your son and your daughter Dalilah

Do me shrewd turns daily more and more,

Chide and beat my children, it grieveth me sore

They swear, curse, and scold, as they go by the way,

Giving other ill ensample to do the same,

To God's displeasure and their hurt another day,

Chastise them for it, or else ye be to blame

XANTIPPE Tush, tush, if ye have no more than that to say,

Ye may hold your tongue and get ye away,
Alas, poor souls, they sit a-school all day
In fear of a churl, and if a little they play,
He beateth them like a devil, when they come home,

Your mistress-ship would have me lay on
If I should beat them, so oft as men complain,
By the mass, within this month I should make them lame

EULALIA Be not offended, I pray you, I must say more,

Your son is suspect light-fingered to be Your daughter hath nice tricks three or four,
See to it in time, lest worse ye do see,
He that spareth the rod, hateth the child truly
Yet Salomon sober correction doth mean,
Not to beat and bounce them, to make them lame

XANTIPPE God thank you, mistress, I am well at ease

Such a fool to teach me, preaching as she please !
Dame, ye belie them deadly, I know plain
Because they go handsomely, ye disdain¹

EULALIA Then on the other² as well would I complain,
But your other son is good, and no thanks to you !

These will ye make nought, by sweet Jesu

XANTIPPE Gup, har,³ my childien nought ye lie
By your malice they shall not set a fly,
I have but one mome in comparison of his brother
Him the fool praiseth, and despiseth the other

³ Old copy, Guplade

EULALIA Well, Xantippe, better in time than too late,
Seeing ye take it so, here my leave I take [Exit XANTIPPE Marry, good leave have ye, the great God be with you !
My children or I be cursed, I think ,
They be complained on, wherever they go,
That for their pleasure they might drink Nay, by this the poor souls be come from school weary ,
I will go get them meat to make them merry

INIQUITY, ISMAEL, and DALILAH come in together

INIQUITY Lo, lo, here I bring-a ISMAEL What is she, now ye have her ?
DALILAH *A lusty minnon loner*¹ INIQUITY For no gold will I give her—
ALL TOGETHER Welcome, my honey-a !
INIQUITY O my heart ! [Here he speaketh
This wench can sing,
And play her part
DALILAH I am yours, and you mine, with all my heart
INIQUITY By the mass, it is well sung,
Were ye not sorry ye were a maid so long ?
DALILAH Fie, master Iniquity, fie, I am a maid
yet
ISMAEL No, sister, no, your maidenhead is sick INIQUITY That knave your brother will be a blab still,
I-wis, Dalilah, ye can say as much by him, if ye will DALILAH By him, quod-a ? he hath whores two or three,

¹ This word, as a verb, has occurred above. It is evidently used in a bad sense, to signify an idle, loafing person

But ich tell your minion doll,¹ by Gog's body
It skilleth not she doth hold you as much

ISMAEL Ye lie falsely, she will play me no such touch

DALILAH Not she? Yes, to do your heart good,
I could tell you who putteth a bone in your hood!

ISMAEL Peace, whore, or ye bear me a box on²
there—

DALILAH Here is mine ear, knave, strike, and thou dare!

To suffer him thus ye be no man,
If ye will not revenge me, I will find one,
To set so little by me ye were not wont—
Well, it is no matter,
Though ye do, ceteri nolunt

INIQUITY Peace, Dalilah, speak ye Latin, poor
fool?

DALILAH No, no, but a proverb I learned at school—

ISMAEL Yea, sister, you went to school, till ye were past grace,—

DALILAH Yea, so didst thou, by thy knave's face!

INIQUITY Well, no more a-do, let all this go,
We kinsfolk must be friends, it must be so Come on, come on, come on,

[He casteth dice on the board
Here they be that will do us all good

ISMAEL If ye use it long, your hair will grow through your hood

INIQUITY Come on, knave, with Christ's curse,
I must have some of the money
Thou hast picked out of thy father's purse!

DALILAH He, by the mass, if he can get his purse,

¹ Mistress

² Old copy, an

Now and then he maketh it by half the worse

ISMAEL I defy you both, whore and knave—

INIQUITY What, ye princocks, begin ye to rave?
Come on—

DALILAH Master Iniquity, by your leave,
I will play a crown or two here by your sleeve

ISMAEL Then be ye servant to a worshipful man,

Master Iniquity—a right name, by Saint John!

DALILAH What can ye say by Master Iniquity?
I love him and his name most heartily

INIQUITY God-a-mercy, Dalilah, good luck, I warrant thee,
I will shrive you both by and by [He kisseth her]

ISMAEL Come on, but first let us have a song

DALILAH I am content, so that it be not long

[Iniquity and Dalilah sing

INIQUITY Gold locks,

She must have knocks,
Or else I do her wrong

DALILAH When ye have your will

Ye were best lie still,

The winter nights be long

INIQUITY When I ne may,

Another assay,

I will take it for no wrong

DALILAH Then, by the rood,

A bone in your hood

I shall put, ere it be long

ISMAEL She matcheth you, sirrah!

INIQUITY By Gog's blood, she is the best whore in England

DALILAH It is knavishly praised, give me your hand

INIQUITY I would thou hadst such another

ISMAEL By the mass, rather than forty pound brother

INIQUITY Here, sirs, come on, seven—

[They set him

Eleven¹ at all²—

ISMAEL Do ye nick us³ beknave your noly'—

INIQUITY Ten mine—

ISMAEL (casteth dice) Six mine,
Have at it, and it were for all my father's kine
It is lost by his wounds,⁴ and ten to one'

INIQUITY Take the dice, Dalilah, cast on—

[She casteth, and they set

DALILAH Come on, five'
Thrive at fairest—

ISMAEL Gup, whore, and I at rest [he loseth]
By Gog's blood, I ween God and the devil be against me—

INIQUITY If th' one forsake thee, th' other will take thee'

ISMAEL Then is he a good fellow, I would not pass,⁵

So that I might bear a rule in hell, by the mass
To toss firebrands at these pennyfathers'⁶ pates,
I would be porter, and receive them at the gates In boiling lead and brimstone I would seeth them each one

The knaves have all the money, good fellows have none

DALILAH Play, brother, have ye lost all your money now?

ISMAEL Yea, I thank that knave and such a whore as thou

'Tis no matter, I will have money, or I will sweat,

Alas, wretched wretch that I am,
 Most miserable caitiff that ever was born,
 Full of pain and sorrow, crooked and lorn
 Stuff'd with diseases, in this world forlorn
 My sinews be shrunken, my flesh eaten with pox
 My bones full of ache and great pain
 My head is bald, that bare yellow locks ,
 Crooked I creep to the earth again
 Mine eyesight is dim, my hands tremble and shake
 My stomach abhorreth all kind of meat
 For lack of clothes great cold I take,
 When appetite serveth, I can get no meat
 Where I was fair and amiable of face,
 Now am I foul and horrible to see ,
 All this I have deserved for lack of grace ,
 Justly for my sins God doth plague me

My parents did tiddle¹ me they were to blame , Instead of correction, in ill did me maintain
 I fell to² naught, and shall die with shame ,
 Yet all this is not half of my grief and pain

The worm of my conscience, that shall never die, Accuseth me daily more and more
 So oft have I sinned wilfully,
 That I fear to be damned evermore

² Old copy, no

That here most grievously dost lament?
 Confess the truth, and I will comfort thee,
 By the word of God omnipotent
 Although your time ye have misspent,
 Repent and amend, while ye have space,
 And God will restore you to health and grace

DALILAH To tell you who I am, I dare not for shame,

But my filthy living hath brought me in this case,
 Full oft for my wantonness you did me blame,
 Yet to take your counsel I had not the grace
 To be restored to health, alas, it is past,
 Disease hath brought me into such decay,
 Help me with your alms, while my life doth last,
 That, like a wretch as I am, I may go my way

BARNABAS Show me your name, sister, I you
 pray,
 And I will help you now at your need,
 Both body and soul will I feed

DALILAH You¹ have named me already, if I durst be so bold

Your² sister Dalilah, that wretch I am,
 My wanton nice toys ye knew of old
 Alas, brother, they have brought me to this shame

When you went to school, my brother and I would play,
 Swear, chide, and scold with man and woman,
 To do shrewd turns our delight was alway,
 Yet were we tiddled, and you beaten now and then Thus our parents let us do what we would,
 And you by correction they kept thee under awe

When we grew big, we were sturdy and bold,
 By father and mother we set not a straw,
 Small matter for me, I am past,

² Old copy, you

But your brother and mine is in great jeopardy

In danger to come to shame at the last,
He frameth his living so wickedly

BARNABAS Well, sister,¹ I ever feared ye would be nought,

Your lewd behaviours sore grieve[d] my heart
To train you to goodness all means have I sought,
But in vain, yet will I play a brotherly part

For the soul is more precious, most deily bought With the blood of Christ, dying therefore To save it first a mean must be sought
At God's hand by Christ, man's only Saviour

Consider, Dalilah, God's fatherly goodness,
Which for your good hath brought you in this case Scourged you with his rod of pure love doubtless,
That, once knowing yourself, ye might call for grace

Ye seem to repent, but I doubt whether² For your sins or for the misery ye be in Earnestly repent for your sin iather,
For these plagues be but the reward of sin

But so repent that ye sin no more,
And then believe with steadfast faith,
That God will forgive you for evermore,
For Christ's sake, as the scripture saith

As for your body, if it be curable,
I will cause to be healed, and³ during your life
I will clothe you and feed you, as I am able Come, sister, go with me, ye have need of relief

[They go out

Chiefly to proceed in judgment of a felon
I tarry for the verdict of the quest,¹ ere I go

[Iniquity, Baily errand, comes in, the judge sitteth down]

Go, Baily, know whether they be all agreed, or no,
If they be so, bid them come away,
And bring their prisoner, I would hear what they say

[BAILY] I go, my Lord, I go, too soon for one
He is like to play a cast will break his neck-bone
I beseech your lor'ship be good to him
The man is come of good kin
If your lordship would be so good to me,

[He telleth him in his ear the rest may not hear]

As for my sake to set him free,
I could have twenty pound in a purse,
Yea, and your lordship a right fair horse,
Well worth ten pound—

DANIEL (the judge) Get thee away, thou hell-hound!

If ye were well examined and tried,
Perchance a false knave ye would be spied

[Iniquity goeth out, the judge speaketh still

² Here probably the word means literally briber, but bribour also means a thief. See Way's edition of the "Promptorium," p. 50, and Halliwell in v. Brybe and brybour.

If ye do not after me, ye will be hanged, I dare
say,

If thou tell no tales, but hold thy tongue,
I will set thee at liberty, ere it be long,

JUDGE (to Ismael) The Lord have mercy upon thee!

Thou shalt go to the place thou cam'st fro
Till to-morrow, nine of the clock, there to remain
To the place of execution then shalt thou go,

But see that ye wrongfully accuse no man

ISMAEL I will belie no man, but this I may
say,

Here standeth he that brought me to this way

INIQUITY My lord, he lieth like a damned knave,
The fear of death doth make him rave—

ISMAEL His naughty company and play at dice
Did me first to stealing entice

He was with me at robberies, I say it to his face,
Yet can I say more in time and space

INIQUITY Thou hast said too much, I beshrew

WORLDLY SHAME Ha, ha ! though I come in rudely, be not aghast,
 I must work afeat in all the haste ,
 I have caught two birds, I will set for the dame,
 If I catch her in my clutch, I will her tame
 Of all this while know ye not my name ?
 I am right worshipful master Worldly Shame ,
 The matter that I come now about,
 Is even thus, I put you out of doubt—

There is one¹ Xantippe, a curst shrew,
 I think all the world doth her know,
 Such a jade she is, and so curst a quean,
 She would out-scold the devil's dame, I ween

Sirs, this fine woman had babes three,
 Twain the dearest darlings that might be,
 Ismael and fair Dalilah these two
 With the lout Barnabas I have nothing to do

All was good, that these tiddlings do might

These news will I tell her, and the matter so frame,
 That she shall be thine own, master Worldly

Ha, ha, ha! —

XANTIPPE Peace, peace, she cometh hereby,
 I spoke no word of hei, no, not I,

O Mistress Xantippe, I can tell you news²
 The fair wench, your dear daughter Dalilah,
 Is dead of the pox taken at the stews,
 And thy son Ismael, that pretty boy,
 Whom I dare say you loved very well,
 Is hanged in chains, every³ man can tell
 Every man saith thy daughter was a strong whore,
 And thy son a strong thief and a murderer
 It must needs grieve you wonderous,
 That they died so shamefully both two Men will taunt you and mock you, for they say now
 The cause of their death was even very you.

XANTIPPE I the cause of their death?

[*She would sowne*⁴

WORLDLY SHAME Will ye sowne, the devil stop

⁴ Swoon

I may curse the time that I was born,
Never woman had such fortune, I dare say,
Alas, two of my children be forlorn

My fair daughter Dalilah is dead of the pox
My dear son Ismael hanged up in chains
Alas, the wind waveth his yellow locks,¹
It slayeth my heart, and breaketh my brains

Why should God punish and plague me so sore?
To see my children die so shamefully!
I will never eat bread in this world more,
With this knife will I slay myself by and by

[She would stick herself with a knife]

Enter BARNABAS

BARNABAS Beware what ye do, fye, mother, fye!
Will ye spill yourself for your own offence,
And seem for ever to exclude God's mercy?
God doth punish you for your negligence
Wherefore take his correction with patience,
And thank him heartily, that of his goodness
He bringeth you in knowledge of your trespass

For when my brother and sister were of young age,
You saw they were given to idleness and play,
Would apply no learning, but live in outrage

And men complained on them every day
Ye winked at their faults, and tiddled them alway,
By maintenance they grew to mischief and ill,
So at last God's justice did² them both spill

In that God preserved me, small thank to you
If God had not given me special grace,
To avoid evil and do good, this is true,

¹ See Hazlitt's "Popular Poetry," iv 239. The term goldylocks, curiously enough, seems to have been in early use in a contemptuous or bad sense

² Old copy, bid

I had lived and died in as wretched case,
 As they did, for I had both suffrance and space,
 But it is an old proverb, you have heard it, I think That God will have see, shall not wink.

Yet in this we may all take comfort
 They took great repentance, I heard say,
 And as for my sister, I am able to report,
 She lamented for her sins to her dying day
 To repent and believe I exhorted her alway, Before her death she believed, that God of his mercy,
 For Christ's sake would save her eternally
 If you do even so, ye need not despair,
 For God will freely remit your sins all,
 Christ hath paid the ransom, why should ye fear?
 To believe this and do well, to God for grace call
 All worldly cares let pass and fall,
 And thus comfort my father I pray you heartily,

[Xantippe goeth out
 I have a little to say, I will come by and by Right gentle audience, by this interlude ye may see,
 How dangerous it is for the frailty of youth,
 Without good governance, to live at liberty,
 Such chances as these oft happen of truth
 Many miscarry, it is the more ruth,
 By negligence of their elders and not taking pain,
 In time good learning and qualities to attain

Therefore exhort I all parents to be diligent
 In bringing up their children aye² to be circumspect, Lest they fall to evil, be not negligent,
 But chastise them, before they be sore infect Accept their well-doing, in ill them reject
 A young plant ye may plant and bow as ye will,
 Where it groweth strong, there will it abide still

² Old copy, yea

Even so by children in their tender age
Ye may work them, like wax, to your own intent
But if ye suffer them long to live in outrage,
They will be sturdy and stiff, and will not relent
O ye children, let your time be well-spent,
Apply your learning, and your elders obey,
It will be your profit another day

Now, for the Queen's royal majesty let us pray,

He kneeleth down

That God (in whose hands is the heart of all queens), May endue her highness with godly puissance alway

That her grace may long reign and prosper in all things,

In God's word and justice may give light to all queens

Let us pray for the honourable council and nobility, That they may always counsel us¹ wisdom with tranquillity,

God save the Queen, the realm, and commonalty!

[He maketh courtesy and goeth out

 You must ask it of God in true belief
 Then will he give it, and none reprove ¹

*What is the practice of a conscience pure ?
 To love and fear God, and other allure,

THE HISTORY

JACOB AND ESAU

EDITION

A newe mery and wittie Comedie or Enterlude, newely imprinted, treating vpon the Historie of Iacob and Esau, taken out of the xxviij Chap of the first booke of Moses entituled Genesis Imprinted at London by Henrie Bynneman, dwelling in Knight-rider Streete, at the signe of the Mermayde Anno Domini 1568 4to

This piece is placed earlier in the series than the mere date of publication given above would warrant, because the interlude was licensed in 1557-8, and probably published in pursuance of its registration at Stationers' Hall. The 4to of 1568 is, however, the only impression hitherto recovered, and it is of the greatest rarity. An account of this dramatic curiosity will be found in Collier's "History of English Dramatic Poetry," 1831. It is now for the first time reprinted.

PROLOGUE OF THE PLAY

In the book of Genesis it is expressed,
That when God to Abraham made sure promise,
That in his seed all nations should be blessed
To send him a son by Sarah he did not miss Then to Isaac (as there recorded it is)
By Rebecca his wife, who had long time been barren,
When pleased him, at one birth he sent sons twain

But before Jacob and Esau yet born were,
Or had either done good, or ill perpetrate
As the prophet Malachi and Paul witness bear, Jacob was chosen, and Esau reprobate
Jacob I love (saith God) and Esau I hate
For it is not (saith Paul) in man's renewing or will,
But in God's mercy, who chooseth whom he will

But now for our coming we shall exhibit here,
Of Jacob and Esau how the story was,
Whereby God's adoption may plainly appear
And also that, whatever God's ordinance was, Nothing might defeat, but that it must come to pass
That, if this story may your eyes or ears delight,
We pray you of patience, while we it recite

THE HISTORY OF JACOB AND ESAU

ACTUS PRIMA. SCÆNA PRIMA

RAGAN, the servant

ESAU, a young man, his master

[Ragan entereth with his horn at his back and his hunting staff in his hand, and leadeth three greyhounds, or one, as may be gotten

Now let me see what time it is by the starlight ?
God's for his grace, man, why it is not yet midnight !

We might have slept these four hours yet, I dare well say ,

But this is our good Esau his common play [Here he counterfeitteth how his master calleth him up in the mornings, and of his answers

What the devil aileth him ? now truly, I think plain,

He hath either some worms or botts in his brain
He scarcely sleepeth twelve good hours in two weeks

I wot well his watching maketh me have lean cheeks,

For there is none other life with him day by day,
But, up, Ragan ! up, drowsy hogshead ! I say

Why, when ² up, will it not be ² up I come anon Up, or I shall raise you in faith, ye drowsy whoreson

Why, when ² shall I fet you ² I come, sir, by and by

Up, with a wild wanion ¹ how long wilt thou lie ²
Up, I say, up, at once ¹ up, up, let us go hence
It is time we were in the forest an hour since Now the devil stop that same yalling throat (think I)

Somewhiles for from the call ¹ farewell all wink of eye ¹

Begin he once to call, I sleep no more that stound, Though half an hour's sleep were worth ten thousand pound

Anon, when I come in, and bid him good Morrow
Ah sir, up at last ² the devil give thee sorrow ¹
Now the devil break thy neck (think I by and by),
That hast no wit to sleep, nor in thy bed to lie Then come on at once, take my quiver and my bow,

Fet Lovel my hound, and my horn to blow
Then forth go we fasting an hour or two ere day,
Before we may well see either our hands or way,
And there range we the wild forest, no crumb of bread

From morning to stark night coming within our
head,

Sometimes Esau's self will faint for drink and meat,

So that he would be glad of a dead horse to eat
Yet of fresh the next Morrow forth he will again,
And sometime not come home in a whole night or twain

Nor no delight he hath, no appetite nor mind.

¹ From the time he calls

But to the wild forest, to hunt the hart or hind,
The roebuck, the wild boar, the fallow-deer, or hare

But how poor Ragan shall dine, he hath no care
Poor I must eat acorns or berries from the tree
But if I be found slack in the suit following,
Or if I do fail in blowing or hallooning,
Or if I lack my staff or my horn by my side
He will be quick enough to fume, chafe, and chide
Am I not well at ease such a master to serve,
As must have such service, and yet will let me starve ?

But, in faith, his fashions displease mo than me,
And will have but a mad end one day, we shall see
He passeth nothing on Rebecca his mother,
And much less passeth he on Jacob his brother
But peace, mum, no more I see master Esau

[Here Esau appeareth in sight, and bloweth his horn, ere he enter]

ESAU How now, are we all ready, servant
Ragan ?

Art thou up for all day, man ? art thou ready now ?

RAGAN I have been here this half hour, sir, waiting for you,

ESAU And is all thing ready, as I bad, to my mind ?

RAGAN Ye have no cause, that I know, any fault to find

Except that we disease our tent and neighbours all

With rising over early each day, when ye call

ESAU Ah, thou drowsy draffsack, wouldest thou rise at noon ?

Nay, I trow the sixth hour with thee were over-soon

RAGAN Nay, I speak of your neighbours, being men honest,

That labour all the day, and would fain be at rest Whom with blowing your horn ye disease allabouts

ESAU What care I for waking a sort of clubbish louts?

RAGAN And I speak of Rebecca your mother, our dame

ESAU Tut, I pass not, whether she do me praise or blame

RAGAN And I speak of your good father, old
 Isaac

ESAU Peace, foolish knave as for my father
 Isaac,

In case he be asleep, I do him not disease,
 And if he be waking, I know I do him please,
 For he loveth me well from mine nativity,

[Here Esau bloweth his horn again
 And never so as now for mine activity Therefore have at it once more will I blow my horn

To give my neighbour louts an hail-peal in a morn [Here he speaketh to his dogs
 Now, my master Lightfoot, how say you to this gear,

Will you do your duty to red or fallow deer?
 And, Swan, mine own good cur, I do think in my mind

The game shall run apace, if thou come far behind And ha, Takepart, come, Takepart, here how say you, child,

Wilt not thou do thy part? yes, else I am begul'd
 But I shrew your cheeks, they have had too much meat

RAGAN I blame not dogs to take it, if they may it get

But as for my part, they could have, pardè,
 A small remnant of that that ye give me

They may run light enough for ought of me they got,

I had not a good meal's-meat this week, that I wot ESAU If we have luck this day to kill hare, teg,¹ or doe,

Thou shalt eat thy bellyful, till thou ciest ho

RAGAN I thank you, when I have it, Master
Esau

ESAU Well, come on, let us go now, servant
Ragan

Is there anything more, that I should say or do ?

For perhaps we come not again this day or two

ESAU I know nothing, master, to God I make a vow,

Except you would take your brother Jacob with you

I never yet saw him with you an hunting go,

Shall we prove him once, whether he will go or no ?

ESAU No, no, that were in vain, alas, good simple mome

Nay, he must tarry and suck mother's dug at home

Jacob must keep home, I trow, under mother's wing,

To be from the tents he loveth not of all thing

Jacob loveth no hunting in the wld forest

And would feal, if he should there see any wild beast

Yea, to see the game run, Jacob would be in fear

RAGAN In good sooth, I ween he would think each hare a bear

ESAU What, brother mine, what a word call ye that ?

RAGAN Sir, I am scarce waked I spake, ere I wist what

¹ A young deer "Tegge or pricket, saillant"—Pals grave's Eclaircissement, 1530 (edit 1852, p 279)

ESAU Come on your ways, my child, take the law of the game
 I will wake you, I trow, and set your tongue in frame RAGAN O, what have you done, Master Esau, God's apes?
 ESAU Why can ye not yet refrain from letting such scapes?
 Come on, ye must have three jerks¹ for the nonce
 One— [Beats him]
 RAGAN O, for God's love, sū, have done, dispatch at once ESAU Nay there is no remedy but bide it—there is twain [Gives him another jerk] RAGAN O, ye rent my cheverel, let me be past my pain
 ESAU Take heed of hunting terms fro henceforth!—there is thrie [Jerks him again]
 RAGAN Whoop! now a mischief on all moping fools for me!
 Jacob shall keep the tents ten year for Ragan,
 Ere I move again that he hunt with Esau
 ESAU Come on, now let us go God send us game and luck,
 And if my hand serve me well—
 RAGAN (aside) Ye will kill a duck [Exeant ambo]

ACTUS PRIMI, SCÆNA SECUNDA

HANAN, ZETHAR, two of Isaac's neighbours
 HANAN Ah, sir, I see I am an early man this morn,
 I am once more beguyl'd with Esau his horn

But there is no such sturier as Esau is
 He is up day by day, before the crow piss Then maketh he with his horn such toohing and blowing,
 And with his wide throat such shouting and hallooing,
 That no neighbour shall in his tent take any rest,
 From Esau addiesseth him to the forest
 So that he maketh us, whether we will or no,
 Better husbands than we would be, abroad to go
 Each of us about our business and our wark
 But whom do I see yonder coming in the dark?
 It is my neighbour Zethar, I perceive him now

ZETHAR What, neighbour Hanan, well met, good morrow to you
 I see well now I am not beguiled alone
 But what boot to he still? for rest we can take none,
 That I marvel much of old father Isaac,
 Being so godly a man, why he is so slack
 To bring his son Esau to a better stav

HANAN What should he do in the matter, I you
 pray?
 ZETHAR O, it is no small charge to fathers, afore
 God,
 So to train their children in youth under the rod
 That, when they come to age, they may virtue ensue,
 Wicked prankes abhor, and all lewdness eschew,
 And me-thinketh Isaac, being a man as he is—
 A chosen man of God, should not be slack in this HANAN Alack, good man, what should he do more than he hath done?

I dare say no father hath better taught his son,
 Nor no two have given better example of life
 Unto their children than both he and his wife
 As by their younger son Jacob it doth appear

He liveth no loose life he doth God love and fear
 He keepeth here in the tents, like a quiet man
 He giveth not himself to wildness any when But Esau evermore from his young childhood Hath been like to prove ill, and never to be good Young it pricketh (folks do say), that will be a thorn,

Esau hath been naught, ever since he was born
 And whereof cometh this? of education?
 Nay, it is of his own ill inclination
 They were brought up both under one tuition,
 But they be not both of one disposition
 Esau is given to loose and lewd living

ZETHAR In faith, I warrant him [to] have but shrewd thriving

HANAN Neither see I any hope, that he will amend

ZETHAR Then let him even look to come to an ill end

For youth that will follow none but their own bridle,
 That leadeth a dissolute life and an idle
 Youth, that refuseth wholesome documents,
 Or to take example of their godly parents
 Youth, that is retchless, and taketh no regard, What become of themself, nor which end go forward

It is great marvel and a special grace,
 If ever they come to goodness all their life space But why do we consume this whole morning in talk

Of one that hath no reck ne care, what way he walk,

We had been as good to have kept our bed still

HANAN O, it is our part to lament them that do
 ill

Like as very nature a godly heart doth move

Others' good proceedings to tender and to love
So such as in no wise to goodness will be brought,
What good man but will mourne, since God us all hath wrought,

But ye have some business, and so have I

ZETHAR And we have been long, farewell, neighbour, heartily

REBECCA, the mother JACOB, the son

REBECCA Come forth, son Jacob, why tarriest thou behind?

JACOB Forsooth, mother, I thought ye had said all your mind

REBECCA Nay, come, I have yet a word or two more to say

JACOB Whatsoever pleaseth you, speak to me ye may

REBECCA Seeing thy brother Esau is such an
one,

Why rebukest thou him not, when ye are alone?

Why dost thou not give him some good sad wiste counsel?

JACOB He lacketh not that, mother, if it would avail

But when I do him any thing of his fault[s] tell,
He calleth me foolish proud boy, with him to mell

He will sometime demand, by what authority

I presume to teach them which mine elders be?

He will sometime ask, if I lean of my mother

To take on me teaching of mine elder brother?

Sometime, when I tell him of his lewd behaviour,

He will lend me a mock or twain for my labour

And sometime for anger he will out with his purse,

And call me, as please him, and swear he will do worse

REBECCA O Lord, that to bear such a son it was my chance

JACOB Mother, we must be content with God's ordinance

REBECCA Or, if I should need have Esau to my son,

Would God thou, Jacob, haddest the eldership won

JACOB Mother, it is too late to wish, for that is pass'd,

It will not be done now, wish ye never so fast

And I would not have you to wish against God's will

For both it is in vain, and also it is ill

REBECCA Why did it not please God, that thou shouldest as well

Tread upon his crown, as hold him fast by the heel?

JACOB Whatsoever mystery the Lord therein meant,

Must be referred to his unsearched judgment

And whatsoever he hath 'ppointed me unto,
I am his own vessel, his will with me to do

REBECCA Well, some strange thing therein of God intended was

JACOB And what he hath decreed, must sure come to pass

REBECCA I remember, when I had you both conceived,

A voice thus saying from the Lord I received

Rebecca, in thy womb are now two nations

Of unlike natures and contrary fashions

The one shall be a mightier people elect

And the elder to the younger shall be subject

I know this voice came not to me of nothing

Therefore thou shalt follow my counsel in one thing

JACOB So it be not displeasing to the Lord, I must

REBECCA I fear the Lorde eke, who is merciful and just

And loth would I be his majesty to offend,
But by me (I doubt not) to work he doth intend Assay, if thou canst at some one time or other,
To buy the right of eldership from thy brother Do thou buy the birthright, that to him doth belong,

So may'st thou have the blessing, and do him no wrong

What thou hast once bought, is thine own of due right

JACOB Mother Rebecca, if withouten fraud I might,

I would your advice put in ure with all my heart,
But I may not attempt any such guleful part
To buy my brother's eldership and his birthright,

I feal, would be a great offence in God's sight Which thing, if I wist to redeem, I ne would,
Though I might get thereby ten millions of gold

REBECCA God who, by his word and almighty decree,

Hath appointed thee Esau his lord to be,
Hath appointed some way to have it brought about
And that is this way, my sprite doth not doubt

JACOB Upon your word, mother, I will assay ere long,

Yet it giudgeth my heart to do my brother wrong

REBECCA Thou shalt do no wrong, son Jacob, on my peril

JACOB Then, by God's leave, once assay I will

REBECCA Then farewell, dear son, God's blessing and mine with thee

JACOB I will again to the tent Well you be !
 [Exeat Jacob

REBECCA Ah, my sweet son Jacob, good fortune God thee send !

The most gentle young man alive, as God me mend !

And the most natural to father and mother
 O, that such a meek spirit were in thy brother ,
 Or thy sire loved thee, as thou hast merited,
 And then should Esau soon be disinherited

ACTUS PRIMI, SCÆNA QUARTA

ISAAC, the husband REBECCA, the wife MIDO, the lad that leadeth blind Isaac

ISAAC Where art thou, my boy Mido, when I do thee lack ?

MIDO Who calleth Mido ? here, good master
 Isaac

ISAAC Come, lead me forth of doors a little, I thee pray

MIDO Lay your hand on my shoulder, and come on this way

REBECCA Now, O Lord of heaven, the fountain of all grace,

If it be thy good will, that my will shall take place

Send success to Jacob, according to thy word,
 That his elder brother may serve him as his lord

MIDO Sir, whither would ye go, now that abload ye be ?

ISAAC To wife Rebecca

MIDO Yonder I do her see

REBECCA Lord, thou knowest Jacob to be thy servant true,

And Esau all froward thy ways to ensue

MIDO Yonder she is speaking, whatever she doth say
By holding up her hands, it seemeth she doth
pray
ISAAC Where be ye, wife Rebecca ? where be ye, woman ?
REBECCA Who is that calleth ? Isaac, my good
man ?
ISAAC Where be ye, wife Rebecca, let me understand ?
MIDO She cometh to you apace
REBECCA Here, my lord, at hand ISAAC Saving that whatsoever God doth is all
right,
No small grief it were for a man to lack his sight
But what the Lord doth send or work by his high
will—
REBECCA Cannot but be the best, no such thing can be ill
ISAAC All bodily punishment or infirmity
With all maims of nature, whatever they be,
Yea, and all other afflictions temporal
As loss, persecution, or troubles mortal,
Are nothing but a trial or probation
And what is he that firmly trusteth in the Lord,
Or steadfastly believeth his promise and word,
And knoweth him to be the God omnipotent,
That feedeth and governeth all that he hath sent Protecting his faithful in every degree,
And them to relieve in all their necessity ?
What creature (I say) that doth this understand,
Will not take all thing in good heart at God's hand ?
Shall we at God's hand receive prosperity,
And not be content likewise with adversity ?
We ought to be thankful whatever God doth send,
And ourselves wholly to his will to commend

REBECCA So should it be, and I thank my lord
Isaac,

Such daily lessons at your hand I do not lack

ISAAC Why, then, should not I thank the Lord, if it please him,

That I shall now be blind, and my sight wax all dim
For whoso to old age will here live and endure,
Must of force abide all such defaults of nature

MIDO Why, must I be blind too, if I be an old man?

How shall I grope the way, or who shall lead me then?

ISAAC If the Lord have appointed thee such old days to see,

He will also provide that shall be meet for thee

MIDO I trow, if I were blind, I could go well enou',

I could grope the way thus, and go as I do now
I have done so ere now both by day and by night,
As I see you grope the way, and have hit it right

REBECCA Yea, sir boy, will ye play any such childish knack

As to counterfeit your blind master Isaac?

That is but to mock him for his impediment

MIDO Nay, I never did it in any such intent.

REBECCA Nay, it is to tempt God, before thou have need,

Whereby thou may'st provoke him, in very deed,
With some great misfortune or plague to punish thee

MIDO Then will I never more do so, while I may see

But against I be blind, I will be so perfit

That, though no man lead me, I will go at midnight

ISAAC Now, wife, touching the purpose that I sought for you

REBECCA What say'th my lord Isaac to his handmaid now?

ISAAC Ye have oft in covert words been right earnest

To have me grant unto you a boon and request
 But ye never told me yet plainly what it was,
 Therefore I have ever yet let the matter pass
 And now of late, by oft being from me absent,
 I have half suspected you to be scarce content
 But, wife Rebecca, I would not have you to mourne
 As though I did your honest petition scorn¹
 For I never meant to deny in all my life
 Any lawful or honest request to my wife
 But in case it be a thing unreasonable,
 Then must I needs be to you untractable
 Now therefore say on, and tell me what is your case

REBECCA I would, if I were sure in your heart to find grace,
 Else, sir, I would be loth

ISAAC To speak do not refrain
 And if it be reasonable, ye shall obtain Otherwise, ye must pardon me, gentle sweet wife

REBECCA Sir, ye know your son Esau, and see his life,
 How loose it is, and how stiff he is and stubborn
 How retchlessly he doth himself misgovern
 He giveth himself to hunting out of reason,
 And serveth the Lord and us at no time or season
 These conditions cannot be acceptable
 In the sight of God, nor to men allowable
 Now his brother Jacob, your younger son and mine Doth more apply his heart to seek the ways divine
 He liveth here quietly at home in the tent,
 There is no man nor child but is with him content

ISAAC O wife, I perceive ye speak of affection,
To Jacob ye bear love, and to his brother none

REBECCA Indeed, sir, I cannot love Esau so
well

As I do Jacob, the plain truth to you to tell
For I have no comfort of Esau, God wot
I scarce know whe'r I have a son of him or not
He goeth aboad so early before daylight,
And returneth home again so late in the night,
And unneth I set eye on him in the whole week
No, sometime not in twain, though I do for him seek

And all the neighbours see him as seldom as I,
But when they would take uest, they hear him blow and cry

Some see him so seldom, they ask if he be sick Sometimes some demand, whether he be dead or quick

But, to make short tale, such his conditions be,
That I wish of God he had ne'er been born of me

ISAAC Well, wife, I love Esau, and must for causes twain

REBECCA Surely your love is bestowed on him in vain?

ISAAC First, active he is, as any young man can be,

And many a good morsel he bringeth home to me
Then he is mine eldest and first-begotten son

REBECCA If God were so pleased, I would that were foiedone [Aside]

ISAAC And the eldest son is called the father's might

REBECCA If yours rest in Esau, God give us good night!

ISAAC A prerogative he hath in every thing

REBECCA More pity he should have it without deserving

ISAAC Of all the goods his portion is greater REBECCA That the worthy should have it, I think much better
 ISAAC Among his brethren he hath the pre-eminence
 REBECCA Where Esau is chief, there is a ~~great~~ presence!
 ISAAC Over his brethren he is sovereign and
 lord
 REBECCA Such dignity in Esau doth ill accord
 ISAAC He is the head of the father's succession REBECCA I would Esau had lost that possession
 ISAAC And he hath the chief title of inheritance
 REBECCA Wisdom would in Esau change that ordinance
 ISAAC To the eldest son is due the father's blessing
 REBECCA That should be Jacob's, if I might have my wishing [Aside] ISAAC And the chief endowment of the father's substance
 REBECCA Which will thrive well in Esau his governance
 ISAAC By title of eldership he hath his birthright
 REBECCA And that would I remove to Jacob, if I might [Aside]
 ISAAC He must have double portion to another REBECCA That were more fit for Jacob his younger brother ISAAC In all manner of things divided by a rate
 REBECCA Well given goods to him, that the Lord doth hate!
 ISAAC Why say ye so of Esau, mine eldest son?

REBECCA I say true, if he proceed, as he hath begun

ISAAC Is he not your son too, as well as he is mine?

Wherefore do ye then against him thus sore repine?

REBECCA Because that in my spirit verily I know,

God will set up Jacob, and Esau down throw
I have showed you many a time ere this day,
What the Lord of them being in my womb did say
I use not for to lie, and I believe certain,
That the Lord spake not these words to me in vain
And Jacob it is (I know), in whom the Lord will His promises to you made and to your seed fulfil

ISAAC I doubt not his promise made to me and my seed,

Leaving to his conveyance how it shall proceed
The Lord after his way may change th'inheritance,
But I may not wittingly break our ordinance

REBECCA Now would God I could persuade my lord Isaac

Jacob to prefer, and Esau to put back

ISAAC I may not do it, wife, I pray you be content

The title of birthright, that cometh by descent,
Or the place of eldership coming by due course,
I may not change nor shift for better nor for worse
Nature's law it is, the eldest son to knowledge,
And in no wise to bar him of his heritage
And ye shall of Esau one day have comfort

REBECCA Set a good long day then, or else we shall come short

ISAAC I warrant you, he will do well enough at length.

REBECCA You must needs commend him, being your might and strength

ISAAC Well, now go we hence, little Mido, where art thou ?

MIDO I have stood here all this while, list'ning, how you

And my dame Rebecca have been laying the law,
But she hath as quick answers as ever I saw Ye could not speak anything unto her so thick,
But she had her answer as ready and as quick

ISAAC Yea, women's answers are but few times to seek

MIDO But I did not see Esau neither all this same week

Nor do I love your son Esau so well,
As I do love your son Jacob by a great deal ISAAC No, doest thou, Mido ? and tell me the cause why

MIDO Why ? for I do not And none other cause know I

But everybody, as well one as other,
Do wish that Jacob had been the elder brother

ISAAC Well, come on, let us go

MIDO And who shall lead you ? I ?

REBECCA No, it is my office as long as I am by
And I would all wives, as the world this day is,
Would unto their husbands likewise do their office

MIDO Why, dame Rebecca, then all wedded men should be blind

REBECCA. What, thou foolish lad, no such thing was in my mind

ACTUS SECUNDI, SCÆNA PRIMA.

RAGAN, the servant of Esau

RAGAN I have heard it oft, but now I feel a
wonder,
In what grievous pain they die, that die for hunger

O my greedy stomach, how it doth bite and gnaw?
 If I were at a rack, I could eat hay or straw
 Mine empty guts do fret, my maw doth even tear,
 Would God I had a piece of some horsebread here Yet is master Esau in worse case than I
 If he have not some meat, the sooner he will die He hath sunk for faintness twice or thrice by the
 way,

And not one seely bit we got since yesterday
 All that ever he hath, he would have given to-day
 To have had but three morsels his hunger to allay
 Or in the field to have met with some hogs,
 I could scarcely keep him from eating of these dogs
 He hath sent me afore some meat for to provide,
 And cometh creeping after, scarce able to stride
 But if I know where to get of any man,
 For to ease mine own self, as hungry as I am,
 I pray God I stink, but if any come to me,
 Die who die will, for sure I will first served be
 I will see, if any be ready here at home,
 Or whether Jacob have any, that peakish mome
 But first I must put all my dogs up,
 And lay up this gear, and then God send us the cup

ACTUS SECUNDI, SCÆNA SECUNDA

ESAU, the master RAGAN, the servant[*Esau cometh in so faint, that he can scarce go*ESAU O, what a grievous pain is hunger to a man?Take all that I have for meat, help who that can O Lord, some good body, for God's sake, give me
 meat

I force not what it were, so that I had to eat

Meat or drink, save my life—or bread, I reck not what

If there be nothing else, some man give me a cat
 If any good body on me will do so much cost,
 I will tear and eat her raw, she shall ne'er be rost
 I promise of honesty I will eat her raw
 And what a noddy was I, and a whoreson daw,
 To let Ragan go with all my dogs at once
 A shoulder of a dog were now meat for the nonce
 O, what shall I do? my teeth I can scarcely charm
 From gnawing away the brawn of my very arm
 I can no longer stand for faint, I must needs lie
 And except meat come soon, remediless I die
 And where art thou, Ragan, whom I sent before?
 Unless thou come at once, I never see thee more
 Where art thou, Ragan, I hear not of thee yet?

RAGAN Here, as fast as I can, but no meat can I get
 Not one draught of drink, not one poor morsel of bread
 Not one bit or crumb, though I should straightway be dead
 Therefore ye may now see, how much ye are to blame,
 That will thus starve yourself for following your game

ESAU Ah, thou villain, tellest thou me this now?
 If [I] had thee, I would eat thee, to God I vow
 Ah, meat, thou whoreson, why hast thou not brought me meat?

RAGAN Would you have me bring you that, I can nowhere get?

ESAU Come hither, let me tell thee a word in thine ear.

RAGAN Nay, speak out aloud I will not come a foot near

Fall ye to snatching at folks? adieu, I am gone

ESAU Nay, for God's love, Ragan, leave me not alone

I will not eat thee, Ragan, so God me help

RAGAN No, I shall desire you to choose some other whelp

Being in your best lust, I would topple with ye, And pluck a good crow, ere ye brake your fast with me

What ¹ are you mankin¹ now? I reckon it best, I, To bind your hands behind you, even as ye lie

ESAU Nay, have mercy on me, and let me not perish

RAGAN In faith, nought could I get, wherewith you to cherish

ESAU Was there nothing to be had among so many?

RAGAN I could not find one but Jacob that had any,

And no grant would he make for ought that I could say,

Yet no man alive with fauer words could him pray, But the best red pottage he hath, that ever was

ESAU Go, pray him, I may speak with him once, ere I pass

RAGAN That message, by God's grace, shall not long be undone

ESAU Hie thee, go apace, and return again soon If Jacob have due brotherly compassion,

He will not see me faint after this fashion,

But I daresay, the wretch had rather see me throst, Than he would find in his heart to do so much cost

For where is, between one fremman² and another, Less love found than now between brother and brother?

² Stranger A more usual form is fremed

Will Jacob come forth to shew comfort unto me ?
 The whoreson hypocrite will as soon hanged be Yet, peace, methinketh Jacob is coming indeed
 And my mind giveth me at his hand I shall speed,
 For he is as gentle and loving as can be,
 As full of compassion and pity
 But let me see, doth he come ? no, I warrant you
 He come, quod I ? tush, he come ? then hang Esau !

Foi there is not this day in all the world round
 Such another hodypeak wretch to be found,
 And Ragan my man, is not that a fine knave ?
 Have any mo masters such a man as I have ?
 So idle, so loit'ring, so trifling, so toying ?
 So prattling, so trattling, so chiding, so boying ?
 So jesting, so wresting, so mocking, so mowing ?
 So nipping, so tripping, so cocking, so crowing ?
 So knappish, so snappish, so elvish, so foward ?
 So crabbed, so wrabbed, so stiff, so untoward ?
 In play or in pastime so jocund, so merry ?
 In work or in labour so dead or so weary ?
 O, that I had his ear between my teeth now,
 I should shake him, even as a dog that lulleth a sow

But in faith, if ever I recover myself,
 There was never none trounced, as I shall trounce that elf

He and Jacob are agreed, I daresay, I,
 Not to come at all, but to suffer me here to die Whrich if they do, they shall find this same word true

That, after I am dead, my soul shall them pursue
 I will be avenged on all foes, till I die
 Yea, and take vengeance, when I am dead too, I Foi, I mistrust, against me agreed they have Foi thone is but a fool, and thother a stark knave

Enter RAGAN and JACOB behind, conversing

RAGAN I assure you, Jacob, the man is very weak

ESAU But hark once again, methink I hear them speak!

RAGAN I promise you, I fear his life be already pass'd

JACOB May God forbid!

ESAU Lo, now they come at last

RAGAN If ye believe not me, see yourself, where he is

JACOB Fie, brother Esau, what a folly is this?
About vain pastime to wander abroad and peak, Till with hunger you make yourself thus faint and weak

ESAU Brother Jacob, I pray you chide now no longer,
But give me somewhat, wherewith to slake mine hunger

JACOB Alack, brother, I have in my little cottage

Nothing but a mess of gross and homely pottage

ESAU Refresh me therewithall, and boldly ask of me

The best thing that I have, whatsoever it be
I were a very beast, when thou my life dost save
If I should stick with thee for the best thing I have

JACOB Can ye be content to sell your birthright to me?

ESAU Hold, here is my hand, I do sell it here to thee

With all the profits thereof henceforth to be thine,
As free, as full, as large, as ever it was mine

JACOB Then swear thou hand in hand before the living Lord

This bargain to fulfil, and to stand by thy word

ESAU Before the Lord I swear, to whom each heart is known,

That my birthright that was from henceforth is thine own

JACOB Thou shalt also with me by this promise indent,

With this bargain and sale to hold thyself content

ESAU If each penny thereof might be worth twenty pound,

I willingly to thee surrender it thus stound

And if each cicle might be worth a whole talent,

I promise with this sale to hold me content

JACOB Come, let us set him on foot, that he may go sup

RAGAN Nay, first I will know a thing, ere I help him up,

Sirrah, will ye eat folk, when ye are long fasting?

ESAU No, I pray thee help me up, and leave thy jesting

RAGAN No, trow, eat your brother Jacob now, if you lust,

For you shall not eat me, I tell you, that is just

JACOB Come, that with my pottage thou may'st refreshed be

ESAU There is no meat on earth, that so well liketh me

RAGAN Yet I may tell you, it is pottage dearly bought

ESAU No, not a whit, for my bargain take thou no thought

I defy that birthright that should be of more price
Than helping of one's self I am not so unwise

RAGAN And how then, sir, shall poor Ragan have no meat?

ESAU Yes, and if thou canst my brother Jacob intreat

JACOB God grant I have enough for Esau alone RAGAN Why then I perceive poor Ragan shall have none

[Esau, entering into Jacob's tent, shaketh Ragan off]

Well, much good do it you with your pottage of rice

I would fast and fare ill, ere I ate of that price
 Would I sell my birthright, being an eldest son ?
 Forsooth then were it a fair thread that I had spun

And then to let it go for a mess of pottage !
 What is that but both unthriftiness and dotage ?
 Alack, alack, good blessed father Isaac,
 That ever son of thine should play such a lewd knack !
 And yet I do not think but God this thing hath wrought,
 For Jacob is as good, as Esau is nought
 But forth cometh Mido, as fast as he can trot
 For a cicle, whether to call me in or not ?

ACTUS SECUNDI, SCÆNA TERTIA

MIDO, the boy RAGAN

[Mido cometh in clapping his hands and laughing]

Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha,
 Now who saw e'er such another as Esau ?
 By my truth, I will not lie to thee, Ragan,
 Since I was born, I never see any man
 So greedily eat rice out of a pot or pan
 He would not have a dish, but take the pot and sup

Ye never saw hungry dog so stab¹ potage up

RAGAN Why, how did he sup it? I pray thee, tell me, how?

MIDO Marry, even thus, as thou shalt see me do now

[Here he counterfeith supping out of the pot]
O, I thank you, Jacob with all my heart, Jacob Gently done, Jacob a friendly part, Jacob!
I can sup so, Jacob!

Yea, then will I sup too, Jacob
Here is good meat, Jacob!

RAGAN As ere was eat, Jacob!

MIDO As e'er I saw, Jacob!

RAGAN Esau a daw, Jacob!

MIDO Sweet rice pottage, Jacob!

RAGAN By Esau's dotage, Jacob

MIDO Jolly good cheer, Jacob!

RAGAN But bought full dear, Jacob!

MIDO I was hungry, Jacob

RAGAN I was an unthrift, Jacob

MIDO Ye will none now, Jacob

RAGAN I cannot for you, Jacob

MIDO I will eat all, Jacob

RAGAN The devil go with all, Jacob

MIDO Thou art a good son, Jacob

RAGAN And would he never have done, Jacob?

MIDO No, but still cogg'd in, like Jackdaw that cries ha lob'

That to be kill'd I could not laughing for bear
And therefore I came out, I durst not abide there

RAGAN Is there any pottage left for me, that thou wot?

¹ The meaning seems to be obvious enough, but the word is not to be found in our glossaries

- Halliwell mentions this word, but none of his interpretations suits the present context

MIDO No, I left Esau about to lick the pot

RAGAN Lick, quod thou¹ now a shame take him that can all lick

MIDO The pot shall need no washing, he will it so lick,

And by this he is sitting down to bread and drink

RAGAN And shall I have no part with him, dost thou think²?

MIDO No, for he pray'd Jacob, ere he did begin,
To shut the tent fast, that no mo guests come in

RAGAN And made he no mention of me his servant?

MIDO He said thou were a knave, and bad thee
hence avaunt

Go shift, where thou couldest, thou gottest nothing
there

RAGAN God yield you, Esau, with all my stomach cheer!¹

MIDO I must in again, lest perhaps I be shent,
For I asked noboby licence, when I went [Exit

RAGAN Nay, it is his nature, do what ye can for him,

No thank at his hand, but choose you, sink or swim

Then reason it with him in a meet time and place,
And he shall be ready to flee straight in your face
This proverb in Esau may be understand

Claw a churl by the tail, and he will file² your hand
Well i-wis, Esau, ye did know well enou',

That I had as much need to be meated as you

Have I trotted and trudged all night and all day, And now leave me without door, and so go your way?

Have I spent so much labour for you to provide,
And you nothing regard what of me may betide?

² Defile

Have I run with you while I was able to go,
And now you purchase food for yourself and no
mo?

Have I taken so long pain you truly to serve,
And can ye be content, that I famish and starve?
I must lacquey and come lugging greyhound and hound,

And cairy the weight, I daie say, of twenty pound,
And to help his hunger purchase grace and favour,
And now to be shut out fasting for my labour!
By my faith, I may say I serve a good master,
Nay, nay, I serve an ill husband and a waster
That neither profit regardeth nor honesty,
What marvel I then, if he pass so light on me?
But, Esau, now that ye have sold your birthright,
I commend me to you, and God give you good night

And let a friend tell him his fau't at any time, Ye shall hear him chafe beyond all reason or rhyme

Except it were a friend or a very hell hound,
Ye never saw the match of him in any ground
When I shew him of good-will, what others do say,
He will fall out with me, and offer me a fray
And what can there be a worser condition,
Than to do ill, and refuse admonition?

Can such a one prosper, or come to a good end?
Then I care not how many childien God me send Once Esau shall not beguile me, I can tell Except he shall fortune to amend, or do well Therefore why do I about him waste thus much
talk,

Whom no man can induce ordinately to walk?
But some man perchance doth not a little wonder,
How I, who but right now did roar out for hunger,
Have now so much vacant and void time of leisure,
To walk and to talk, and discourse all of pleasure

I told you at the first, I would provide for one My mother taught me that lesson a good while agone

When I came to Jacob, his friendship to require,
 I drew near and near till I came to the fire
 There hard beside me stood the pottage-pot,
 Even as God would have it, neither cold nor hot,
 Good simple Jacob could not turn his back so thick
 But I at the ladle got a gulp or a lick,
 So that, ere I went, I made a very good meal,
 And din'd better cheap than Esau a good deal.
 But here cometh now master Esau forth

ACTUS SECUNDI, SCÆNA QUARTA

ESAU and RAGAN

Ah, sir, when one is hungry, good meat is much worth

And well fare a good brother yet in time of need, [Esau cometh forth, wiping his mouth
 The world is now meetly well amended indeed, ESAU By my truth, if I had bidden¹ from meat any longer,

I think my very maw would have fret asunder
 Then had I been dead and gone, I make God a vow

RAGAN Surely then the world had had a great loss of you,
 For where should we have had your fellow in your place? [Aside

ESAU What should I have done with my birthright in this case?

RAGAN Kept it still, and you had not been a very ass [Aside

¹ Abided

ESAU But the best pottage it was yet, that ever was

It were sin not to sell one's soul for such gear

RAGAN Ye have done no less in my conscience,
I fear [Aside]

ESAU Who is this that standeth clattering at my back?

RAGAN A poor man of yours, sir, that doth his dinner lack

ESAU Dinner, whoreson knave? dinner at this time a' day?

Nothing with thee but dinner and munching alway
Why, thy whoreson villain slave, who is hungry now?

RAGAN Indeed, sir (as seemeth by your words) not you

ESAU A man were better fill the bellies of some twelfe,

Than to fill the gut of one such whoreson elf,
That doth none other good but eat, and drink, and sleep

RAGAN He shall do something else, whom ye shall have to keep [Aside]

ESAU And that maketh thee so slothful and so lither,

I dare say he was six hours coming hither,
When I sent him to make provision afore,
Not passing a mile hence or very little more
And yet being so far pass'd the hour of dining,
See, and the knave be not for his dinner whining'
Fast a while, fast with a mischief, greedy slave,
Must I provide meat for every glutton knave?

RAGAN I may fast, for any meat that of you I have [Aside]

ESAU Or deserve thy dinner, before thou do't crave

RAGAN If I have not deserved it at this season,

I shall never deserve it in mine own reason
 Ye promised I should eat, till I cried ho

ESAU Yea, that was, if we took either hare, teg, or doe

RAGAN But when yourself were hungry, ye said,
 I wot what ——

ESAU What, thou villain slave, tellest thou me now of that?

RAGAN Then, help, run apace, Ragan, my good
 servant

ESAU Yea then was then, now is it otherwise avaunt!

Have I nothing to do but provide meat for you?

RAGAN Ye might have given me some part, when ye had enough

ESAU What, of the red rice pottage with Jacob
 I had?

Why, the crow would not give it her bird—thou art mad,

Is that meat for you? nay, it would make you too rank

Nay, soft, brother mine, I must keep you more lank

It hath made me ever¹ since so lusty and² fresh,
 As though I had eaten all delicates of flesh

I feel no manner faintness whereof to complain

RAGAN Yet to-morrow ye must be as hungry
 again,

Then must ye and will ye wish again for good cheer

And repent you, that ever ye bought this so dear

ESAU Repent me? wherefore? then the Lord give me sorrow,

If it were to do, I would do it to-morrow

Foi, thou foolish knave, what hath Jacob of me bought?

RAGAN But a matter of a straw and a thing of nought!

ESAU My birthright and whole title of mine eldership,

Mairy, sir, I pray God much good do it his maship,

If I die to-morrow, what good would it do me?

If he die to-morrow, what benefit hath he?

And for a thing hanging on such casualty,
Better a mess of pottage than nothing, pardy!

If my father live long, when should I it enjoy?

If my father die soon, then it is but a toy

For if the time were come, thinkest thou that Jacob

Should find Esau such a lout or such a lob

To suffer him to enjoy my birthright in rest?

Nay, I will first toss him and trounce him of the best,

I think to find it a matter of conscience,

And Jacob first to have a fart, su reverence

When my father Isaac shall the matter know,

He will not let Jacob have my birthright, I trow

Or if he should keep it as his own, I pray you,

Might not I live without it, and do well enou'?

Do none but men's eldest sons prosper well?

How live younger brethren then, I beseech you, tell?

Once, if anything be by the sword to be got,

This falchion and I will have part to our lot.

But now come on, go we abroad awhile and walk,

Let my birthright go, and of other matters talk

RAGAN Who—I, walk? nay, I trow not, till I have better din'd

It is more time to seek, where I may some meat find

ESAU What say'st thou, drawlatch ? come forth, with a mischief !

Wilt thou not go with me ? on, forward, whoreson thief ?

Shall it be as pleaseth you, or as pleaseth me ?

RAGAN Nay, as pleaseth you, sir, methink it must be

ESAU And where be my dogs and my hound ? be they all well ?

RAGAN Better than your man, for they be in their kennel

ESAU Then go see all be well in my part of the tent

RAGAN With a right good will, sir, I go incontinent

ESAU And I will to my field, the which I cleansed last,
To see what hope there is, that it will yield fruit
fast

ACTUS SECUNDI, SCÆNA QUARTA

JACOB MIDO REBECCA ABRA, the handmaid

JACOB Thou knowest, little Mido, where my mothei is

MIDO I can go to her as straight as a thread, and not miss

JACOB Go call her, and come again with hei thine own self

MIDO Yes, ye shall see me scud like a little elf

JACOB Where I have, by the enticement of my mother,
Bargained and bought the birthright of my brother Turn it all to good, O Lord, if it be thy will Thou knowest my heart, Lord, I did it for no ill
And whatever shall please thee to work or to do,

Thou shalt find me prest and obedient thereto
But here is my mother Rebecca now in place

MIDO How say you, master Jacob, ran not I apace?

JACOB Yes, and a good son to go quick on your eirand

REBECCA Son, how goeth the matter? let me
understand

JACOB Forsooth, mother, I did so, as ye me bad,

Esau to sell me all his birthright persuade

REBECCA Hast thou bought it indeed, and he therewith content?

JACOB Yea, and have his promise, that he will never repent

REBECCA Is the bargain through? hast thou paid him his price?

JACOB Yea, that I have, a mess of red pottage of rice,

And he ate it up every whit, well I wot

MIDO When he had supp'd up all I saw him lick the pot,

Thus he licked, and thus he licked, and this way
I thought to have lick'd the pot myself once to-day,
But Esau beguil'd me, I shrew him for that,
And left not so much as a lick for puss our cat

REBECCA Son Jacob, forasmuch as thou hast so well sped,

With an hymn or psalm let the Lord be praised Sing we all together, and give thanks to the Lord,
Whose promise and performance do so well accord

MIDO Shall we sing the same hymn, that all our house doth sing?

For Abraham and his seed to give God praising

REBECCA Yea, the very same

MIDO Then must we all kneel down thus,
And Abra, our maid, here must also sing with us,

Kneel down, Abra, what, I say, will ye not kneel down?

Kneel, when I bid you, the slackest wench in this town!

[Here they kneel down to sing all four, saying that Abra is slackest and Mido is quickest]

THE FIRST SONG

*Blessed be thou, O the God of Abraham,
 For thou art the Lord our God, and none but thou
 What thou wouldest to the glory of thy name, Passeth man's reason to search what way or how Thy promise it was Abraham should have seed
 More than the stars of the sky to be told,
 He believed, and had Isaac indeed,
 When both he and Sara seemed very old
 Isaac many years longed for a son,
 Rebecca, thy handmaid, long time was barren,
 By prayer in thy sight such favour he won,
 That at one birth she brought him forth sons
 twain,
 Wherefore, O Lord, we do confess and believe,
 That both thou canst and wilt thy promise fulfil
 But how it shall come, we can no reason give,
 Save all to be wrought according to thy will.
 Blessed be thou, O God of Abraham, &c*

REBECCA Now, doubt not, Jacob, but God hath appointed thee

As the eldest son unto Isaac to be
 And now have no doubt, but thou art sure elected,
 And that unthrift Esau of God is rejected
 And to sell thee his birthright since he was so mad,
 I warrant thee the blessing that he should have had

JACOB Yea? how may that be wrought?

REBECCA Yes, yes, let me alone
Our¹ good old Isaac is blind, and cannot see,
So that by policy he may beguiled be,
I shall devise how for no ill intent ne thought,
But to bring to pass that I know God will have wrought,

And I charge you twain, Abra and little Mido

MIDO Nay, ye should have set Mido before Abra, I trow,

For I am a man toward, and so is not she

ABRA No, but yet I am more woman toward than ye

REBECCA I charge you both that, whatever hath been spoken,

Ye do not to any living body open

ABRA For my part it shall to no body uttered be

MIDO And slit my tongue, if ever it come out for me

But if any tell, Abra here will be prattling

For they say, women will ever be clattering

ABRA There is none here that piattleth so much as you

REBECCA No mo woids, but hence we altogether
now

[Ereunt omnes

ACTUS TERTIJ, SCÆNA PRIMA

ESAU ISAAC MIDO

ESAU Now, since I last saw mine old father
Isaac,

Both I do think it long, and he will judge me slack,
But he cometh forth, I will here listen and see,
Whether he shall chance to speak any word of me

ISAAC On, lead me forth, Mido, to the bench on this hand,

That I may sit me down, for I cannot long stand

MIDO Here, sir, this same way, and ye be at the bench now,

Where ye may sit down in God's name, if please
you

ISAAC I marvel, where Esau my son doth become,

That he doth now of days visit me so seldom
But it is oft seen, whom fathers do best favour,
Of them they have least love again for their labour
I think, since I saw him, it is a whole week
In faith, little Mido, I would thou wouldest him seek

MIDO Forsooth, Master Isaac, and I knew it where,

It should not be very long ere I would be there But shall I at adventure go seek where he is ?

ESAU Seek no farther, Mido already here he is

ISAAC Methunketh, I have Esau his voice perceived

ESAU Ye guess truly, father, ye are not deceived

MIDO Here he is come now invisible, by my soul

For I saw him not, till he spake hard at my poll !

ISAAC Now, go thou in, Mido, let us two heire alone

MIDO Sir, if ye command me, full quickly I am gone

ISAAC Yet, and if I call thee, see thou be not slack

MIDO I come at the first call, good Master
Isaac

ISAAC Son Esau

ESAU Here, father

ISAAC Is none here but we ?

ESAU None to harken our talk, father, that I do see

[Rebecca entereth behind unseen, and listens

ISAAC Son Esau, why hast thou been from me so long?

ESAU I cry you mercy, father, if I have done
w^{ro}ng

But I am loth to trouble you, having nothing
To present you withal, nor venison to bring

ISAAC Son Esau, thou knowest that I do thee
love

ESAU I thank you for it, father, as doth me behove

ISAAC And now thou seest my days draw towards an end

ESAU That is to me great i^uth, if I could it
amend

ISAAC I must go the way of all mortal flesh,
Therefore, while my memory and wit is yet flesh,
I w^{ou}ld thee endow mine heritage to succeed
And bless thee, as I ought, to multiply my seed
The God of my father Abraham and of me Hath promised, that our seed as the sand shall be
He is a God of truth, and in his words just Therefore in my working shall be no fault, I trust
Now, therefore, son Esau, get thee forth to hunt, With thy bow and quiver, as erst thou hast been wont,

[And] bring me of thy venison that is good

ESAU Ye shall have of the best that runneth in the wood

ISAAC When thou comest home, to dress it it shall behove,

And to make for mine own tooth such meat as I love

Thus do, mine own dear son, and then I shall thee kiss

With the kiss of peace, and thee for ever bless ESAU Your will t' accomplish, most dear father
 Isaac,

With all good haste and speed I shall not be found slack

ISAAC Then help lead me home, in my tent that I were set,

And then go, when thou wilst

ESAU I shall withouten let

ACTUS TERTIJ, SCÆNA SECUNDA

REBECCA

REBECCA This talk of Isaac in secret have I heard,

And what end it should come to, my heart is afeard,
 Ne'er had I so much ado to forbear to speak

But the Lord, I trust, will Isaac's purpose break

[Here she kneelth down, and prayeth]

O God of Abraham, make it of none effect

Let Jacob have the blessing, whom thou hast elect

I for my part shall woik what may be wrought,

That it may to Jacob from Esau be brought,

And in will I go to see what I can devise,

That Isaac's intent may fail in any wise

ACTUS TERTIJ, SCÆNA TERTIA

RAGAN ESAU

RAGAN Nay, we must on hunting go yet once more again,

[Here he cometh forth with his hunting staff and other things, and a bag of victuals]

And never come home now, except we speed certain,
 But I trow for hunger I have provided here

That whatever befall, I, Ragan, shall have cheer
 I have no time to tell what delicates here be,
 But (think this to be true) they're fit for better men than me

And what? shall Esau hereof have any part?
 Nay, I trust to convey it by such pretty art
 That, till the bag be clear, he shall it never see
 I shall, and if he faint, feed him as he fed me
 I shall requite his shutting me out of the door
 That, if he bid me run to get him meat afore,
 I shall run as fast as my feet were made of lead,
 And tell him there is none, though I may well be sped

I will be even with him for my fare last day,
 When he was with Jacob

[Esau enters suddenly behind him

ESAU What is it that thou dost say?
 RAGAN Sir, on your behalf I earnestly wish and
 pray

That, if like need chance, ye may fare as last day,
 When ye were with Jacob

ESAU Well, come on, let us go RAGAN Even when ye will, is there let in me or no? [Exeunt ambo

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA PRIMA

REBECCA JACOB

REBECCA Son Jacob, even now is come the very hour

That, if thou have any grace, or heart, or power,
 To play thy part well, and stick unto it throughout,

Esau his blessing will be thine without doubt

JACOB Mother, I know your good-will to be unfeigned,

But I see not which way the thing may be attained REBECCA I have it contrived, how all things shall be done,

Do thou as I shall bid thee, and it will be won JACOB Mother, in me shall be no fault or negligence

REBECCA Then harken very well unto this my sentence

I heard old Isaac, in a long, solemn talk,
 Bid thy brother Esau to the field to walk,
 And there with his bow to kill him some venison,
 Which brought and dressed, he is to have his benison
 For I am aged (said Isaac truly),
 And would bless thee, dear son, before that I die
 Now is Esau gone to do it even so,
 But while he is away, I would have thee to go Abroad unto the flock, and fetch me kids twain,
 Of which I shall with a trice make such meat certain,
 As shall say, Come, eat me, and shall make old Isaac Lick his lips thereat, so toothsome shall it smack
 I shall make him thereof such as he doth love,
 Which in thy brother's stead to bless thee shall him move

JACOB O sweet and dear mother, this device is but vain,
 For Esau is rough, and I am smooth certain
 And so, when I shall to my father bring this meat, Perchance he will feel me, before that he will eat Old men be mistrustful he shall the matter take,
 That I went about my father a fool to make Mother, by such a prank the matter will be worse
 And I instead of blessing shall purchase me his curse

REBECCA On me be thy curse, my son, let it light on me
 Only fetch thou the kids hither, as I bid thee,

Do thou thy true devoir, and let God work therewith JACOB Upon your word, mother, I will the thing begin,

Send me little Mido to help me bear a kid

REBECCA He shall come by and by, for so I shall him bid

Now, Lord, and if thou please that this thing shall take place,

Further this our enterprise, helping with thy grace
 [Exit

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA SECUNDA

JACOB and MIDO

MIDO Are ye here, master Jacob? I came you to look,

And here dame Rebecca hath sent you your sheep-crook,

And hath commanded me to wait on you this day
 But wherefore or why, she would nothing to me
 say

JACOB Come on then, follow me, Mido, a little ways

MIDO Whither ye shall lead me, I am at all assays

JACOB And art thou able to bear a kid on thy back?

MIDO I am able, I trow, to bear a quarter-sack
 How say you to this corpse? is it not fat and round?
 How say ye to these legs? come they not to the ground?

And be not here arms able your matter to speed?
 Be not here likely shoulders to do such a deed?
 Therefore come, master Jacob, if this your doubt
 be

For bringing home of kids, lay the biggest on me,

So that if we make a feast, I may have some part JACOB Yes, that shalt thou, Mido, right worthy thou art

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA TERTIA

REBECCA ABRA

REBECCA I come to see, if Jacob be gone a-field
 yet,

A little slacking may all our purpose let
 But now that he is gone, he will be here at once,
 Therefore I will call my maid Abra for the nonce
 That all thing within may be in a readiness Abra, where be ye, Abra?

ABRA Here within, mistress

REBECCA Come forth when, Abra? what, Abra, I say!

ABRA Anon

REBECCA Must I call so oft? why come ye not by and by?

ABRA I was washing my vessel forsooth, mistress, I

REBECCA And in very deed, look that all your vessels be clean

ABRA There is not one foul piece in all our tent, I ween

REBECCA Then make a great fire, and make ready your pot,

And see there be plenty of water, cold and hot,
 And see the spit be scoured as clean as any pearl

ABRA If this be not quickly done, call me naughty girl.

REBECCA Nay, soft, whither away? I have not yet all done

ABRA I thought ye would have had me as quick to be gone,

As when ye call Abra, ye would have me to come REBECCA Then see ye have made ready cloves, mace, and cinnamon

Pepper and saffron, then fet herbs for the pot, ABRA We will have the best that by me can be got

REBECCA And let no foul corner be about all the tent

ABRA If ye find any fault, hardly let me be shent

Is there anything else but that I may go now?

REBECCA Nought but that, when I come, I find no fault in you

ABRA No, I warrant you, I will not let my matters sleep

REBECCA Any good wench will at her dame's bidding take keep

Now, God of Abraham, as I trust in thy grace,
 Send Jacob the blessing in Esau his place

As thou hast ordained, right so must all thing be Perform thine own words, Lord, which thou spakest to me

Now will I go in to see, that mine old husband
 May of my secret working nothing understand
 Or in case he smell what we have thus far begun,
 He may think it all for Esau to be done

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA QUARTA

ABRA, the maid DEBORAH, the nurse

ABRA He, that were now within, should find all thing, I ween,
 As trim as a trencher, as trick, as sweet, as clean
 And seeing that my dame prepareth such a feast,
 I will not, I trow, be found such a sluttish beast,

That there shall any filth about our tent be kept,
But that both within and without it shall be swept

[Then let her sweep with a broom, and while she doth it, sing this song, and when she hath sung, let her say thus ¹]

THE SECOND SONG

*It hath been a proverb, before I was born,
Young doth it prick, that will be a thorn
Who will be evil, or who will be good,
Who given to truth, or who to falsehood
Each body's youth sheweth a great likelihood
For young doth it prick, that will be a thorn*

*Who so in youth will no goodness embrace,
But follow pleasure, and not virtue's trace,
Great marvel it is, if such come to grace
For young doth it prick, that will be a thorn*

*Such as in youth will refuse to be taught,
Or will be slack to work, as he ought,
When they come to age, their proof will be nought
For young doth it prick, that will be a thorn*

*If a child have been given to any vice,
Except he be guided by such as be wise,
He will thereof all his life have a spice
For young doth it prick, that will be a thorn*

It hath been a proverb, &c

ABRA Now have I done, and, as it should be for the nonce,

My sweeping and my song are ended both at once
Now but for fetting mine herbs I might go play
Deborah, nurse Deborah, a word, I you pray

¹ Referring to the speech below In the old copy this direction is printed in the margin, and such is, no doubt, its most suitable position

Enter DEBORAH

DEBORAH What is the matter? who calleth me Deborah?

ABRA Forsooth, gentle nurse, even I, little Abra,
I pray you, sweet Deborah, take in this same broom,
And look well to all thing, till I return home
I must to the garden as fast as I can trot,
As I was commanded, to fet herbs for the pot
But, in the meantime, I pray you, nurse, look about,
And see well to the fire, that it go not out,
I will amble so fast, that I will soon be there,
And here again, I trow, ere an horse lick his ear

[Exit

DEBORAH There is not a prettier gal within this mile,
Than this Abia will be within this little while
As true as any steel, ye may trust her with gold Though it were a bushel, and not a penny told As quick about her work, that must be quickly
sped
As any wench in twenty mile about her tread
As fine a piece it is, as I know but a few,
Yet perchance her husband of her may have a shrew
Cat after kind (say'th the proverb) sweet milk will lap,
If the mother be a shrew, the daughter cannot
'scape
One sure¹ mark she hath I marvel, if she slip
For her nose is growing above her over lip
But it is time, that I into the tent be gone, Lest she come and chide me, she will come now anon

¹ Old copy, once ou Perhaps we ought to read sour

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA QUINTA

ABRA

ABRA How say ye? have not I despatched me quickly?

A straw for that wench that doth not somewhat likely,

I have brought here good herbs, and of them plenty,
To make both broth and farcing,¹ and that full dainty,

I trust to make such broth that, when all things are in,

God Almighty self may wet his finger therein
Here is thyme and parsley, spinach and rosemary

Endive, succory, lacture, violet, clary, Liverwort, marigold, sorrel, hart's-tongue, and sage

Pennyroyal, purslane, bugloss, and borâge,
With many very good herbs, mo than I do name

But to tarry here thus long, I am much to blame
For if Jacob should come, I not in readiness,

I must of covenant be shent of our mistress
And I would not for twenty pound, I tell ye,

That any point of default should be found in me

[Exit]

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA SEXTA

REBECCA MIDO JACOB

REBECCA I come to see, if Jacob do not return yet,

I cannot marvel enough what should be his let,
And greatly wonder he is away thus long

¹ Stuffing or forcing, the same kind of thing as we now know under the name of forced meat

I fear much of his absence, lest something be wrong
 As well as heart can wish, all thing is ready here,
 And now to me each moment seemeth a whole year
 But hark, methinketh I hear a young kid blea !
 It is so indeed , I see Jacob , well is me !

MIDO Hark, master Jacob, heard ye ever kid blea so ?

I ween she knoweth beforehand, whereto she shall go

JACOB I would not my father Isaac should hear

MIDO Nay, she will scarcely be still when she is dead, I do fear

JACOB But lo, I see my mother stand before the tent

Enter JACOB and MIDO

REBECCA O Lord, methinketh long, son Jacob, since thou went

JACOB And methinketh, mother, we have hied us well

MIDO I have made many feet to follow, I can tell

REBECCA Give me thy kid, my son, and now let me alone,

Bring thou in thine, Mido, and see thou be a stone

MIDO A stone ? how should that be, mistress ?

I am a lad,

And a boy alive, as good as e'er ye had

And now, in bringing home this kid, I have, I trow, Tried myself a man and a pretty fellow

REBECCA I meant thou shouldest nothing say

MIDO One warning is enough , ye bad us so last day

REBECCA Well, let me go in, and venison hereof make

JACOB And hearest thou, Mido ? see that good heed thou take

In any wise to come in my father's sight

MIDO Why, he seeth no better at noon than at midnight

Is he not blind long since, and doth his eyes lack ?
Therefore go in, dame, I bear an heavy pack

REBECCA I leave you here, Jacob, and heartily you pray

That, when need shall require, you be not far away

JACOB I shall be ready, mother, whensoe'er you call

[Exit Rebecca

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA SEPTIMA

JACOB MIDO

JACOB O, how happy is that same daughter or that son,

Whom the parents love with hearty affection !
And among all others how fortunate am I,
Whom my mother Rebecca tend'reth so greatly ?
If it lay in her to do any good, ye see,
She would do her earnest devoir to prefer me
But as for this matter, which she doth now intend, Without thy aid, O Lord, how should it come to end ?

Nevertheless, forasmuch as my said mother
Worketh upon thy word, O Lord, and none other,
It shall become me to show mine obedience,
And to thy promise, O Lord, to give due credence
For what is so impossible to man's judgment, Which thou canst not with a beck perform incontinent ?

Therefore thy will, O Lord, be done for evermore

MIDO O Jacob, I was never so afeard afore

JACOB Why, what new thing is chanced, Mido,
I pray thee ?

MIDO Old Isaac, your father, heard your young kid blea
He asked what it was I said, a kid
Who brought it from the fold ? I said you did
For what purpose ? forsooth, sir, said I,
There is some matter that Jacob would remedy
And where has thou been so long, little Mido, quod he,
That all this whole hour thou wert not once with
me ?
Forsooth (quod I), when I went from you last of all,
You bad me be no more, but be ready at your call
JACOB But of the kid's bleaing he did speak no more ?
MIDO No, but, and if he had called me afore,
I must have told him all, or else I must have made a lie,
Which would not have been a good boy's part truly
But I will to him, and no longer heire remain, Lest he should happen to call for Mido again
[Exit Mido

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA OCTAVA

JACOB REBECCA DEBORAH

JACOB I were best also to get me into the tent
That, if my mother need me I may be present
But I see her come forth, and nurse Deborah also,
And bring the gear with them, whatsoe'er it shall do

REBECCA Where is my son Jacob? I do him now espy
Come apace, Deborah, I pray thee let us hie,
That all thing were dispatched somewhat to my mind

DEBORAH It is happy, that Jacob ready here ye find

JACOB Mother, what have ye brought, and what things are those?

REBECCA Gear that I have prepared to serve our purpose,

And because that Esau is so rough with hair,
I have brought sleeves of kid next to thy skin to wear

They be made glovelike, and for each finger a stall

So that thy father's feeling soon beguile they shall Then have I brought a collar of rough kid's hair, Fast unto the skin round about thy neck to wear Come, let me do it on, and if Isaac feel,
He shall therewith be beguiled wondrous well

[Here she doth the sleeves upon Jacob's arms] JACOB And what shall this gear do, that ye have brought?

REBECCA It shall serve anon, I warrant you, take no thought

Now, thoroughly to ravish thy father Isaac,
Thou shalt here incontinent put upon thy back Esau his best apparel, whose fragrant favour Shall conjure Isaac to bear thee his favour

DEBORAH Marry, sir, now is master Jacob trim indeed,

That is all tricksy and gallant, so God me speed!
Now I see apparel setteth out a man

Doth it become Esau so? nay, beshrew me then

REBECCA Ye may now go in, nurse, and leave looking on him

DEBORAH I go, marry, sir, Jacob is now gay and trim

[Jacob standeth looking on himself]
JACOB No, forsooth, mother, this raiment liketh not me

I could with mine own gear better contented be
 And, but for satisfying of your mind and will,
 I would not wear it, to have it for mine own still I love not to wear another bird's feathers Mine own poor homely gear will serve for all weathers

REBECCA Well, content thyself, and follow my mind this day

Now the meat by this time is ready, I dare say
 Before that with too much enough it be all spilt, Take thy time, and assail thy father, when thou wilt

JACOB Yea, but have ye provided, mother, I
 you pray,

That nobody within may your counsel bewray ?

REBECCA. I warrant the matter all safe from uttering,

I have stopped all mouths fro once muttering
 Therefore, while the time serveth, I thee warn ,
 To slack, when all things are ready, may do harm

JACOB Go before, and I follow but my cheeks will blush red,

To be seen among our folk thus appareled

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA NONA.

ISAAC MIDO JACOB

ISAAC Come, Mido, for without thee I can nothing do

MIDO What is it, sir, that ye would have my help unto ?

ISAAC Nothing but to sit abroad, and take th' open air

MIDO That shall be well done , the weather is very fair

ISAAC Praised be the God of my father Abraham,
 Who sendeth all thing needful for the use of man,
 And most tenderly provideth he for me Isaac, Better than I can feel or perceive what I lack

Enter JACOB disguised

JACOB Where is my most dear father? as I would have it,

Taking the open air, here I see him sit

O my most dear father Isaac, well thou be!

ISAAC Here I am, my sweet son, and who art thou, tell me?

JACOB Dear father, I am Esau, thine eldest son,
 According as thou badest me, so have I done
 Come in, dear father, and eat of my venison,
 That thy soul may give unto me thy benison

ISAAC But how hast thou sped so soon? let me understand

JACOB The Lord thy God at the first brought it to my hand

ISAAC And art thou Esau, mine elder son indeed?

JACOB To ask that question, father, what doth it need?

ISAAC Come near, that I may feel, whether thou be he or not,

For Esau is rough of hair as any goat
 Let me feel thy hand, right! Esau, by the hair
 And yet the voice of Jacob soconeth in mine ear
 God bless thee, my son, and so will I do anon,
 As soon as I have tasted of thy venison
 Come on, lead me in, I will eat a pittance
 A little thing, God wot, to me is suffisance

[They go in

MIDO I may now go play, Jacob leadeth Isaac

But I never saw such a pretty knack,
 How Jacob beguiled his father, how sleightly
 Now I see it true, the blind eat many a fly !
 I quaked once for fear, that Jacob would be caught,
 But, as hap was, he had his lesson well taught
 But what will Esau say, when he cometh home ?
 Choose him, but for me to go in it is wisdom

[Exit

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA DECIMA

REBECCA ABRA

REBECCA Now I beseech the Lord prosper
 Jacob my son

In our hardy enterprise, which we have begun
 Isaac is eating such meat as he doth love,
 Which thing to bless Jacob, I doubt not, will him
 move

If he obtain the blessing, as I trust he shall,
 Then shall my soul give to God laud perpetual
 But I will in to harken, how the thing doth frame

ABRA¹ Come in, dame Rebecca

REBECCA Who is it, that doth me name ?

ABRA My master Isaac is coming forth straight
 way

REBECCA He shall not find me here in no wise, if I may

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA VNDECIMA

ISAAC JACOB

ISAAC Set me down on the bench, where thou didst me first find

Now forsooth I have ate meat even to my mind
 It hath refreshed my soul wonderfully well
 Nor never drank I better wine that I can tell

JACOB If it were to your liking, I am very glad ISAAC It was the best meat and wine that ever
 I had

Come kiss me, son Esau, with the kiss of peace, [Jacob lisseth Isaac, and then kneeleth down to have his blessing]

That my love towards thee may the more increase
 I bless thee here for ever, my son, in this place,
 The Lord my God of might endue thee with his grace

What sweet flavour my son's raiment doth yield !
 Even the fragrant smell that cometh from a field,
 Which the Lord hath blessed, and the same Lord bless thee

With the dew of heaven ! the Lord thy ground increase,

That the fatness of the earth may never cease !
 The Lord send thee abundance of corn and wine,
 And prosper continually all thing that is thine !
 The Lord make great people servants unto thee
 And nations to do homage and fealty !
 And here, to succeed my place, mine heir I thee
 make,

Of all things that I have possession to take
 Lord and ruler be thou over thy brethren all,
 And bow to thee as head thy mother's children
 shall !

Cursed be that man, that shall thee curse or mis-
 say,

And who that blesseth thee, blessed be he for aye !
 Thus here have I made my last will and testament,
 Which the Lord God ratify never to 1epent Serve the Lord our God, and then well shalt thou speed,

And he shall keep promise to multiply thy seed
My day draweth on, for old and feeble I am
When I die, put me to my father Abraham
Now kiss me once again, my son, and then depart,
And enter upon all, whereof now lord thou art JACOB The Lord God reward your fatheily tenderness,
Which ye have here showed me of your mere goodness

ISAAC Go in peace, my dear son, leaving me here alone
And send little Mido to lead me in anon
[Exeat Jacob
Lord God, when thou shalt see time, as thou thinkest best,
Dissolve this feeble carcase, and take me to thy rest

Enter MIDO

MIDO How do ye, master Isaac ? I am here now
For my master Jacob did bid me come to you ISAAC Nay, boy, it was not Jacob, I dare well say so
MIDO Forsooth, it was Jacob, if my name be
Mido
ISAAC If that be a true tale, somebody is come
slack,
But, Lord, that I have done I will not now call
back.
But yet I will go see, if I be deceived
For indeed methought Jacob's voice I perceived.
[Exeunt

ACTUS QUARTI, SCÆNA DUODECIMA

REBECCA

[Then she speaketh kneeling, and holding up her hands]

REBECCA O Lord, the God of Isaac and Abraham,

I render thanks to thee, though a sinful woman,
Because of thy word and promise true art thou,
In sending Jacob the blessing of Esau,
And for thus regarding a sinner, as I am,
I eftsoons thank thee, O Lord God of Abraham
Thy mercy and wisdom shall I sing evermore
And magnify thy name, for God's there is no more
But I will to my husband Isaac, and see,
That for this matter he take no grief at me

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA PRIMA

RAGAN

[Ragan bringeth venison at his back]

Nay, now at last we have well sped, I warrant you Good luck is not evermore against Esau
He coursed and coursed again with his dogs here
But they could at no time take either hare or deer
At last he killed this with his bow, as God would
And to say that it is fat venison I be bold
But dressed it must be at once in all the haste,
That old father Isaac may have his repast
Then without delay Esau shall blessed be, Then, faith, cock-on-hoop, all is ours ! then, who but he ?

But I must in, that it may be dressed in time likely,
And I trow ye shall see it made ready quickly

[Exit]

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA SECUNDA

MIDO

MIDO Nay now, old master Isaac (I warrant you)
 Hath blessed Jacob in the place of Esau
 At home here with us it is judged no small change,
 But a case wonderful, and also very strange
 The younger brother is made elder and again
 The elder must now serve the younger as his swain¹
 And from henceforth we must all make courtesy and bow,
 Unto master Jacob, and not to Esau now
 And Esau himself must under Jacob be,
 At his commandment, even as well as we
 But I care not, I warrant you for our household Love Jacob better than Esau twentyfold
 None loveth Esau but for his father's sake
 But all good folks are glad Jacob's part to take
 And now by Esau no man will set a pin, But yonder he cometh now, I will get me in

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA TERTIA

ESAU

ESAU I trow I have now won my spurs for ever
 For once better venison killed I never,
 And though it were somewhat long, ere I could it take,
 Yet the goodness thereof doth some recompense
 make
 My father Isaac shall thereof have such meat,

¹ Servant

As in all his life he hath not the better eat
 Whereupon, I doubt not, after tender kissing,
 To be straight endowed with his godly blessing
 As his full and true heir in his place to succeed,
 And t' enjoy the promise that God made to his seed,
 And when I am once in my place of succession,
 And have all manner things in full possession
 I shall wring all louts and make them stoop (I trow),
 I shall make the slaves couch as low as dog, and
 bow
 I shall ruffle among them of another sort
 Than Isaac hath done, and with another port
 But now will I go see, what haste within they make,
 That part of my hunting my old father may take
 [Exit]

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA QUARTA

ISAAC MIDO ESAU

ISAAC Mido, come, Mido, where art thou, little Mido?

MIDO Here ready, master Isaac, what shall I do?

ISAAC Come, lead me to mine old place, that I may sit down

MIDO That can I as well as any boy in this town

ISAAC O Lord my God, how deep and unsearch-ableAre all thy judgments, and how immutable?
 Of thy justice, whom it pleaseth thee, thou dost reject,Of thy mercy, whom it pleaseth thee, thou dost electIn my two sons, O Lord, thou hast wrought thy
 will,

And as thy pleasure hath wrought, so shall it stand still

Since thou hast set Jacob in Esau his place,
I commit him to the governance of thy grace

Enter ESAU

ESAU Now where is Isaac, that he may come and eat?

Lo, where he is sitting abroad upon his seat

Dear father Isaac, the Lord thy God thee save

ISAAC Who art thou, my son? what thing wouldest thou have?

ESAU I am your eldest son, Esau by my name,
New come home from hunting, where I had joyly¹ game,

I have made meat thereof for your own appetite, Meat for your own tooth, wherein you will much delight

Come, eat your part, dear father, that, when ye have done,

Your soul may bless me as your heir and eldest son

ISAAC Ah Esau, Esau, thou comest too late,
Another to thy blessing was predestinate,
And clean gone it is from thee, Esau

ESAU Alas!

Then am I the unhappiest that ever was,
I would the savage beasts had my body torn

ISAAC The blessing that thou shouldest have had, another hath

ESAU Alas, what wretched villain hath done me such scath?

ISAAC Thy brother Jacob came to me by subtlety,

And brought me venison, and so prevented¹ thee
 I ate with him, ere thou cam'st, and with my good-
 will

Blessed him I have, and blessed he shall be still ESAU Ah Jacob, Jacob, well may he be called so

For he hath undermined me times two
 For first mine heritage he took away me fro,
 And see, now hath he away my blessing also Ah father, father, though Jacob hath done this thing

Yet let me Esau also have thy blessing
 Shall all my good huntings for thee be in vain?

ISAAC That is done and passed, cannot be called again

Mine act must now stand in force of necessity

ESAU And hast thou never a blessing then left
 for me?

ISAAC Behold, I have made thy brother Jacob thy lord

ESAU A most poignant sword unto my heart is that word

ISAAC All his mother's children his servants have I made

ESAU That word is to me sharper than a razor's blade

ISAAC I have also 'stablished him with wine and corn

ESAU Woe be the day and hour that ever I was born!

ISAAC What am I able to do for thee, my son?

ESAU Ah Jacob, Jacob, that thou hast me thus undone!

O unhappy hap O misfortune! well away!
 That ever I should live to see this woful day

¹ Forestalled

But hast thou one blessing and no mo, my father?
Let me also have some blessing, good sweet father!

ISAAC Well, nature pricketh me some remorse on thee to have

Behold, thy dwelling-place the earth's fatness shall have,

And the dew of heaven, which down from above shall fall

And with dint of sword thy living get thou shall,
And to thy brother Jacob thou shalt be servant

ESAU O, to my younger brother must I be servant?

O, that ever a man should be so oppressed!

ISAAC Thine own fault it is, that thou art dispossessed

ESAU Father, change that piece of thy sentence and judgment

ISAAC Things done cannot be undone, therefore be content,

Let me be in quiet, and trouble me no more

Come, Mido, in God's name, lead me in at the door

[Exeunt Isaac and Mido

ESAU O, would not this chafe a man, and fret his guts out,

To live as an underling under such a lout?

Ah hypocrite, Ah hedgecreeper, Ah 'sembling wretch!

I will be even with thee for this subtle fetch

O God of Abraham, what reason is herein,

That to sle one's enemy it should be made sin?

Were not one as good his part of heaven forego,

As not to be revenged on his deadly foe?

God was angry with Cain for killing Abel

Else might I kill Jacob marvellously well

I may fortune one day him to dispatch and rid

The Lord will not see all things, something may be hid

But as for these misers¹ within my father's tent,
 Which to the supplanting of me put their consent, Not one, but I shall coil them, till they stink for pain,
 And then for their stinking coil them off flesh
 again
 I will take no days², but, while the matter is hot,
 Not one of them shall 'scape, but they shall to the pot

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA QUINTA

Where are we now become[?] marry, sir, here is array!

With Esau, my master, this is a black day
 I told you Esau one day would shit a rag,
 Have we not well hunted, of blessing to come lag?³

Nay, I thought ever it would come to such a pass,
 Since he sold his heritage like a very ass
 But, in faith, some of them, I dare jeopard a groat,
 If he may reach them, will have on the petticoat⁴

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA SEXTA

ESAU RAGAN ABRA MIDO DEBORAH

ESAU Come out, whores and thieves, come out, come out, I say!

⁴ To have on the petticoat is a phrase of very unusual occurrence, of which the sense may, without much difficulty or risk of error, be collected from the context

RAGAN¹ I told you, did I not, that there would be a fray² [Aside

ESAU Come out, little whoreson ape, come out of thy den

MIDO Take my life for a penny, whither shall
I ren²

ESAU Come out, thou little fiend, come out, thou skittish gill

ABRA Out, alas, alas¹ Esau will us all kill

ESAU And come out, thou mother Mab,³ out, old rotten witch!

As white as midnight's arsehole or virgin pitch

Where be ye? come together in a cluster

RAGAN In faith, and these three will make a noble mustei

ESAU Ere ye escape my fingers, ye shall all be taught,

For these be they which have all this against me
wrought

MIDO I wrought not a stroke this day, but led
Isaac

If I wrought one stroke to-day, lay me on the jack

ESAU Hence then, get thee in, and do against me no more

MIDO I care as much for you now, as I did before [Aside

ESAU What sayest thou, little thief? if I may thee catch

MIDO Ye shall run apace then, I ween, so God me snatch

RAGAN Now to go, Mido, ere thou art caught in a trip [Exit MIDO

¹ Ragan and the others must be supposed to be at the back of the stage, out of Esau's sight, but they come forward severally, and plead for themselves

² Run

³ i.e., Old witch But compare Halliwell, v. Mab

ESAU Nay, for his sake, Abra, ye shall drink of the whip

ABRA Nay, for God's love, good sweet master
Esau,

Hurt not me for Mido speak for me, Ragan

RAGAN Sir, spare little Abra, she hath done none evil

ESAU A little fiend it is, and will be a right devil,

And she is one of them that love not me a deal

ABRA If ye let me go, I will love you very well

ESAU And never any more ado against me make?

ABRA Ragan shall be surety

RAGAN Sir, I undertake

ESAU Then hence, out of my sight at once, and get thee in

ABRA Adieu, I set not a straw by you nor a pin

ESAU What sayest thou, thou fib¹ once ye shall have a rap

RAGAN The best end of suretyship is to get a clap [Aside]

ESAU Now, come on, thou old hag, what shall I say to thee?

DEBORAH Say what ye lust, so ye do not touch
me

ESAU Yes, and make powder of thee, for I dare say thou

Hast been the cause of all this feast to Esau

DEBORAH No, it was Jacob's feast that I did help to dress

ESAU Nay, I thought such a witch would do such business

DEBORAH¹ But, by my truth, if I should die
incontinent,

I knew not of the purpose, wherefore it was meant

ESAU But wilt thou tell me truth, if I do forgive thee?

DEBORAH Yea, if I can, Master Esau, believe me

ESAU Is it true that, when I and my brother were first born,

And I by God's ordinance came forth him beforne, Jacob came forthwith, holding me fast by the heel?

DEBORAH It is true, I was there, and saw it very well

ESAU Is it true? well, Jacob, I pray God I be dead,

But for my heel's sake, I will have thee by the head

What devil was in me, that I had not the grace, With kicking back my heel, to mar his mopish face?

But my father Isaac will not long live now, If he were gone, Jacob, I would soon meet with you

For my soul hateth Jacob even to the death, And I will ne'er but hate him, while I shall have breath

I may well dissemble, until I see a day, But trust me, Jacob, I will pay thee when I may But if ever I hear that thou speak word of this, I shall cut out thy tongue, I will not miss

[This he speaketh to Deborah]

But come on, Ragan, with me so mote I thrive, I will get a good sword, for thereby must I live

RAGAN Live, quod you? we are like to live, God knoweth how

ESAU What, ye saucy merchant,¹ are ye a prater now? [Exeunt ESAU and RAGAN]

¹ A word of contempt often used in our old comedies, as we now employ chap

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA SEPTIMA

DEBORAH REBECCA

DEBORAH I am glad that Esau is now gone, certes
For an evil-disposed man he is, doubtless Yet am I no gladder of his departure hence,
Than I am that Rebecca is come in presence

Enter REBECCA

REBECCA Deborah, what doest thou, tarrying here so long ?
I came full ill afeard, lest something had been
wrong,
For Mido and Abra told me of Esau DEBORAH Indeed here he was, and departed hence but now
And one thing I tell you, dame let Jacob beware,
For Esau to mischief Jacob doth prepare REBECCA Call Jacob hither, that I may show him my mind
Send him hither quickly, and tarry ye behind,
That he give place awhile, it is expedient,
And how he may be sure, I will the way invent

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA OCTAVA

JACOB REBECCA

JACOB Mother Rebecca, did ye send for me hither ?
REBECCA Yea, and the cause is this, thou must go somewhither,
To hide thee from thy brother Esau a space JACOB Indeed, to men's malice we must sometime give place
REBECCA He lieth in await to sle thee, if he can

Thou shalt therefore, by my reed, fle hence to Haran

And he with my brother Laban, a man aged,
Till Esau's wrath be somewhat assuaged

When all things are forgotten, and his fury passed
I shall send for thee again in all goodly haste

JACOB Yea, but how will my father herewith be content?

REBECCA. Thou shalt see me win him thereto
incontinent

And here he cometh happily Jacob, hear me,
Make a sign to Mido, that he do not name thee,
Then get thee in privily, till I do thee call

JACOB As ye command me, mother Rebecca, I
shall

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA NONA

ISAAC MIDO REBECCA JACOB

ISAAC Where be ye, good wife?

MIDO My dame Rebecca is here

REBECCA I am glad, sweet husband, that I see you appear,

For¹ I have a word or two unto you to say

ISAAC Whatsoever it be, tell it me, I you pray

REBECCA Sir, ye know that now our life-days are but short,

And we had never so great need of comfort

Now Esau his wives being Hittites both,

Ye know, to please us are much unwilling and loth
That if Jacob eke would take any Hittite to wife, Small joy should we both have or comfort of our life

VOL. II

ISAAC Wife, ye speak this well, and I will provide therefore,

Call Jacob quickly, that he appear me before

MIDO I can run apace for him, if ye bid me go

REBECCA Go, hie thee at once then, like a good son, Mido

[Exit Mido, but returns directly with Jacob

ISAAC O Lord, save thou my son from mis-carrying

MIDO Come, master Jacob, ye must make no tarrying,

For I it is that shall be shent, if you be slack,

Here is your son Jacob now, master Isaac

ISAAC Son Jacob, make thee ready, as fast [as] thou can,

And in all haste possible get thee unto Laban

He is thine own uncle, and a right godly man,

Marry of his daughters, and not of Canaan

In Mesopotamia shalt thou lead thy life

The Lord prosper thee here without debate or strife,

And the God of Abraham prosper thee in peace,

He multiply thy seed, and make it to increase!

Now kiss me, dear son Jacob, and so go thy way

REBECCA Kiss me also, sweet son, and hence without delay

JACOB Now, most tender parents, as well with heart and word

I bid you well to fare, and leave you to the Lord

MIDO Nay, master Jacob, let me have an hand also

JACOB Even with all my heart farewell, little Mido

[Exit Jacob

ISAAC Now will I depart hence into the tent again

REBECCA As pleaseth God and you, but I will here remain

ACTUS QUINTI, SCÆNA DECIMA

ESAU RAGAN REBECCA ISAAC MIDO

ESAU And is he gone indeed to mine uncle
Laban,In Mesopotamia at the town of Haran?
And is Jacob gone to the house of Bethuel?
The whulwind with him, and flinging fiend of hell!But I shall meet with him yet one day well enough And who is this? my mother? whom I see here nowRAGAN She stood here all this while, sū, did ye not her see?ESAU Didst thou see hei stand here, and wouldest not warn me?REBECCA Son Esau, afoie God, thou art much to blame,

And to do, as I hear of thee, is a foul shame

ESAU Mother, what is it ye heard of me of late?

REBECCA That thou dost thy brother Jacob deadly hateESAU Hate Jacob? I hate him, and will do, till I die,For he hath done me both great wrong and villainy
And that shall he well know, if the Lord give me lifeREBECCA Fie upon thee, to speak so, like a lewd caitiff!RAGAN My master Esau is of nature much hot,
But he will be better than he saith, fear notESAU My birthright to sell did he not make me consent?REBECCA But the same to do wert not thyself content?

There is no man to blame for it but thine own self

ESAU Yea, mother, I see that ye hold with that mopish elf

It is your dainty darling, your prinkox, your golpol,

He can never be praised enough of your soul,

He must ever be extolled above the moon

It is never amiss that he hath said or done

I would he were rocked or dandled in your lap,

Or I would with this falchion I might give him pap

I marvel why ye should so love him, and me not?

Ye groaned as well for the one as thother, I wot

But Jacob must be advanced in any wise

But I shall one day handle him of the new guise¹

REBECCA Both on thy father's blessing and mine, I charge thee,

That thy soul intend never such iniquity,

Beware by the example of Cain, I thee reed,

That thou bring not the Lord's curse upon thy head

ESAU And what, should I take all this wrong at Jacob's hand?

REBECCA Forgive, and the Lord shall prosper thee in the land

My son Esau, hear me, I am thy mother

For my sake, let pass this grudge against thy brother

RAGAN Sir, your mother's request is but reasonable,

Which for you to grant shall be much commendable

¹ The new guise is a term often met with in old plays, but the application of it here is not very clear, although the meaning of the writer—in a way that he (Jacob) little expected—is sufficiently intelligible

ESAU Mother, though it be a great thing that ye require
Yet must all malice pass at your desire,
And for your cause, mother, this mine anger shall slake

REBECCA I thank thee, my son, that thou dost it for my sake

ESAU For your sake, with Jacob I will be at accord

REBECCA And shall I call thy father to be as record?

ESAU As pleaseth you, mother, I can be well
content

REBECCA Then will I go call him hither incontinent

And where he doth already love thee very well,
This will make him to love thee better a great deal

RAGAN Truly, sir, this is of you a right gentle part

At least, if it come from the bottom of your heart

ESAU It must now be thus, but when I shall Jacob find,

I shall then do as God shall put into my mind

Enter ISAAC and MIDO with REBECCA.

REBECCA He hath at my word remitted all his quarrel

ISAAC Forsooth, I love him the better a great deal
And if he be here, I would commend his doing

ESAU¹ All prest here, father, to tarry on your coming

ISAAC Son Esau, thou hast thyself well acquitted,

¹ In the old copy this word is improperly placed opposite the line, That all quarrel, &c

That all quarrel to Jacob thou hast remitted
 It was the Lord's pleasure that it should thus be, Against whose ordinance to stand is not for thee
 But now, to the intent it may please the Lord,
 To knit your hearts one day in a perfect concord,
 We shall first in a song give laud unto His name,
 And then with all gladness within confirm the same

REBECCA As ye think best, dear husband, I agree thereto

ESAU Me ye may command to what ye will have me to do

And so may ye do also Ragan my man

ISAAC I see none, but praise we the Lord the best we can,

Call forth all our household, that with one accord
 We may all with one voice sing unto the Lord

[Ragan calleth all to sing

This song must be sung after the prayer

*O Lord, the God of our father Abraham,
 How deep and unsearchable are thy judgments !
 Thy almighty hand did create and frame
 Both heaven and earth, and all the elements
 Man of the earth thou hast formed and create,
 Some do thee worship, and some stray awry,
 Whom pleaseth thee, thou dost choose or reprobate,
 And no flesh can ask thee wherefore or why ?
 Of thine own will thou didst Abraham elect,
 Promising him seed as stars of the sky,
 And them as thy chosen people to protect,
 That they might thy mercies praise and magnify Perform thou, O Lord, thine eternal decree
 To me and my seed, the sons of Abraham,
 And whom thou hast chosen thine own people to be,
 Guide and defend to the glory of thy name*

FINIS.

[Then entereth the Poet, and the rest stand still till he have done

THE POET When Adam, for breaking God's commandment,

Had sentence of death, and all his posterity
 Yet the Lord our God, who is omnipotent,
 Had in his own self by his eternal decree
 Appointed to restore man, and to make him free
 He purposed to save mankind by his mercy,
 Whom he once had created unto his glory
 Yet not all flesh did he then predestinate,
 But only the adopted children of promise
 For he foreknew that many would degenerate,
 And wilfully give cause to be put from that bliss,
 So on God's behalf no manner default there is,
 But where he chooseth, he sheweth his great mercy

And where he refuseth, he doth none injury,
 But thus far surmounteth man's intellectuation,¹
 To attain or conceive, and (much more) to discuss
 All must be referred to God's election

And to his sacred judgment It is meet for us,
 With Paul the apostle, to confess, and say thus O, the deepness of the riches of God's wisdom !
 How unsearchable are his ways to man's reason ?
 Our part therefore is first to believe God's word,
 Not doubting but that he will his elected save
 Then to put full trust in the goodness of the Lord,
 That we be of the number, which shall mercy
 have

Thirdly, so to live, as we may his promise crave Thus if we do, we shall Abraham's children be,
 And come with Jacob to endless felicity

MR HALLIWELL'S PREFACE TO THE FORMER EDITION ¹

So little is known respecting the history of the following tract, that it is rather from an unwillingness to depart from the usual custom of affixing introductions to our reprints, than from any expectation of satisfying the slightest curiosity, that a few lines are here prefixed. The interlude of "The Disobedient Child" was written about the middle of the sixteenth century, by Thomas Ingelend, who is described in the early printed copy as "late student in Cambridge," and his fame seems to rest entirely on that production, for he is not to be traced in any other early literary record ². It has been supposed by some writers, from a few indistinct allusions in the play to Catholic customs, that it was composed in the reign of Henry VIII, but if this be the case, the notice of Queen Elizabeth, introduced towards the close of the drama, must be an interpolation, a supposition not unlikely to be correct, for the audience are elsewhere reminded to "serve the king" The printed edition by Colwell is without date, but it was published about the year 1560 Two copies of this work which I have collated differ in some slight particulars from each other, but there is not sufficient reason for thinking that there were two editions, for it was formerly a very common practice to correct and alter the press whilst the impression was being taken¹

[It is observable that the present interlude marks a considerable advance, in point of literary merit, on those which precede it in this collection The author was evidently a man of taste and judgment, and many passages might be pointed out which possess no mean share of picturesqueness, elegance, and dramatic propriety

Contrary to the usual practice, in old as well as modern pieces, "The Disobedient Child" concludes unhappily, though without any attempt at a highly wrought tragical catastrophe, the Rich man persists in his unrelenting conduct, and we are left to imagine that his son returns to live and die in misery with his tempestuous wife]

THE PROLOGUE SPEAKER

Now, forasmuch as in these latter days,
Throughout the whole world in every land,
Vice doth encrease, and virtue decays,
Iniquity having the upper hand,
We therefore intend, good gentle audience,
A pretty short interlude to play at this present Desiring your leave and quiet silence
To show the same, as is meet and expedient.²
The sum whereof, matter and argument,
In two or three verses briefly to declare,
Since that it is for an honest intent,
I will somewhat bestow my care
In the city of London there was a rich man
Who, loving his son most tenderly,
Moved him earnestly now and then,

² These first eight lines are also found in the interlude introduced into the play of Sir Thomas More, printed by the Shakespeare Society, p 60 — Halliwell

That he would give his mind to study,
 Saying that by knowledge, science and learning,
 Is at the last gotten a pleasant life,
 But through the want and lack of this thing
 Is purchased poverty, sorrow and strife
 His son, notwithstanding this gentle monition,
 As one that was clean devoid of grace,
 Did turn to a mock and open derision
 Most wickedly with an unshamefast¹ face, Insomuch that, contrary to his father's will,
 Unto a young woman he did consent,
 Whereby of lust he might have his fill,
 And married the same incontinent²
 Not long after that, the child began
 To feel his wife's great frowardness,
 And called himself unhappy man,
 Oppressed with pains and heaviness
 Who, before that time, did live blessedly
 Whilst he was under his father's wing,
 But now, being wedded, mourning and misery
 Did him torment without ending
 But now it is time for me to be going,
 And hence to depart for a certain space,
 For I do hear the Rich Man coming
 With the wanton boy into this place

[Here the Prologue Speaker goeth out, and in cometh the Rich Man and his son]

SON Father, I beseech you, father, show me the
 way,
 What thing I were best to take in hand,
 Whereby this shoit life so spend I may,
 That all grief and trouble I might withstand

² Immediately See "Othello," Act iv sc 3

FATHER. What is the meaning, my child, I thee
pray,
This question to demand of me?
For that thing to do I am glad alway,
Which should not be grievous to thee

SON Marry, but therefore of you counsel I take,
Seeing now my childhood I am clean past,
That unto me ye plainly do make
What to a young man is best for to taste

FATHER I see nothing truly, my son, so meet,
And to prove so profitable for thee,
As unto the school to move thy feet,
With studious lads there for to be

SON What, the school! nay, father, nay!
Go to the school is not the best way

FATHER Say what thou list, for I cannot invent
A way more commodious to my judgment¹

SON It is well known how that ye have loved Me heretofore at all times most tenderly,
But now (me-think) ye have plainly showed Certain tokens of hatred,
For if I should go to my book after your advice,
Which have spent my childhood so pleasantly,
I may then seem driven out of paradise,
To take pain and woe, grief and misery
All things I had rather sustain and abide,
The business of the school once cast aside,
Therefore, though ye cry, till ye revel¹ asunder,
I will not meddle with such a matter

FATHER Why, cannot I thee thus much persuade?
For that in my mind is the best trade

SON When all is said and all is done,

¹ That is, according to my judgment See "Lear," Act
I sc 4 — Halliwell

¹ To split, or burst Generally spelt rene

Concerning all things, both more and less,
Yet like to the school none under the sun
Bringeth to children so much heaviness

FATHER What, though it be painful, what, though it be grievous,
For so be all things at the first learning,
Yet marvellous pleasure it bringeth unto us,
As a reward for such painstaking
Wherefore come off, and be of good cheer,
And go to thy book without any fear,
For a man without knowledge (as I have read)
May well be compared to one that is dead

SON No more of the school, no more of the book,
That woful work is not for my purpose,
For upon those books I may not look
If so I did, my labour I should lose

FATHER Why then to me thy fancy [doth] express, That the school matters to thee are counted weariness

SON Even as to a great man, wealthy and rich,
Service and bondage is a hard thing,
So to a boy, both dainty and nice,¹
Learning and study is greatly displeasing

FATHER What, my child, displeasing, I pray
thee,
That maketh a man live so happily ?

SON Yea, by my troth, such kind of wisdom
Is to my heart, I tell you, very loathsome

FATHER What trial thereof hast thou taken,
That the school of thee is so ill bespoken ?

SON What trial thereof would ye fain know ?
Nothing more easy than this to show

¹ Both tender and delicate [Here, as pointed out in a note to Heywood's "Four P P" supra, the word nice is to be pronounced nich]

At other boys' hands I have it learned,
 And that of those truly, most of all other,
 Which for a certain time have remained
 In the house and prison of a schoolmaster

FATHER I dare well say that there is no misery,
 But rather joy, pastime and pleasure
 Always with scholars keeping company
 No lite to this, I thee well assure

SON It is not true, father, which you do say,
 The contrary thereof is proved alway,
 For as the bruit goeth by many a one,
 Their tender bodies both night and day
 Are whipped and scourged, and beat¹ like a stone,
 That from top to toe the skin is away

FATHER Is there not (say they) for them in this case

Given other while for pardon some place?

SON None, truly, none, but that alas, alas,
 Diseases among them do grow apace,
 For out of their back and side doth flow
 Of very gore-blood marvellous abundance,
 And yet for all that is not suffered to go,
 Till death be almost seen in their countenance
 Should I be content thither then to run, Where the blood from my breech thus should spun,²

So long as my wits shall be mine own,
 The schoolhouse for me shall stand alone³

FATHER But I am sure that this kind of fashion
 Is not showed to children of honest condition

SON Of truth, with these masters is no difference,

¹ Beaten

 edit of the "Promptorium," v Spwyn]

³ Compare "Troilus and Cressida," i. 2

For alike towards all is their wrath and violence

FATHER Son, in this point thou art quite deceived,

And without doubt falsely persuaded,

For it is not to be judged that any schoolmaster
Is of so great fierceness and cruelty,

And of young infants so sore a tormentor,

That the breath should be about to leave the body

SON Father, this thing I could not have believed,
But of late days I did behold

An honest man's son hereby buried,

Which through many stripes was dead and cold

FATHER Peraventure, the child of some disease did labour,

Which was the cause of his sepulture ¹

SON With no disease, surely, was he disquieted,
As unto me it was then reported

FATHER If that with no such thing he were infected,

What was the cause that he departed ?

SON Men say that of ² this man, his bloody master,

Who like a lion most commonly frowned,

Being hanged up by the heels together,

Was belly and buttocks grievously whipped ,

And last of all (which to speak I tremble),³

That his head to the wall he had often crushed ⁴

FATHER Thus to think, son, thou art beguiled verily,

And I would wish thee to suppose the contrary,

And not for such tales my counsel to forsake,
Which only do covet thee learned to make

SON If Demosthenes and Tully were present truly, They could not print¹ it within my head [more] deeply

FATHER Yet, by thy father's will and intercession, Thou shalt be content that thing to pardon

SON Command what ye list, that only excepted,
And I will be ready your mind to fulfil,
But whereas I should to the school have resorted,
My hand to the palmer² submitting still,
I will not obey ye therein, to be plain,
Though with a thousand strokes I be slain

FATHER Woe is me, my son, woe is me!
This heavy and doleful day to see

SON I giant indeed I am your son,
But you my father shall not be,
If that you will cast me into that prison,
Where torn in pieces ye might me see

FATHER Where I might see thee torn and rent!
O Lord, I could not such a deed invent!

SON Nay, by the mass, I hold³ ye a groat,
Those cruel tyrants cut not my throat
Better it were myself did slay,
Than they with the rod my flesh should fay.
Well, I would we did this talk omit,
For it is loathsome to me every whit

FATHER What trade then, I pray thee, shall I devise,
Whereof thy living at length may arise?

Wilt thou follow warfare, and a soldier be 'ppointed,
And so among Troyans and Romans be numbered ?

SON See ye not, masters, my father's advice ?
Have ye the like at any time heard ?
To will me thereto he is not wise,
It my years and strength he did regard ,
Ye speak worse and worse, whatsoever ye say ,
This manner of life is not a good way,
For no kind of office can me please,
Which is subject to wounds and strokes always

FATHER Somewhat to do it is meet and convenient ,
Wilt thou then give thy diligent endeavour
To let thy youth un honestly be spent,
And do as poor knaves, which jaxes¹ do scoun ?
For I do not see that any good art,
Or else any honest science or occupation,
Thou wilt be content to have a part,
After thy father's mind and exhortation

SON Ha, ha, ha, ha, labour in very deed !
God send him that life which stands in need
There be many fathers that children have,
And yet not make the worst of them a slave,
Might not you of yourself be well ashamed,
Which would have your son thither constrained ?

FATHER I would not have thee driven to that succour,
Yet for because the scriptures declare,
That he should not eat, which will not labour,
Some work to do it must be thy care

SON Father, it is but a folly with you to strive,
But yet notwithstanding I hope to thrive

FATHER That this thine intent may take good success,
I pray God heartily of his goodness

¹ Jakes Compare "Lear," 11 2 —Halliwell

SON Well, well, shall I in few words rehearse
What thing doth most my conscience pierce

FATHER Therewith I am, son, very well contented

SON Yea, but I think that ye will not be pleased

FATHER Indeed, peradventure it may so chance

SON Nay, but I pray ye, without any perchance,
Shall not my request turn to your grievance?

FATHER If it be just and lawful, which thou dost require

SON Both just and lawful, have ye no fear

FATHER Now therefore ask, what is thy petition?

SON Lo, this it is, without further dilation,¹
For so much as all young men for this my beauty,
As the moon the stars, I do far excel, Therefore out of hand² with all speed possibly
To have a wife, methink, would do well,
For now I am young, lively, and lusty,
And welcome besides to all men's company

FATHER Good Lord, good Lord, what do I hear?

SON Is this your beginning to perform my desire?

FATHER Alas! my child, what meaneth thy doting?

Why dost thou covet thy own undoing?

SON (Aside) I know not in the world how to do the thing,

That to his stomach may be delighting

FATHER Why, foolish idiot, thou goest about a wife,

Which is a burthen and yoke all thy life

SON Admit she shall as a burthen with me remain,

Yet will I take one, if your good-will I attain

² At once

FATHER Son, it shall not be thus, by my
counsel

SON I trust ye will not me otherwise compel

FATHER If thou were as wise as I have judged
thee,

Thou wouldest in this case be ruled by me

SON To follow the contrary I cannot be turned,
My heart thereon is stiffly fixed

FATHER What, I say, about thine own destruction?

SON No, no, but about mine own salvation
For if I be helped, I swear by the mass,
It is only marriage that brings it to pass
It is not the school, it is not the book
It is not science or occupation,
It is not to be a barber or cook,
Wherein is now set my consolation,
And since it is thus, be, father, content,
For to marry a wife I am full bent

FATHER Well, if thou wilt not, my son, be ruled,
But needs will follow thine own foolishness,
Take heed hereafter, if thou be troubled,
At me thou never seek redress,
For I am certain thou canst not abide Any pain at all, grief or vexation
Thy childhood with me so easily did slide,
Full of all pastime and delectation,
And if thou wouldest follow the book and learning,
And with thyself also take a wise way,
Then thou mayst get a gentleman's living,
And with many other bear a great sway ¹
Besides this, I would in time to come,
After my power and small hability,
Help thee and further thee, as my wisdom
Should me most counsel for thy commodity

And such a wife I would prepare for thee
 As should be virtuous, wise, and honest,
 And give thee with her after my degree,
 Whereby thou mightest always live in rest

SON I cannot, I tell ye again, so much of my

Consume at my book without a wife

FATHER I perceive therefore I have done too
 well,

And showed overmuch favour to thee,
 That now against me thou dost rebel,
 And for thine own furtherance wilt not agree,
 Wherefore of my goods thou gettest not a penny,
 Nor any succour else at my hands,
 For such a child is most unworthy
 To have any part of his father's lands

SON I do not esteem, father, your goods or lands,

Or any part of all your treasure,
 For I judge it enough to be out of bands,
 And from this day forward to take my pleasure

FATHER Well, if it shall chance thee thy folly to repent,

As thou art like within short space,
 Think none but thyself worthy to be shent,¹ Letting my counsel to take no place

SON As touching that matter, I will no man
 blame

Now, farewell, father, most heartily for the same

FATHER Farewell, my son, depart in God's name!

¹ Blamed, scolded. See "Merry Wives of Windsor," i. 4. The older meaning of the term is ruined, but Elizabethan writers generally employ it in the sense here mentioned — Halliwell [I do not agree. The older sense is, I think, the only one admissible, yet, Nares cites a passage from Shakespeare which may shake this position. See v. Shend, No. 1, second quotation.]

Son Room¹ I say , room, let me be gone
 My father, if he list, shall tarry alone

[Here the Son goeth out, and the Ruch Man tarrieth behind alone

THE FATHER

Now at the last I do myself consider,
 How great grief it is and heaviness
 To every man that is a father,
 To suffer his child to follow wantonness
 If I might live a hundred years longer,
 And should have sons and daughters many,
 Yet for this boy's sake I will not suffer
 One of them all at home with me to tarry ,
 They should not be kept thus under my wing,
 And have all that which they desire ,
 For why it is but their only undoing,
 And, after the proverb, we put oil to the fire² — Wherefore we parents must have a regard
 Our children in time for to subdue,
 Or else we shall have them ever untoward,
 Yea, spiteful, disdainful, naught and untrue
 And let us them thrust alway to the school, Whereby at their books they may be kept under
 And so we shall shortly their courage cool,
 And bring them to honesty, virtue and nurture
 But, alas, now-a-days (the more is the pity), Science and learning is so little regarded,
 That none of us doth muse or study
 To see our children well taught and instructed
 We deck them, we trim them with gorgeous array,
 We pamper and feed them, and keep them so gay,

² " Bring oil to fire " (King Lear, ii 2) Compare also
 " All's Well that ends Well," v 3 —Halliwell

That in the end of all this they be our foes
 We bass them, [we] kiss them, we look round about,
 We marvel and wonder to see them so lean ,
 We ever anon do invent and seek out
 To make them go tricksy,¹ gallant, and clean
 Which is nothing else but the very provoking
 To all unthriftiness, vice, and iniquity ,
 It puffeth them up, it is an alluring
 Their fathers and mothers at length to defy
 Which thing mine own son doth plainly declare,
 Whom I always entirely have loved ,
 He was so my joy, he was so my care,
 That now of the same I am despised
 And how he is hence from me departed,
 He hath no delight with me to dwell ,
 He is not merry, until he be mairied,
 He hath of knavery took such a smell ²
 But yet seeing that he is my son,
 He doth me constrein bitterly to weep,
 I am not (methink) well till I be gone ,
 For this place I can no longer keep

[Here the Rich Man goeth out, and the two Cooks cometh in, first the one, and then the other]

THE MAN-COOK

Make haste, Blanche, blab it out, and come away,
 For we have enough to do all this whole day ,
 Why, Blanche, blab it out, wilt thou not come,
 And knowest what business there is to be done ?
 If thou may be set with the pot at thy nose,
 Thou carest not how other matters goes ,

To trust to thy help I am much the better !

THE MAID-COOK

What a murrain, I say, what a noise dost thou make !

I think that thou be not well in thy wits !

I never heaid man on this sort to take,

With such angry words and hasty fits

MAN Why, dost thou remembēr what is to be bought

For the great bridal against to-morrow ?

The market must be in every place sought

For all kinds of meats, God give thee sorrow !

MAID What banging, what cursing, Long-tongue, is with thee !

I made as much speed as I could possibly ,

I-wis thou mightest have tairied for me,

Until in all points I had been ready ,

I have for thee looked full oft heretofore,

And yet for all that said never the more

MAN Well, for this once I am with thee content,

So that hereafter thou make more haste ,

Or else, I tell thee, thou wilt it repent,

To loiter so long, till the market be past

For there must be bought beef, veal and mutton,

And that even such as is good and fat,

With pig, geese, conies, and capon ,

How sayest thou, Blanche ? blab it out unto that ?

MAID I cannot tell, Long-tongue, what I should
say ,

Of such good cheer I am so glad,

That if I would not eat at all that day,

My belly to fill I were very mad !

MAN There must be also pheasant and swan ,

And therefore I must do what I can,
 That none of all these the gentleman fail
 I dare say he looks for many things mo,
 To be prepared against to-morn ,
 Wherefore, I say, hence let us go
 My feet do stand upon a thorn

MAID Nay, good Long-tongue, I pray once again
 To hear yet of my mind a wold or twain

MAN Come off, then dispatch, and speak it quickly,

For what thing it is thou causest me tarry

MAID Of whence is this gentleman that to morrow is married ?

Where doth his father and his mother dwell ?
 Above forty miles he hath travelled,
 As yesternight his servant did tell

MAN In very deed he comes a great way ,
 With my master he may not long abide ,
 It hath cost him so much on costly array,
 That money out of his purse apace doth slide
 They say that his friends be rich and wealthy ,
 And in the city of London have their dwelling ,
 But yet of them all he hath no penny
 To spend and bestow here at his wedding
 And if it be true that his servant did say ,
 He hath utterly lost his friends' good-will ,
 Because he would not their counsel obey ,
 And in his own country¹ tarry still ,
 As for this woman, which he shall marry ,
 At Saint Albans always hath spent hei life ,
 I think she be a shrew, I tell thee plainly ,
 And full of debate, malice and strife

MAID Though I never saw this woman before ,
 Which hitherto with him this gentleman brought ,
 Yet nevertheless I have tokens in store ,

To judge of a woman that is forward and naught
 The tip of her nose is as sharp as mine,
 Her tongue and her tune¹ is very shrill,
 I warrant her she comes of an ungracious kin,
 And loveth too much her pleasure and will
 What though she be now so neat and so nice,
 And speaketh as gentle as ever I heard
 Yet young men, which be both witty and wise,
 Such looks and such words should not regard

MAN Blanche, blab it out, thou sayest very
 true,

I think thou beginnest at length to preach
 This thing to me is strange and new,
 To hear such a fool young men to teach

MAID A fool ! mine own Long-tongue ! why, call'st thou me fool !

Though now in the kitchen I waste the day,
 Yet in times past I went to school,
 And of my Latin primer I took assay

MAN Masters, this woman did take such assay,
 And then in those days so applied her book,
 That one word thereof she carried not away,
 But then of a scholar was made a cook
 I dare say she knoweth not how her primer began,
 Which of her master she learned then

MAID I trow it began with Domine labia, aperies

MAN What, did it begin with butter de peas ?

MAID I tell thee again, with *Domine, labia
 aperies*,

If now to hear it be thine ease

MAN How, how, with, my madam lay in the pease ?

MAID I think thou art mad ! with *Domine, labia
 aperies*

MAN Yea, marry, I judged it went such ways ,

¹ Voice

It began with, Dorothy, lay up the keys!

MAID Nay then, good night, I perceive by this gear,

That none is so deaf as who will not hear,

I spake as plainly as I could devise,

Yet me understand thou canst in no wise!

MAN Why, yet once again, and I will better listen,

And look upon thee how thy lips do open

MAID Well, mark then, and hearken once for all,

Or else hear it again thou never shall,

My book, I say, began with Domine, labia aperies

MAN Fie, fie, how slow am I of understanding!

Was it all this while, Domine, labia aperies?

Belike I have lost my sense of hearing,

With broiling and burning in the kitchen o' days¹

MAID I promise thee thou seemest to have done little better,

For that I wot in my life I never saw

One like to thyself in so easy a matter,

Unless he were deaf, thus play the daw²

MAN Come on, come on, we have almost forgotten

Such plenty of victuals as we should buy,

It were alms,³ by my troth, thou were well beaten,

Because so long thou hast made me tarry

MAID Tush, tush, we shall come in very good season,

If so be thou goest as fast as I,

Take up thy basket, and quickly have done,

We will be both there by and by

To dinner and supper I never went,
But of beer and wine to you I did drink
Now of such thinks² therefore to make an end,
Which pitiful lovers do cruelly torment,
To marriage, in God's name, let us descend,
As unto this hour we have been bent

YOUNG WOMAN Your will to accomplish I am as ready

As any woman, believe me truly

YOUNG MAN This ring then I give you as a token sure,

Whereby our love shall always endure

YOUNG WOMAN With a pure pretence your pledge I take gladly,

For a sign of our love, faith, and fidelity

YOUNG MAN Now I am safe, now I am glad,
Now I do live, now I do reign,

¹ "Twelve years since" (Tempest) — Halliwell

² A provincialism — Halliwell [Rather, perhaps, a Cockneyism]

Methought till now I was too sad,
 Wherefore, sadness, fly hence again !
 Away with those words which my father brought out !

Away with his sageness and exhortation !
 He could not make me his fool or his lout,
 And put me besides this delectation
 Did he judge that I would go to the school,
 And might my time spend after this sort ?
 I am not his calf,¹ nor yet his fool ,
 This virgin I kiss is my comfort !

YOUNG WOMAN Well then, I pray you, let us be married,

For methink from it we have long tarried

YOUNG MAN Agreed, my sweeting, it shall be then done,

Since that thy good-will I have gotten and won

YOUNG WOMAN There would this day be very good cheer,

That every one his belly may fill,
 And three or four minstrels would be here,
 That none in the house sit idle or still

YOUNG MAN Take ye no thought for abundance of meat,

That should be spent at our bridal,
 For there shall be enough for all men to eat,
 And minstrels besides thereto shall not fail
 The cooks, I dare say, a good while agone,
 With such kind of flesh as I did them tell,
 Are from the market both come home,
 Or else, my own coney, they do not well
 I knew, before that I come to this place,
 We should be married together this day,
 Which caused me then forthwith in this case

¹ A term of contempt for a fool See "Much Ado about Nothing," in 3—Halliwell

To send for victuals, ere I came away

YOUNG WOMAN Wherefore then (I pray ye) shall we go to our inn,

And look that everything be made ready?

Or else all is not worth a brass pin,¹

Such haste is required in matrimony

YOUNG MAN I think six o'clock it is not much past,

But yet to the priest we will make haste,

That according to custom we may be both coupled,
And with a strong knot for ever bound fast

Yet, ere I depart, some song I will sing,

To the intent to declare my joy without fear,

And in the meantime you may, my sweeting,
Rest yourself in this little chair

THE SONG

*Spite of his spite, which that in vain
Doth seek to force my fantasy,
I am professed for loss or gain,
To be thine own assuredly,*

*Wherefore let my father spite² and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn!*

*Although my father of busy wit
Doth babble still, I care not tho,
I have no fear, nor yet will flit,
As doth the water to and fro,*

*Wherefore let my father spite and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn!*

For I am set and will not swerve, Whom spiteful speech removeth nought,

¹ "At a pin's fee" (Hamlet) —Halliwell

² Anger "And that which spites me more than all these wants" (Taming of the Shrew) —Halliwell

*And since that I thy grare deserve,
I count it is not dearly bought,
Wherfore let my father spite and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn !*

*Who is afraid, let you him fly,
For I shall well abide the brunt Maugre to his lips that listeth to lie,
Of busy brains as is the wont,
Wherfore let my father spite and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn !*

*Who listeth thereat to laugh or loue,¹
I am not he that ought doth reck,²
There is no pain that hath the power
Out of my breast your love to fetch,
Wherfore let my father spite and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn !*

*For whereas he moved me to the school,
And only to follow my book and learning
He could never make me such a fool,
With all his soft words and fair speaking,
Wherfore let my father spite and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn !*

*This minion heire, this mincing³ trull,⁴ Doth please me more a thousand fold,
Than all the earth that is so full
Of precious stones, silver and gold,
Wherfore let my father spite and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn !*

¹ To look sad. This term is often incorrectly explained
' Fye, how impatience lowreth in your face" (Com. Lyr.), ² e., makes your face look sad, opposed to the "merry look" — Halliwell [Lour is simply a contracted form of loue.]

² Care

³ Compare "Merchant of Venice," in 4 — Halliwell

⁴ Not a term of reproach — Compare "1 Henry VI" —
Halliwell

*Whatsoever I did it was for her sake,
It was for her love and only pleasure,
I count it no labour such labour to take,
In getting to me so high a treasure,
Wherefore let my father spite and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn !*

*This day I intended for to be merry,
Although my hard father be far hence,
I know no cause for to be heavy,
For all this cost and great expense,
Wherefore let my father spite and spurn,
My fantasy will never turn !*

YOUNG MAN How like ye this song, my own sweet rose ?
Is it well made for our purpose ?

YOUNG WOMAN I never heard in all my life a better,
More pleasant, more meet for the matter ,
Now let us go then, the morning is nigh gone,
We cannot any longer here remain
Farewell, good masters every one,
Till from the church we come again

[Here they go out, and in cometh the Priest alone]

PRIEST Sirs, by my troth it is a world to see ¹
The exceeding negligence of every one,
Even from the highest to the lowest degree
Both goodness and conscience is clean gone
There is a young gentleman in this town,
Who this same day now must be married
Yet though I would bestow a crown,
That knave the clerk cannot be spied ,
For he is safe, if that in the alehouse
He may sit tippling of nut-brown ale,

¹ Compare "Taming of the Shrew," ii 1 —Halliwell

That oft he comes forth as drunk as a mouse
 With a nose of his own not greatly pale ,
 And this is not once, but every day
 Almost, of my faith, throughout the whole year
 That he these tricks doth use to play,
 Without all shame, dread and fear
 He knoweth himself, that yesternight
 The said young gentleman came to me,
 And then desired that he might
 This morning betimes married be ,
 But now I doubt it will be high noon,
 Ere that his business be quite ended,
 Unless the knavish fool come very soon,
 That this same thing may be despatched ,
 And therefore, since that this naughty pack
 Hath at this present me thus served,
 He is like henceforward my good-will to lack,
 Or else unwise I might be judged
 I am taught hereafter how such a one to trust
 In any matter concerning the church ,
 For, if I should, I perceive that I must
 Of mine own honesty lose very much
 And yet for all this, from week to week,
 For his stipend and wages he ever¹ crieth,
 And for the same continually doth seek,
 As from time to time plainly appeareth ,
 But whether his wages he hath deserved,
 Unto you all I do me report,
 Since that his duty he hath not fulfilled,
 Nor to the church will scant resort ,
 That many a time and oft² I am fain
 To play the priest, clerk, and all,
 Though thus to do it is great pain,
 And my reward but very small

² Compare “The Merchant of Venice,” i 3 — Halliwell

Wherefore (God willing) I will such order take,
 Before that I be many days elder,
 That he shall be glad this town to forsake,
 And learn evermore to please his better,
 And in such wise all they shall be used,
 Which in this parish intend to be clerks ,
 Great pity it were the church should be dis-ordered,
 Because that such swillbowls¹ do not their works
 And to say truth, in many a place,
 And other great towns beside this same,
 The priests and parishioners be in the like case,
 Which to the churchwardens may be a shame
 How should the priest his office fulfil, Accordingly as indeed he ought,
 When that the clerk will have a self-will,
 And always in service-time must be sought ?
 Notwithstanding at this present there is no remedy,
 But to take time, as it doth fall,
 Wherefore I will go hence and make me ready,
 For it helpeth not to chafe or brawl

[Here the Priest goeth out, and in cometh the Rich Man]

THE RICH MAN

Coming this day forth of my chamber,
 Even as for water to wash I did call,
 By chance I espied a certain stranger,
 Standing beneath within my hall ,
 Who in very deed came from the innholder,
 Whereas for a time my son did lie,
 And said that his master had sent me a letter,
 And bad him to bring it with all speed possible ,

¹ Drunkards

Wherein he did write that as this day
 That unthrift,¹ my son, to a certain maid
 Should then be wedded without further delay,
 And hath borrowed more than will be paid,
 And since that he heard he was my son
 By a gentleman or two this other day,
 He thought that it should be very well done
 To let me have knowledge thereof by the way,
 And willed me, if that I would any thing
 Of him to be done of me in this matter,
 That then he his servant such word should bring,
 As at his coming he might do hereafter
 I bad him thank his master most heartily,
 And sent him by him a piece of venison,
 For that he vouchsafed to write so gently,
 Touching the marrying and state of my son
 But notwithstanding I sent him no money
 To pay such debts as my son did owe,
 Because he had me forsaken utterly,
 And me for his good father would not know,
 And said that with him I would not make
 From that day forward during my life,
 But as he had brewed, that so he should bake,
 Since of his own choosing he gat him a wife
 Thus, when his servant from me departed,
 Into my chamber I went again,
 And there a great while I bitterly weeped
 This news to me was so great pain
 And thus with these words I began to moan, Lamenting and mourning myself all alone
 O madness, O doting of those young folk!
 O minds without wit, advice and discretion,
 With whom their parents can bear no stroke
 In their first matrimonial conjunction
 They know not what misery, grief and unquietness

Will hereafter ensue of their extreme foolishness,
 Of all such labours they be clean ignorant,
 Which, in the nourishing and keeping of children,
 To their great charges it is convenient
 Either of them henceforth to sustain Concerning expenses bestowed in a house,
 They perceive as little as doth the mouse
 On the one side the wife will brawl and scold,
 On the other side the infant will cry in the cradle Anon, when the child waxeth somewhat old,
 For meat and drinck he begins to babble
 Hereupon cometh it that at markets and fairs
 A husband is forced to buy many wares
 Yet for all this hath my foolish son,
 As wise [as] a woodcock,¹ without any wit,
 Despising his father's mind and opinion,
 Marriied a wife for him most unfit,
 Supposing that mirth to be everlasting,
 Which then at the first was greatly pleasing
 How they two will live, I cannot tell,
 Whereto they may trust, they have nothing
 My mind giveth me, that they will come dwell
 At length by their father for want of living,
 But my son doubtless, for anything that I know,
 Shall reap in such wise as he did sow,
 True he shall find, that Hippoanax did write,
 Who said with a wife are two days of pleasure,
 The first is the joy of the marriage-day and night,
 The second to be at the wife's sepulture
 And this by experience he shall prove true,
 That of his bridal great evils do ensue
 And (as I suppose) it will prove in his life,
 When he shall wish that to him it may chance,
 Which unto Eupolis and also his wife,

¹ Compare "Taming of the Shrew," 1 2 "O this wood cock what an ass it is!" —Halliwell

The night they were wedded, fell for a vengeance ,
 Who with the heavy ruin of the bed were slain,
 As the Poet Ovid in these two verses make plain

Sit tibi conjugu nox prima novissimi ritu, Eupolis hoc perit et nova nupta modo

Ovidius, writing against one Ibis his enemy,
 That the first night of his marriage did wish
 The last of his life might be certainly,
 For so (quoth he) did Eupolis and his wife perish Yet to my son I pray God to send,
 Because thereunto me nature doth bind,
 Though he hath offended, a better end
 Than Eupolis and his wife did find
 And now I shall long ever anon,
 Till some of those quarters come riding hither,
 Unto the which my son is gone,
 To know how they do live together
 But I am fasting, and it is almost noon,
 And more than time that I had dined
 Wherefore from hence I will go soon ,
 I think by this time my meat is burned

[Here the Rich Man goeth out, and in cometh the Young Man his son with the Young Woman, being both married]

THE HUSBAND

O my sweet wife, my pretty coney !

THE WIFE

O my husband, as pleasant as honey HUSBAND O Lord, what pleasures and great commodity
 Are heaped together in matrimony !
 WIFE How vehement, how strong a thing love is !

How many smirks and dulsome¹ kisses !

HUSBAND What smiling, what laughing !
What spoit, pastime, and playing !

WIFE What tickling, what toying !
What dallying, what joying !

HUSBAND The man with the wife is wholly delighted,

And with many causes to laughter enforced

WIFE When they two drink, they drink together,

They never eat but one with another

HUSBAND Sometimes to their garden forth they walk,

And into the fields sometimes they go,
With merry tricks and gestures they talk,
As they do move their feet to and fro

WIFE Sometimes they ride into the country,
Passing the time with mirth and sport,
And when with their friends they have been meriy,
Home to their own house they do resort

HUSBAND Sometimes abroad they go to see plays,

And other trim sights for to behold
When often they meet in the highways
Much of their acquaintance they knew of old

WIFE Sometimes to the church they do repair,
To hear the sermon that shall be made,
Though it to remember they shall have small care ,
For why they be now but few of that trade

HUSBAND Sometimes at home at cards they play,

Sometimes at this game, sometimes at that ,
They need not with sadness to pass the day,
Nor yet to sit still, or stand in one plat

WIFE And as for us wives, occasions do move

¹ [Rather, perhaps, dulsum, i.e., sweet]

Sometimes with our gossips to make good cheer,
Or else we did not, as did us behove,
For certain days and weeks in the year

HUSBAND I think that a man might spend a whole day,
Declaring the joys and endless bliss,
Which married persons receive alway,
If they love faithfully, as meet it is

WIFE Wives cannot choose but love earnestly,
If that their husbands do all things well,
Or else, my sweetheart, we shall espy,
That in quietness they cannot dwell

HUSBAND If they do not, it may be a shame
For I love you heartily, I you assure
Or else I were truly greatly to blame,
Ye are so loving, so kind and demure

WIFE I trust that with neither hand or foot
Ye shall see any occasion by me
But that I love you even from the heart-root,
And during my life so intend to be HUSBAND Who then merry marriage can dis-commend,

And will not with Aristotle in his Ethics ¹ agree?
But will say, that misery is the end,
When otherwise I find it to be A politic man will marry a wife,
As the philosopher makes declaration,
Not only to have children by his life,
But also for living, help, and sustentation

WIFE Who will not with H'eroecles plainly confess,
That mankind to society is wholly adjoining,

¹ This confirms in some measure a reading in the “Taming of the Shrew”—“Or so devote to Aristotle's Ethics”—Halliwell [See Dyce's 2d edit in 114, and the note.]

And in this society nevertheless
Of worthy wedlock took the beginning
Without the which no city can stand,
Nor household be perfect in any land ?

HUSBAND Pythagoras, Sociates, and Crates also Which truly were men of very small substance,
As I heard my father tell long ago,
Did take them wives with a safe conscience ,
And dwelled together, supposing that they Were unto philosophy nother stop nor stay

WIFE Yea, what can be more according to kind
Than a man to a woman himself to bind ?

HUSBAND Away with those therefore, that mai-riage despise,
And of dangers thereof invent many lies !

WIFE But what is he that cometh yonder ?
Do ye not think it is our man ?
Somewhat there is that he hasteth hither,
For he makes as much speed as he can

[Here the servant of the Rich Man's Son cometh in, with an errand to his master]

SERVANT

Master, there is a stranger at home,
He would very fain with you talk
Foi until that to him ye do come,
Forth of the doors he will not walk

HUSBAND Come on then, my wife, if it be so,
Let us depart hence for a season
For I am not well, till I do know
Of that man's coming the very reason

[Here they both go out, and their Servant doth tarry behind alone]

SERVANT

Let them go both, and do what they will,
 And with communication fill their belly
 For I, by Saint George, will tarry here still,
 In all my life I was never so weary !
 I have this day filled so many pots
 With all manner wine, ale, and beer,
 That I wished then bellies full of bots,¹ Long of whom ² was made such cheer
 What kinds of meat, both flesh and fish,
 Have I, poor knave, to the table cairried
 From time to time, dish after dish ,
 My legs from going never ceased !
 What running had I for apples and nuts !
 What calling for biscuits, comfits, and caraway,³
 A vengeance, said I, light on their guts,
 That makes me to turn so many ways !
 What crying was there for cards and dice !
 What roisting,⁴ what ruffling made they within !
 I counted them all not greatly wise,
 For my head did almost ache with din
 What babbling, what jangling⁵ was in the house !
 What quaffing, what bibbing with many a cup !
 That some lay along as drunk as a mouse,
 Not able so much as their heads to hold up !
 What dancing, what leaping, what jumping about,
 From bench to bench, and stool to stool,
 That I wondered their brains did not fall out,

² Owing to whom

³ Caraway comfits See "2 Henry IV" and the blunders of the commentators corrected in my "Dictionary of Archaisms," p 281 — Halliwell

⁴ Compare "Troilus and Cressida," ii 2 — Halliwell

⁵ "Good wits will be jangling" (Love's Labour's Lost) — Halliwell

When they so outrageously played the fool !
 What juggling was there upon the boards !
 What thrusting of knives through many a nose !
 What bearing of forms, what holding of swords,
 And putting of botkins¹ through leg and hose !
 Yet for all that they called for drink,
 And said they could not play for dry,
 That many at me did nod and wink,
 Because I should bring it by and by Howsoever they sported, the pot did still walk
 If that were away, then all was lost,
 For ever anon the jug was their talk,
 They passed² not who bare such charge and cost
 Therefore let him look his purse be right good,
 That it may discharge all that is spent,
 Or else it will make his hair grow through his hood,³
 There was such havoc made at this present,
 But I am afeard my master be angry,
 That I did abide thus long behind
 Yet for his anger I pass⁴ not greatly,
 His words they be but only wind !
 Now that I have rested so long in this place,
 Homeward again I will hie me apace

[Here the Servant goeth out, and in cometh first the Wife, and shortly after the Husband]

THE WIFE

Where is my husband ? was he not here ?
 I marvel much whither he is gone !
 Then I perceive I am [not] much the near⁵

² Cared

³ [A rather common phrase See Hazlitt's "Proverbs," 1869, p 205]

⁴ Care

⁵ [Nearer]

But lo, where he cometh hither alone !
 Wot ye what, husband, from day to day
 With dainty dishes our bodies have been filled ?
 What meat to-morrow next shall we assay,
 Whereby we may then be both refiested ?

HUSBAND Do ye now provide and give a regard
 For victuals hereafter to be prepared ?

WIFE But that I know, husband, it lieth us in hand

Of things to come to have a consideration,
 I would not once will you to understand
 About such business my careful provision
 It is needful therefore to work we make haste,
 That to get both our livings we may know the cast

HUSBAND To trouble me now, and make me vexed,

This mischievous means hast thou invented

WIFE What trouble for thee, what kind of vexation,

Have I to disquiet thee caused at this present ?
 My only mind is thou make expedition
 To seek for our profit, as is convenient ¹
 Wherefore to thee I say once again,
 Because to take pains thou art so loth,
 By Christ, it were best with might and main
 To fall to some work, I swear a great oath !

HUSBAND Yet, for a time, if it may thee please,
 Let me be quiet, and take mine ease

WIFE Wilt thou have us then through hunger be starved ?

HUSBAND I would not we should for hunger be killed

WIFE Then, I say then, this gear ² go about,
 And look that thou labour diligently,
 Or else thou shalt shortly prove without doubt,

² Business

Thy sluggishness will not please me greatly

HUSBAND Beginnest thou even now to be painful and grievous,

And to thy husband a woman so troublous?

WIFE What words have we here, thou misbegotten

Is there not already enough to be spoken?

HUSBAND O mirth, O joy, O pastime and pleasure,

How little a space do you endure?

WIFE I see my commandment can take no
place,

Thou shalt aby therefore, I swear by the mass!

[Here the Wife must strike her Husband handsomely about the shoulders with something

HUSBAND Alas, good wife! good wife, alas, alas!

Strike not so hard, I pray thee heaitly!

Whatsoever thou wilt have brought to pass,

It shall be done with all speed possible

WIFE Lay these faggots, man, upon thy shoulder,

And carry this wood from street to street,

To sell the same, that we both together

Our living may get, as is most meet

Hence, midiot, hence without more delay!

What meanest thou thus to stagger and stay?

HUSBAND O Lord! what, how miserable men be those,

Which to their wives as wretches be wedded,

And have them continually their mortal foes,

Serving them thus, as slaves that be hired!

Now by experience true I do find,

Which oftentimes unto me heretofore

My father did say, declaring his mind,

That in matrimony was pain evermore,

What shall I do, most pitiful creature ?
 Just cause I have, alas, to lament
 That frantic woman my death will procure,
 If so be this day without gain be spent
 For unless for my wood some money be taken,
 Like a dog with a cudgel I shall be beaten !
 Ho, thou good fellow, which standest so nigh,
 Of these heavy bundles ease my sore back,
 And somewhat therefore give me by and by,
 Or else I die, for silver I do lack Now that I have some money received
 For this my burthen, home I will go,
 And lest that my wife be discontented,
 What I have take, I will her show
 Wife, I am come I went a long way,
 And here is the profit and gains of this day !

WIFE Why, thou lout, thou fool, thou whore-son folt,¹
 Is this thy wood money, thou peevish ² dolt ?
 Thou shalt smart for this gear, I make God a vow !
 Thou knowest no more to sell wood than doth the
 sow !

HUSBAND By God's precious, I will not unwisely suffer

To do as I have done any longer

WIFE Why, dost thou rise against me, villain ?
 Take heed I scratch not out thy eyes twain !

HUSBAND Scratch, and thou dare, for I have a knife

Perchance I will rid thee of thy life !

WIFE Slay me with thy knife, thou shitten dastard !

Dost thou think to find me such a dissard ?

² Foolish—"Our peevish opposition" (Hamlet) —Halliwell.

By Cock's bones, I will make thy skin to rattle,
 And the brains in thy skull more deeply to settle [Here the Wife must lay on load upon her Husband]

HUSBAND Good wife, be content! forgive me this fault!

I will never again do that which is naught

WIFE Go to, foolish calf, go to, and upise,
 And put up thy knife, I thee advise

HUSBAND I will do your commandments what soever

WIFE Hence away, then, and fill this with water

HUSBAND O merciful God, in what lamentable state

Is he, of whom the wife is the master?
 Would God I had been predestinate
 On my marriage day to have died with a fever!
 O wretched creature, what may I do?
 My grievous wife shall I return unto?
 Lo, wife, behold! without further delay
 The water ye sent for here I do bring

WIFE What, I say? what meaneth this weeping?
 What aileth thee to make all this crying?

HUSBAND I weep not, forsooth, nor cry not as yet

WIFE No, nor thou wilt not, if thou hast any
 wit,

It is not thy weeping that can ought avail,
 And therefore this matter no longer bewail
 Come off, I say, and run by the river,
 And wash these clothes in the water

HUSBAND Wife, I will thither hie me fast WIFE Yet I advise thee, thou cullon,¹ make haste

¹ Compare "Taming of the Shrew," iv 2 — Halliwell
 VOL II

HUSBAND O, how unhappy and eke unfortunate
 Is the most part of married men's condition !
 I would to death I had been agate,¹
 When my mother in bearing me made lamentation
 What shall I do ? whither shall I turn ?
 Most careful man now under the sky !
 In the flaming fire I had rather burn,
 Than with extreme pain live so heavily
 There is no shift, to my wife I must go,
 Whom that I did wed, I am full wo !
 Where are ye, wife ? your clothes are washed clean,
 As white as a lily,² without spot or stain WIFE Thou thief, thou caitiff, why is not this place

 Washed as fair as all the rest ?
 Thou shalt for this gear now smoke apace !
 By Jis,³ I swear, thou brutish beast !

[Here she must knock her Husband]

HUSBAND. Alas, alas ! I am almost quite dead !
 My wife so pitifully hath broken my head !

[Here her Husband must lie along on the ground, as though he were sore beaten and wounded]

WIFE Well, I perceive the time will away,
 And into the countey to go I have promised,
 Look therefore thou go not from hence to-day,
 Till home again I am returned Take heed, I say, this house thee retain,
 And stir not for any thing out of my door,
 Until that I come hither again,
 As thou wilt be rewarded therefore

[Here his Wife goeth out, and the Husband tarrieth behind alone]

² A common phrase See "Two Gentlemen of Verona,"

³ Compare the song in "Hamlet," IV. 5 — Halliwell

HUSBAND The flying fiend¹ go with my wife,
 And in her journey ill may she speed !
 I pray God Almighty to shorten hei life !
 The earth at no time doth bear such a weed !
 Although that I be a gentleman born,
 And come by my ancētors of a good blood,
 Yet am I like to wear a coat toin,
 And hithei and thithei go cairy wood !
 But rather than I this life will abide,
 To-morrlow morning I do intend
 Home to my father again to ride,
 If some man to me his horse will lend
 She is to her gossips gone to make merry,
 And there she will be for three or four days
 She cares not, though I do now miscarry,
 And suffer such pain and sorrow always
 She leaveth to me neither bread nor dink,
 But such, as I judge, no body would eat
 I might by the walls lie dead and stink,
 For any great wholesomeness in my meat
 She walketh abroad, and taketh her pleasure
 Herself to cherish is all her care
 She passeth not what grief I endure,
 Or how I can live with nougthy² fare
 And since it is so, without furthei delay
 To my father to-morrow I will away

My strength and power, hence to the sky,
No earthly tongue can well express !
O, what inventions, crafts and wiles
Is there contained within this head !
I know that he is within few miles,
Which of the same is throughly sped
O, it was all my study day and night
Cunningly to bring this matter to pass
In all the earth there is no wight,
But I can make to cry alas
This man and wife, that not long ago
Fell in this place together by the ears
It was only I that this strife did sow,
And have been about it certain years
For after that I had taken a smell
Of their good will and fervent love,
Me-thought I should not tarry in hell,
But unto debate them shortly move
O, it was I that made him to despise
All wisdom, goodness, virtue, and learning,
That he afterward could in no wise
Once in his heart fancy teaching
O, it was I that made him refuse
The wholesome monition of his father dear,
And caused him still of a wife to muse,
As though she should be his joy and cheer !
O, it was I that made him go hence,
And suppose that his father was very unkind ,
It was I that did drive him to such expense
And made him as bare as an ape is behind
And now that I have this business ended,
And joined him and his wife together,
I think that I have my part well played
None of you all would do it better
Ho, ho, ho ! this well-favoured head of mine,
What thing soever it hath in hand,
Is never troubled with ale or wine,

Neither by sea, nor yet by land
 I tell you I am a marvellous body,
 As any is at this day living
 My head doth devise each thing so trimly,
 That all men may wonder of the ending
 O, I have such fetches,¹ such toys in this head,
 Such crafty devices and subtle train,
 That whomsoever of you I do wed,
 Ye are like at my hands to take small gain
 There is no gentleman, knight, or lord
 There is no duke, earl, or king,
 But, if I list, I can with one word
 Shortly send unto their lodging
 Some I disquiet with covetousness
 Some with wrath, pride and lechery ,
 And some I do thrust into such distress,
 That he feeleth only pain and misery
 Some I allure to have their delight
 Always in gluttony, envy and muider,
 And those things to practise with all their might,
 Either by land or else by water Ho, ho, ho ! there is none to be compared To me, I tell you, in any point
 With a great soit² myself I have tried,
 That boldly ventured many a joint,
 And when for a long time we had wrestled,
 And showed our strength on either side,
 Yet oftentimes a fall they received,
 When through my policy their feet did slide Wherefore (my dear children) I warn ye all Take heed, take heed of my temptation,
 For commonly at the last ye have the fall,
 And also [be] brought to desperation
 O ! it is a folly for many to strive,
 And think of me to get the upper hand,

² Company

For unless that God make them to thrive,
 They cannot against me stick or stand
 And though that God on high have his dominion,
 And ruleth the world everywhere,
 Yet by your leave I have a portion
 Of this same earth that standeth here
 The kingdom of God is above in heaven,
 And mine is, I tell you, beneath in hell,
 But yet a greater place, if he had dealt even,
 He should have given me and mine to dwell
 For to my palace of every nation,
 Of what degree or birth soever they be,
 Come running in with such festination,¹
 That otherwhiles they amazed me
 O, all the Jews and all the Turks,
 Yea, and a great part of Christendom,
 When they have done my will and my works,
 In the end they fly hither all and some ²
 There is no minute of the day,
 There is no minute of the night,
 But that in my palace there is alway
 Crowding together a marvellous sight,
 They come on thicker than swarms of bees,
 And make such a noise and crying out,
 That many a one lieth on his knees,
 With thousands kept under and closed about Not so much as my parlours, halls, and every chamber
 My porches, my galleries, and my court
 My entries, my kitchen, and my larder,
 But with all manner people be filled throughout
 What shall I say more, I cannot tell,
 But of this (my children) I am certain,
 There comes more in one hour unto hell,
 Than unto heaven in a month or twain
 And yet for all this my nature is such,

² Every one

That I am not pleased with this company,
 But out of my kingdom I must walk much,
 That one or other I may take taidy
 Ho, ho, ho ! I am never once afraid
 With these my claws you for to touch,
 For I will not leave, till you be paid
 Such treasurie as is within my pouch
 The wold is my son, and I am his fathei,
 And also the flesh is a daughter of mine ,
 It is I alone that taught them to gather Both gold and silver that is so fine ,
 Wherefore I suppose that they love me well,
 And my commandments gladly obey,
 That at the last then unto hell
 They may come all the ready way
 But now (I know), since I came hithei,
 There is such a multitude at my gate,
 That I must again repair down thither
 After mine old mannei and rate

[Here the Devil goeth out, and in cometh the Rich Man's Son alone]

THE SON

How glad am I that my journey is ended,
 Which I was about this whole day !
 My horse to stand still I never suffered,
 Because I would come to the end of my way
 But yet I am sorry that I cannot find My loving fathei at home at his place,
 That unto him I may break my mind,
 And let him know my miserable case

[Here he confesseth his naughtiness, uttering the same with a pitiful voice]

I have been wild, I have been wanton,
 I have ever followed my fancy and will
 I have been to my father a froward son,
 And from day to day continued still

I have always proudly disdained those
 That in my madness gave me good counsel
 I counted them most my mortal foes,
 And stoutly against them did rebel
 The thing that was good I greatly hated,
 As one which lacked both wit and reason,
 The thing that was evil I ever loved,
 Which now I see is my confusion
 I could not abide of the school to hear,
 Masters and teachers my heart abhorred,
 Methought the book was not fit gear
 For my tender fingers to have handled,
 I counted it a pleasure to be daintily fed,
 And to be clothed in costly array
 I would most commonly slug in my bed,
 Until it were very far-forth day
 And (to be short) anon after this,
 There came such fancies in my brain,
 That to have a wife, whom I might kiss,
 I reckoned to be the greatest gain
 But yet, alas, I was quite deceived,
 The thing itself doth easily appear,
 I would, alas, I had been buried,
 When to my father I gave not ear
 That which I had I have clean spent,
 And kept so much riot with the same,
 That now I am fain a coat that is rent,
 Alas, to wear for very shame
 I have not a cross left in my purse
 To help myself now in my need,
 That well I am worthy of God's curse,
 And of my father to have small meed

[Here the Rich Man must be as it were coming in]
 But except mine eyes do me beguile,
 That man is my father, whom I do see
 And now that he comes, without craft or wile,
 To him I will bend on either knee
 Ah, father, father, my father most dear !

FATHER Ah ! mine own child, with thee what cheer ?

SON All such sayings as in my mind
At the first time ye studied to settle,
Most true, alas, I do them find,
As though they were written in the Gospel

FATHER Those words, my son, I have almost forgotten,
Stand up, therefore, and kneel no longer,
And what it was I spake so often,
At two or three words recite to thy father

SON If that ye be, father, well remembered,
As the same I believe ye cannot forget,
You said that, so soon as I were married,
Much pain and trouble thereby I should get

FATHER Hast thou by proof, son, this thing
told ?

SON Yea, alas, too much I have experienced
My wife I did wed all full of frenzy
My seely poor shouldeis hath now so bruised,
That like to a cripple I move me weakly,
Being full often with the staff thwacked
She spareth no more my flesh and bone,
Than if my body were made of stone !
Her will, her mind, and her commandment
From that day hither I have fulfilled,
Which if I did not, I was bitterly shent,
And with many strokes grievously punished
That would God, the how when I was married,
In the midst of the church I might have sinked
I think there is no man under the sun,
That here on the earth beareth life,
Which would do such drudgery as I have done,
At the unkind words of such a wife,
For how I was used, and in what wise,
A day to declare will not suffice
If this be not true, as I have spoken,
To my good neighbours I me report,

Who other whiles, when I was smitten,
 My wife to be gentle did then exhort
 For glad I was to abide all labour,
 Whereby the less might be my dolour ¹
 Wherefore, good father, I you humbly desire
 To have pity of me and some compassion,
 Or else I am like to he fast in the mire,
 Without any succour or consolation
 For at this hour I have not a penny,
 Myself to help in this great misery

FATHER For so much as by my advice and
 counsel

In no manner wise thou wouldest be ruled
 Therefore to thee I cannot do well,
 But let thee still suffer as thou hast deserved,
 For that thou hast suffered is yet nothing
 To that tribulation which is behind coming

SON Alas, father, what shall I do?
 My wits of themselves cannot devise What thing I were best go unto,
 Whereof an honest living may arise
 Wherefore, gentle father, in this distress,
 Somewhat assuage mine heaviness

FATHER What should I do, I cannot tell,
 For now that thou hast taken a wife,
 With me thy father thou mayest not dwell,
 But always with her spend thy life
 Thou mayest not again thy wife forsake,
 Which during life to thee thou didst take

SON Alas, I am not able thus to endure, Though thereto I were never so willing,
 For my wife is of such a crooked nature,
 As no woman else in this day living,
 And if the very truth I shall confess,
 She is to me an evil that is endless

¹ Grief "My endless dolour" (Two Gentlemen of Verona)
 —Halliwell

FATHER If that thou thinkest thyself alone
 Only to lead this irksome life,
 Thou may'st learn what grief, sorrow and moan,
 Socrates had with Xantippe his wife¹,
 Her husband full oft she taunted and checked,
 And, as the book saith, un honestly mocked

SON I cannot tell what was Socrates wife,
 But mine I do know, alas, too well,
 She is one that is evermore full of strife,
 And of all scolders beareth the bell
 When she speaketh best, then brawleth her tongue,
 When she is still, she fighteth apace,
 She is an old witch, though she be young
 No mirth with her, no joy or solace!

FATHER I cannot, my son, thy state redress,
 Me thy father thou didst refuse,
 Wherefore now help thy own foolishness,
 And of thy wife no longer muse

SON My wife went forth into the country
 With certain gossips to make good cheer,
 And bad me at home still to be,
 That at her return she might find me there
 And if that she do take me from home,²
 My bones, alas, she will make to crackle,
 And me her husband, as a stark mome,³
 With knocking and mocking she will handle,
 And, therefore, if I may not here remain,
 Yet, loving father, give me your reward,
 That I may with speed ride home again,
 That to my wife's words have some regard.

FATHER If that at the first thou wouldest have been ordered,
 And done as thy father counselled thee,
 So wretched a life had never chanced,

¹ Compare "Taming of the Shrew," 1 2 —Halliwell

² [Catch me gone from home]

³ Fool —See "Comedy of Errors, iii 1." —Halliwell

Whereof at this present thou complainest to me,
 But yet come on, to my house we will be going,
 And there thou shalt see what I will give —
 A little to help thy need living,
 Since that in such penury thou dost live,
 And that once done, thou must hence again,
 For I am not he that will thee retain

[Here the Rich Man and his Son go out, and in cometh the Perorator¹]

THE PERORATOR

This Interlude here, good gentle audience,
 Which presently before you we have played,
 Was set forth with such care and diligence,
 As by us truly might well be shewed
 Short it is, I deny not, and full of brevity,
 But if ye mark therelof the matter,
 Then choose ye cannot but see plainly,
 How pain and pleasure be knit together
 By this little play the father is taught
 After what manner his child to use, Lest that through cockering² at length he be brought
 His father's commandment to refuse,
 Here he may learn a witty³ lesson
 Betimes to correct his son being tender,
 And not let him be lost and undone
 With wantonness, of mischief the mother,
 For as long as the twig is gentle and pliant (Every man knoweth this by experience),
 With small force and strength it may be bent,
 Putting thereto but little diligence,
 But after that it waxeth somewhat bigger,
 And to cast his branches largely beginneth,

¹ The person who spoke the Epilogue (Lat)

² Indulgence

³ Clever — See "Taming of the Shrew" — Halliwell

It is scant the might of all thy power,
That one bough thereof easily bendeth
This twig to a child may well be applied,
Which, in his childhood and age of infancy,
With small correction may be amended,
Embracing the school with heart and body,
Who afterward, with overmuch liberty,
And ranging abroad with the bridle of will,
Despiseth all virtue, learning, and honesty,
And also his father's mind to fulfil Whereby at the length it so falleth out
That this the young stripling, after that day
Runs into confusion without any doubt,
And like for evermore quite to decay
Wherefore take heed, all ye that be parents,
And follow a part after my counsel,
Instruct your children and make them students,
That unto all goodness they do not rebel,
Remember what writheth Solomon the wise
Qui parcit vngae, odit filium
Therefore for as much as ye can devise,
Spare not the rod, but follow wisdom
Further, ye young men and children also,
Listen to me and hearken a while,
What in few words for you I will show
Without any flattery, fraud, or guile
This rich man's son whom we did set forth
Here evidently before our eyes,
Was (as it chanced) nothing worth
Given to all noughtiness, vice, and lies
The cause whereof was this for a truth
His time full idly he did spend,
And would not study in his youth,
Which might have brought him to a good end,
His father's commandment he would not obey,
But wantonly followed his fantasy,
For nothing that he could do or say
Would bring this child to honesty

And at the last (as here ye might see)
 Upon a wife he fixed his mind,
 Thinking the same to be felicity,
 When indeed misery came behind,
 For by this wife he carefully¹ lived,
 Who under his father did want nothing,
 And in such sort was hereby tormented,
 That ever anon he went lamenting
 His father did will him lightness² to leave,
 And only to give himself unto study,
 But yet unto virtue he would not cleave,
 Which is commodious for soul and body
 You heard that by sentences ancient and old,
 He stirred his son as he best thought,
 But he, as an unthift stout and bold
 His wholesome counsel did set at nought,
 And since that he despised his father,
 God unto him did suddenly then send Such poverty with a wife and grief together,
 That shame and sorrow was his end.
 Wherefore to conclude, I warn you all
 By your loving parents always be ruled,
 Or else be well assured of such a fall,
 As unto this young man worthily chanced
 Worship God daily, which is the chief thing,
 And his holy laws do not offend
 Look that ye truly serve the king,
 And all your faults be glad to amend
 Moreover, be true of hand and tongue,
 And learn to do all things that be honest,
 For no time so fit, as when ye be young,
 Because that age only is the aptest
 I have no more to speak at this season,
 For very good will these things I did say,

² Levity — Cf “Taming of Shrew,” iv 2 — Halliwell

Because I do see that virtue is season¹
With most men and children at this day

[Here the rest of the Players come in, and kneel down all together, each of them saying one of these verses

And last of all to make an end,
O God, to thee we most humbly pray
That to Queen Elizabeth thou do send Thy lively path and perfect way!
Grant her in health to reign
With us many years most prosperously,
And after this life for to attain
The eternal bliss, joy, and felicity!
Our bishops, pastors, and ministers also,
The true understanding of thy word,
Both night and day, now mercifully show,
That their life and preaching may godly accord
The lords of the council and the nobility,
Most heavenly father, we thee desire
With grace, wisdom, and godly policy
Their hearts and minds always inspire.
And that we thy people, duly considering
The power of our queen and great authority,
May please thee and serve her without feigning,
Living in peace, rest, and tranquillity

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN

A SONG

*Why doth the world study vain glory to attain,
The prosperity whereof is short and transitory,
Whose mighty power doth fall down again,
Like earthen pots, that breaketh suddenly?
Believe rather words that be written in ice,
Than the unwatched world with his subtlety,*

¹ Sealce

*Deceitful in gifts, men only to entice,
 Destitute of all sure credence and fidelity
 Give credit more to men of true judgments
 Than to the worldly renown and joy,
 Replenished with dreams and vain intents,
 Abounding in wicked and naughty toys
 Where is now Salomon, in wisdom so excellent?
 Where is now Samson, in battle so strong?
 Where is now Absalom, in beauty resplendent?
 Where is now good Jonathas, hid so long?
 Where is now Cæsar, in victory triumphant?
 Where is now Dives, in dishes so dainty?
 Where is now Tully, in eloquence exceeding?
 Where is now Aristotle, learned so deeply?
 What emperors, kings, and dukes in times past,
 What earls and lords, and captains of war,
 What popes and bishops, all at the last
 In the twinkling of an eye are fled so far?
 How short a feast is this worldly joying?
 Even as a shadow it passeth away,
 Depriving a man of gifts everlasting,
 Leading to darkness and not to day!
 O meat of worms, O heap of dust,
 O like to dew, climb not too high!
 To live to-morrow thou canst not trust,
 Therefore now betime help the needy
 The fleshly beauty, whereat thou dost wonder,
 In holy Scripture is likened to hay,
 And as a leaf in a stormy weather,
 So is man's life blowen clean away
 Call nothing thine that may be lost
 The world doth give and take again,
 But set thy mind on the Holy Ghost,
 Despise the world that is so vain!*

THE MARRIAGE
WIT AND SCIENCE.

[The title of the old copy is A new and Pleasaunt enterlude intituled the mariage of Witte and Science Imprinted at London in Flete Streete, neare vnto saintc Dunstones churche by Thomas Marshe 4°, black letter

There is no date, but the size is a small 4to, and it probably appeared in 1570, having been licensed in 1569-70 to Maish. Some further particulars of the play, now first reprinted from the only known copy in the Malone collection at Oxford, may be found in Hazlitt's "Handbook," 1867, p 465, Collier's "Extr from the Stat Reg," 1 204, and Collier's "Hist Engl Dram Poetry," 11 341-7, where there is a somewhat long review of the piece, with extracts. Mr Collier, who bestows considerable praise on this interlude, observes—"The moral play of 'The Marriage of Wit and Science' contains a remarkable external feature not belonging to any other piece of this class that I remember to have met with it is regularly divided into five acts, and each of the scenes is also marked." The anonymous author appears to have borrowed to some extent from the older performance by John Redford, printed from a MS by the Shakespeare Society in 1848, but the two productions must, nevertheless, be regarded as distinct and independent.]

MARRIAGE OF WIT AND SCIENCE

[ACT I]

NATURE, WIT, and WILL

GRAND lady, mother of every mortal thing
Nurse of the world, conservative of kind
Cause of increase, of life and soul the spring ,
At whose instinct the noble heaven doth wind,
To whose award all creatures are assigned,
I come in place to treat with this my son,
For his avail how he the path may find,
Whereby his race in honour he may run
Come, tender child, unripe and green for age,
In whom the parent sets her chief delight,
Wit is thy name, but far from wisdom sage,
Till tract of time shall work and frame aright,
This peerless brain, not yet in perfect plight
But when it shall be wrought, methinks I see,
As in a glass beforehand with my sight,
A certain perfect piece of work in thee,
And now so far as I [can] guess by signs,
Some great attempt is fixed in thy breast
Speak on, my son, whereto thy heart inclines,
And let me deal to set thy heart at rest
He salves the sore, that knows the patient best
As I do thee, my son, my chiefest care,
In whom my special praise and joy doth rest ,
To me therefore these thoughts of thine declare

WIF

Nature, my sovereign queen and parent passing dear, Whose force I am enforced to know and 'knowledge everywhere,
 This care of mine, though it be bred within my breast,
 Yet it is not so ripe as yet to breed me great unrest,
 So run I to and fro with hap luck as I find,
 Now fast, now loose now hot, now cold inconstant as the wind,
 I feel myself in love, yet not inflamed so,
 But causes move me now and then to let such fancies go,
 Which causes prevailing sets each thing else in doubt Much like the nail, that last came in, and drives the former out
 Wherefore my suit is this that it would please your grace
 To settle this unsettled head in some assured place
 To lead me through the thick, to guide me all the way,
 To point me where I may achieve my most desired
 pray,
 For now again of late I kindle in desire,
 And pleasure pricketh forth my youth to feel a greater fire,
 What though I be too young to show her sport in bed,
 Yet are there many in this land that at my years do wed,
 And though I wed not yet, yet am I old enou'
 To serve my lady to my power, and to begin to woo

NATURE

What is that lady, son, which thus thy heart doth move?

WIT

A lady, whom it might beseem high Jove himself to love

Who taught thee her to love, or hast thou seen her face?

WIT

Nor this nor that, but I heard men talk of her apace

NATURE

What is her name?

WIT

Reason is her sire, Experience her dame,
The lady now is in her flower, and Science is her name

Lo, where she dwells, lo, where my heart is all possest,

Lo, where my body would abide, lo, where my soul doth rest

Her have I borne good-will these many years tofore, But now she lodgeth in my thought a hundred parts the more,

And since I do persuade myself that this is she,
Which ought above all earthly wights to be most dear to me,

And since I wot not how to compass my desire,
And since for shame I cannot now nor mind not to retire,

Help on, I you beseech, and bring this thing about Without your hurt to my great ease, and set all out of doubt

Thou askest more than is in me to give,
 More than thy cause, more than thy state, will bear,
 They are two things to able thee to live,
 And to live so, that none should be thy peer,
 The first from me proceedeth everywhere,
 But this by toil and practice of the mind,
 Is set full far, God wot, and bought full dea,
 By those that seek the fruit thereof to find,
 To match thee then with Science in degree,
 To knit that knot that few may reach unto,
 I tell thee plain, it lieth not in me
 Why should I challenge that I cannot do?
 But thou must take another way to woo,
 And beat thy brain, and bend thy curious head,
 Both ride and run, and travel to and fro,
 If thou intend that famous dame to wed

WIT

You name yourself the lady of this world

NATURE

It is true

WIT

And can there be within this world a thing too hard for you?

NATURE

My power it is not absolute in jurisdiction,
 For I cognise another lord above,
 That hath received unto his disposition
 The soul of man, which he of special love
 To gifts of grace and learning eke doth move

A work so far beyond my reach and call,
 That into part of praise with him myself to show
 Might soon procure my well-deserved fall
 He makes the frame, and [I] receive it so,
 No jot therein altered for my head,
 And as I it receive, I let it go,
 Causing therein such sparkles to be bred,
 As he commits to me, by whom I must be led
 Who guides me first, and in me guides the rest,
 All which in their due course and kind are spread
 Of gifts from me such as may serve them best,
 To thee, son Wit, he will'd me to inspire,
 The love of knowledge and certain seeds divine,
 Which ground might be a mean to bring thee here,
 If thereunto thyself thou wilt incline
 The massy gold the cunning hand makes fine
 Good grounds are till'd, as well as are the worst,
 The rankest flower will ask a sprunging time,
 So is man's wit unperfitt at the first

WIT

If cunning be the key and well of wordly¹ bliss Me-thinketh God might at the first as well endue all with this

NATURE

As cunning is the key of bliss, so it is worthy praise
 The worthiest things are won with pain in tract of time always

WIT

And yet right worthy things there are, you will confess, I trow,

¹ Worldly

Which notwithstanding at our birth God doth on us bestow

NATURE

There are, but such as unto you, that have the great to name,
I rather that bestow, than win thereby immortal fame

WIT

Fain would I learn what harm or detriment ensued,
If any man were at his birth with these good gifts endued

NATURE

There should be nothing left, wherein men might excel,
No blame for sin, no praise to them that had designed well
Virtue should lose her price, and learning would abound,
And as man would admire the thing, that each-where might be found
The great [e]state, that have of me and fortune what they will,
Should have no need to look to those, whose heads are fraught with skill
The meanner sort, that now excels in virtues of the mind,
Should not be once accepted there, where now they succour find
For great men should be sped of all, and would have need of none,
And he that were not born to land should lack to live upon
These and five thousand causes mo, which I forbear to tell,

The noble virtue of the mind have caused there to dwell,
Where none may have access, but such as can get in Through many double doors through heat, through cold, through thick and thin

WIT

Suppose I would address myself to seek her out,
And to refuse no pain that lieth thereabout,
Should I be sure to speed?

NATURE

Trust me, and have no doubt,
Thou canst not choose but speed with travail and with time
These two are they that must direct thee how to climb

WIT

With travail and with time? must they needs join in one?

NATURE

Nor that nor this can do thee good, if they be took alone

Time worketh all with ease, and gives the greatest dint
In him soft water drops can hollow hardest flint Again with labour by itself great matters compass'd be,
Even at a gird, in very little time or none we see Wherfore in my conceit good reason it is, Either this without that to look, or that without this

Set case thou didst attempt to climb Parnassus hill
Take time five hundred thousand years and longer, if thou will,
Trowest thou to touch the top thereto by standing still?
Again work out thy heart, and spend thyself with toil
Take time withal, or else I dare assure thee of the fool

WIT

Madam, I trust I have your licence and your leave, With your good-will and so much help as you to me can give,
With further aid also, when you shall spy your time,
To make a proof to give attempt this famous hill to climb.
And now I here request your blessing and your prayer,
For sure, before I sleep, I will to yonder fort repair

I bless thee here with all such gifts as nature can bestow,
And for thy sake I would they were as many hundred mo
Take there withal this child, to wait upon thee still A bird of mine, some kin to thee his name is Will

WIT

Welcome to me, my Will, what service canst thou do?

WILL

All things forsooth, sir, when me list, and more too

WIT

But whether¹ wilt thou list, when I shall list, I trow²

WILL

Trust not to that, peradventure yea, peradventure no

WIT

When I have need of thee, thou wilt not serve me so

WILL

If ye bid me run, perhaps I will go

WIT

Cock's soul, this is a boy for the nonce amongst twenty mo¹

WILL

I am plain, I tell you, at a wold and a blow

WIT

Then must I prick you, child, if you be drown'd in sloth

NATURE

Agree, you twain, for I must leave you both,
Farewell, my son farewell, mine own good Will,
Be ruled by Wit, and be obedient still,

¹ Old copy, when

Force thee I cannot, but as far as lies in me, I will help thy master to make a good servant of thee

Farewell—

[Exit

WIT

Adieu, lady mother, with thanks for all your pain,
 And now let me bethink myself again and eke again,
 To match with Science is the thing that I have took in hand

A matter of more weight, I see, than I did understand

Will must be won to this, or else it will be hard,
 Will must go break the master first, or else my game¹ is marr'd,

Su boy, are you content to take such part for me, As God shall send, and help it forth as much as lies in thee?

WILL

Yea, master, by his wounds, or else cut off his head

WIT

Come then, and let us two devise what trace were best to tread,

Nature is on my side, and Will my boy is fast
 There is no doubt I shall obtain my joys at last

ACT II, SCÆNA 1

WIT and WILL

WIT

What, Will, I say, Will boy, come again, foolish elf!

¹ Old copy, gain

I cry you mercy, sir, you are a tall man yourself

WIT

Such a crackbrain as thou art, I never saw the like to it

WILL

Truth, in respect of you, that are nothing else but
Wit!

WIT

Canst thou tell me thy errand, because thou art gone so soon?

WILL

I can remember a long tale of a man in the moon,
With such a circumstance and such flim-flam?
I will tell, at a word, whose servant I am
Wherefore I come, and what I have to say,
And call for her answer, before I come away What, should I make a broad tree of every little shrub,
And keep her a great while with a tale of a tub?

WIT

Yet thou must commend me to be rich, lusty, pleasant, and wise

WILL

I cannot commend you, but I must make twenty lies
Rich, quoth you? that appeareth by the port that you keep
Even as rich as a new-shorn sheep!

Of pleasant conceits, ten bushels to the peck,
 Lusty like a herring, with a bell about his neck,
 Wise as a woodcock as brag as a bodylouse,
 A man of your hands, to match with a mouse !
 How say you, are not these proper qualities to praise you with ?

WIT

Leave these mad toys of thine, and come to the pith
 One part of the errand should have been
 To give her this picture of mine to be seen,
 And to request her the same to accept,
 Safely until my coming to be kept,
 Which I suspend till thy return, and then,
 If it like her ladyship to appoint me where and when,
 I will wait upon her gladly out of hand

WILL

Sir, let me alone your mind I understand
 I will handle the matter, so that you shall owe me thanks,
 But what, if she find fault with these spindle-shanks,
 Or else with these black spots on your nose ?

WIT

In faith, sir boy, this talk deserveth blows.

WILL

You will not misuse your best servant, I suppose ?
 For, by his nails and by his fingers too,
 I will mar your marriage, if you do so ¹

¹ Old copy, clitter (for clatter), which the compositor's eye must have caught from the next line So is agreeable to the metre and the sense

WIT

I pray thee go thy ways, and leave this clatter

WILL

First shall I be so bold to break to you a matter

WIT

Tush, thou art disposed to spend words in waste,
And yet thou knowest this business asketh haste

WILL

But even two words, and then I am gone

WIT

If it be worth the hearing, say on

WILL

I would not have you think that I, for my part,
From my promise or from your service will depart,
But yet now and then it goeth to my heart,
When I think how this marriage may be to my smart

WIT

Why so?

WILL

I would tell you the cause, if I durst for shame

WIT

Speak hardly what thou wilt without any blame
VOL II Y

WILL

I am not disposed as yet to be tame,
 And therefore I am loth to be under a dame,
 Now you are a bachelor, a man may soon win you,
 Me-thinks there is some good fellowship in you,
 We may laugh and be merry at board and at bed,
 You are not so testy as those that be wed
 Mild in behaviour and loth to fall out,
 You may run, you may ride and rove round about,
 With wealth at your will and all thing at ease,
 Free, frank and lusty easy to please
 But when you be clogged and tied by the toe,
 So fast that you shall not have pow' to let go,
 You will tell me another lesson soon after,
 And cry peccavi too, except your luck be the better
 Then farewell good fellowship ! then come at a call !
 Then wait at an inch, you idle knaves all
 Then sparing and pinching, and nothing of gift
 No talk with our master, but all for his thrift Solemn and sour, and angry as a wasp,
 All things must be kept under lock and hasp,
 All¹ that which will make me to fare full ill
 All your care shall be to hamper poor Will

WIF

I warrant thee, for that take thou no thought,
 Thou shalt be made of, whosoever be set at nought
 As dear to me, as mine own dear brother,
 Whosoever be one, thou shalt be another

WILL

Yea, but your wife will play the shrew, perde, it is she that I fear

¹ Old copy, at that

WIT

The message will cause her some favour to bear,
For my sake and thy sake, and for her own likewise,
If thou use thyself discreetly in this enterprise

WILL

She hath a father, a testy, sour old man
I doubt lest he and I shall fall out now and then

WIT

Give him fair words, forbear him for his age,
Thou must consider him to be ancient and sage Shew thyself officious and serviceable still,
And then shall Reason make very much of Will

WILL

If your wife be ever complaining, how then ?

WIT

My wife will have nothing to do with my men

WILL

If she do, believe her not in any wise
And when you once perceive her stomach to arise,
Then cut her short at the first, and you shall see A marvellous virtue in that medicine to be Give her not the bridle for a year or twain,
And you shall see her bridle it without a rein,
Break her betimes, and bring her under by force,
Or else the grey mare will be the better horse

WIT

If thou have done, begone, and spend no time in vain

WILL

Where shall I find you, when I come again?

WIT

At home

WILL

Good, enough, take your ease let me alone with this

[Exit Wit]

Surely a treasure of all treasures it is To serve such a master, as I hope him to be,
And to have such a servant as he hath of me,
For I am quick, nimble, proper and nice,
He is full good, gentle, sober and wise
He is full loth to chide or to check,
And I am as willing to serve at a beck,
He orders me well, and speaks me so fair,
That for his sake no travail I must spare
But now am I come to the gate of this lady,
I will pause a while to frame mine errant finely
And lo, where she cometh, yet will I not come nigh her,
But among these fellows will I stand to eye her

ACT II, SCÆNA 2

REASON, EXPERIENCE, SCIENCE, and WILL

SCIENCE

My parents, ye know, how many fall and lapse,¹
That do ascribe to me the cause of their mishaps?
How many seek, that come too short of their desire
How many do attempt, that daily do retire

How many rove about the mark on every side
 How many think to hit, when they are much too wide
 How many run too far, how many light too low How few to good effect their travail do bestow !
 And how all these impute their losses unto me
 Should I have joy to think of marriage now, trow ye ?
 What saith ¹ the world ? my love alone, say they,
 Is bought so dear, that life and goods for it must pay Strong youth must spend itself, and yet, when all is done,
 We hear of few or none, that have this lady won
 On me they make outcries, and charge me with the blood
 Of those, that for my sake adventure life and good
 This grief doth wound my heart so, that suitors more as yet
 I see no cause nor reason why I should admit

REASON

Ah, daughter, say not so, there is great cause and skill,
 For which you should mislike to live unmairied thus alone,
 What comfort can you have remaining thus unknown ?
 How shall the commonwealth by you advanced be,
 If you abide inclosed here, where no man may you see ?
 It is not for your state yourself to take the pain
 All strangers shall resort to you to entertain

To suffer free access of all that come and go
 To be at each man's call to travel to and fro What then, since God hath plac'd such treasure in your breast,
 Wherewith so many thousand think by you to be refresh'd,
 Needs must you have some one of high and secret trust,
 By whom these things may be well-order'd and discuss'd
 To him you must disclose the depth of all your thought,
 By him, as time shall serve, all matters must be wrought
 To him alone you must content yourself to be at
 call,
 Ye must be his, he must be yours, he must be all in all

EXPERIENCE

My lord, your father tells you truth, perdè,
 And that in time yourself shall find and try

SCIENCE

I could allege more than as yet I have said,
 But I must yield, and you must be obey'd Fall out, as it will there is no help, I see,
 Some one or other in time must marry me

WILL

In time? nay, out of hand, madam, if it please you,
 In faith, I know a younker that will ease you,
 A lively young gentleman, as fresh as any flower,
 That will not stick to marry you within this hour

WIT AND SCIENCE

SCIENCE

Such haste might haply turn to waste to some,
But I pray thee, my pretty boy, whence art thou come?

WILL

If it please your good ladyship to accept me so I have a solemn message to tell, ere I go,
Not anything in secret your honour to stain,
But in the presence and hearing of you twain

REASON

Speak

WILL

The lady of this world, which lady Nature hight, Hath one a peerless son, in whom she taketh
delight,
On him she chaigeth men to be attendant still,
Both kin¹ to her his name is Wit, my name is
Will

The noble child doth feel the force of Cupid's flame,
And seeketh² now for ease, by counsel of his dame His mother taught him first to love, while he was young

Which love with age increaseth sore, and waxeth wondious strong,

For very fame displays your bounty more and
more,

And at this pinch he burneth so as never heretofore

Not fantasies forsooth,³ not vain and idle toys of love,

³ Old copy, force

² Old copy, sendeth

Not hope of that which commonly doth other suitors move,
 But fixed fast good-will that never shall relent,
 And virtue's force, that shines in you, bid him give this attempt
 He hath no need of wealth, he wooes not for your good,
 His kindred is such he need not to seek to match with noble blood,
 Such store of friends that, where he list, he may command,
 And none so hardy to presume his pleasure to withstand
 Yourself it is, [madam,] your virtue and your grace,
 Your noble gifts, your endless praise in every place
 You alone, I say, the mark that he would hit,
 The hoped joy, the dearest prey, that can befall to
 Wit

EXPERIENCE

I have not heard a message more trimly done

SCIENCE

Nor I, what age art thou of, my good son?

WILL

Between eleven and twelve, madam, more or less

REASON

He hath been instructed this errand, as I guess

SCIENCE

How old is the gentleman thy master, canst thou tell?

WILL

Seventeen or thereabout, I wot not very well

SCIENCE

What stature, of what making, what kind of port bears he?

WILL

Such as your ladyship cannot mislike, trust me
Well-grown, well-made, a stripling clean and tall
Well-favoured, somewhat black, and manly therewithal,

And that you may conceive his personage the better,

Lo, here of him the very shape and lively picture!
This hath he sent to you to view and to behold
I dare advouch no joint therem, no jot, to be controll'd

SCIENCE

In good faith, I thank thy master with my heart,
I perceive that nature in him hath done her part

WILL

Farther, if it please your honour to know
My master would be glad to run, ride, or go,
At your commandment to any place fair or near,
To have but a sight of your ladyship there
I beseech you appoint him the place and the hour,
You shall see, how readily to you he will scour

REASON

Do so

EXPERIENCE

Yea, in any wise, daughter, for, hear you me,

He seemeth a right worthy and trim young man to be

SCIENCE.

Commend me then to Wit, and let him understand,
That I accept with all my heart this present at his hand,
And that I would be glad, when he doth see his time,
To hear and see him face to face within this house of mine
Then may he break his mind, and talk with me his fill,
Till then, adieu, both he and thou, mine own sweet little Will

[Exeunt Science, Reason, Experience

ACT II, SCÆNA 3

WILL

Ah flattering quean, how neatly she can talk,
How minionly she trips, how sadly she can walk !
Well, wanton, yet beware that ye be sound and Now must I get me home, and make report of this

WIT and WILL

WIT

Say'st thou me so, boy ? will she have me indeed ?

WILL

Be of good cheer, sir, I warrant you to speed

WIT

Did both her parents speak well to her of me?

WILL

As heart can think, go on, and you shall see

WIT

How took she the picture? How liketh she my person?

WILL

She never had done totting¹ and looking thereon

WIT

And when must I come to talk with her my fill?

WILL

Whensoever you please, and as oft as you will

WIT

O my sweet boy, how shall I recompense
Thy faithful heart and painful diligence?
My hope, my stay, my wealth, the key of all my joy!

WILL

I pray you, sir, call me your man, and not your boy

¹ Peeping

WIT

Thou shalt be what thou wilt, all in all

WILL

Promise me faithfully that, if your wife brawl,
Or set her father to check me out of measure,
You will not see me abused to their pleasure

WIT

Give me thy hand, take here my faith and troth,
I will maintain thee, howsoever the world goeth

ACT III, SCÆNA 2

The house of SCIENCE WILL, WIT, also REASON and SCIENCE behind

WIT

What shall we do? Shall we stand lingering here?

WILL

If you be a man, press in and go near

WIT

What, if there be some other suitor there?

WILL

And if there be, yet need you not to fear,
Until I bring his head to you upon a spear.
I will not look you in the face, nor in your sight appear

REASON

Nay, Wit, advise yourself, and pause a while,
Or else this haste of yours will you beguile

SCIENCE

No haste but good, take time and learn to fight,
Learn to assault, learn to defend a night Your match¹ is monstrous to behold and full of might,
Whom you must vanquish, not by force, but by sleight

WIT

Madam, stand to your promise, if I win, I am sped,
Am I not?

SCIENCE

Yea, truly

WILL

Good enough, if we fight not, I would we were dead,
No man shall stay us, that bears a head

EXPERIENCE

Young man, a word or twain, and then adieu
Your years are few, your practice green and new,
Mark what I say, and ye shall find it true
You are the first that shall this rashness rue
Be ruled here our counsel do thereafter
Lay good ground, your work shall be the faster
This headlong haste may sooner miss than hit,
Take heed both of witless² Will and wilful Wit

We have within a gentleman, our retainer and our friend,
 With servants twain, that do on him attend—
 Instruction, Study, Diligence these three At your commandment in this attempt shall be Hear them instead of us, and as they shall devise,
 So hardly cast your¹ cards in this enterprise
 I will send them to you, and leave you for now

WIT

The more company the merrier, boy, what say'st thou²

WILL

It is a good fault to have more than enou'
 I care not, so as we may put the knaves down,
 I would we were at it, I pass not how soon

WIT

If it shall please you to send those three hither,
 We will follow your counsel, and go together

WILL

I warrant her a shrew, whosoever be another, God make the daughter good, I like not the mother

WIT²

Yet would not I for no good to have forgone her

Marry, sir, indeed she talks and takes on her,
 Like a dame, nay, like a duchess or a queen,
 With such a solemnity as I have not seen

REASON

She is a queen, I tell thee, in her degree

WILL

Let her be what she list, with a vengeance, for me!
I will keep me out of her reach, if I can [Aside]

REASON

If this marriage go forward, thou must be her man

WILL

Marriage or marriage not, beshrew me then,
I have but one master, and I will serve no mo,
And if he anger me, I will forsake him too

REASON

She shall not hurt thee, unless her cause be juster

WILL

By the faith of my body, sir, I intend not to trust her

REASON

Why?

WILL

Take¹ me this woman, that talks so roundly,
That be so wise, that reason so soundly
That look so narrow, that speak so shill Their words are not so cursed, but their deeds are ill

REASON

It is but thy fancy, I see no such thing in her

¹ i.e., Take away from me

WILL

Perhaps you had never occasion to try her?

REASON

That were great marvel in so many years

WILL

She hath won the mastery of you, it appears

Well, quiet yourself, thou shalt take no wrong, Methink our three companions tarry very long

REASON

You are come in good time, Instruction, our treasure,

Welcome, good fellows, will ye dwell with me?

DILIGENCE

WIT

Welcome, Instruction, with all my heart

WILL

What, three new servants ! then, farewell, my part

INSTRUCTION

I heartily thank you, and look what I can do ,

 And you shall find in your travail great ease
 Take here of me, before I take my leave ,
 This glass of crystal clear, which I you give ,
 Accept it, and reserve it for my sake most sure ,
 Much good to you in time it may procure
 Behold yourself therein, and view and pry
 Mark what defects it will discover and descry ,
 And so with judgment ripe and curious eye ,
 What is amiss endeavour to supply ,
 Farewell—

WIT

Farewell to you, right honourable sir
 And commend me to my love, my heart's desire , Let her think on me, when she sees me not, and wish me well

WILL

Farewell, master Reason, think upon us, when you see us not ,
 And in any wise let not Will be forgot

 I must intreat you all to dwell in house with me,
 And look what order you shall prescribe as needful,

ACT IV, SCÆNA 1

WIT, WILL, INSTRUCTION, STUDY, DILIGENCE

WILL

Tush, tush, Instruction, your talk is of no force
 You tell us a tale of a roasted horse,
 Which, by his wounds, except we set to it,
 As fast as we make, these¹ fellows will undo it,
 Then talk is nothing but soft, and fair, and tarry,
 If you follow then counsel, you shall never marry

INSTRUCTION

To follow our counsel your charge and promise

WIT

I would I had never known you, by the mass
 Must I look so long, and spend my life with toil?
 Nay, sure, I will either win it, or take the foil

STUDY

bear it

WILL

Ground us no ground, let him win it, and wear it

INSTRUCTION

Good sir, be ruled, and leave this peevish elf

WIT.

I had even as hef ye bad me hang myself,
Leave him ? no, no, I would you all knew,
You be but loiterers to him, my Will tells me true
I could be content with a week, yea a month or twain,
But three or four years ' marry, that were a pain
So long to keep me, and he like a hog

WILL

A life, with all my heart, I would not wish a dog

WIT

Will a week serve ?

STUDY

No

WIT

A month ?

STUDY

Neither

WIT

No?

STUDY

Not so

INSTRUCTION

No, nor so many mo

WIT

Then, farewell all, for, as I hope to thrive,
 I will prove him, ere I sleep, if I be alive,
 And if ye be mine, and good fellows all three,
 Go thither out of hand, and take your chance with me

INSTRUCTION

For my part, I know I can do you no good

WILL

You are a proper man of your hands, by the rood !
 Yet well fare him, that never his master forsaketh

WIT

What say'st thou, Study?

STUDY

My head acheth

WIT

Out upon thee, coward ! speak, Diligence

DILIGENCE

Against Instruction's mind, I am loth to go hence, Yet I will make one, rather than you should lack

WIT

Perhaps we may find them at this time in bed

WILL

So much the rather look you to be sped,
Care for no more, but once to come within her,
And when you have done, then let another win her

To come within her, child? what meanest thou by that?

One mass for a penny, you know what is what!

WIT

Heard you ever such a counsel of such a Jack sprat?

WILL

Why, sir, do ye think to do any good,
If ye stand in a corner like Robin Hood?
Nay, you must stout it, and face it out with the best
Set on a good countenance, make the most of the least,
Whosoever skip in, look to your part,
And while you live, beware of a false heart

WIT

Both blame and shame rash boldness doth breed

WILL

You must adventure both spare to speak, spare to speed

What tell you me of shame ? it is shame to steal a horse

More haste than good speed makes many fare the worse

WILL.

But he that takes not such time, while he may,
Shall leap at a whiting, when time is away

WIT

But he that leaps, before he look, good son,
May leap in the mire, and miss when he hath done

The causer of my wound, and yet the well of my welfare ,
O happy wight, that have the saint of your request, O hopeless hope, that holdeth me from that which likes me best !
Twixt hope and fear I stand, to mar or else to

 The sweetest beauty to entice, that hath been seen with eye
 The well of wealth to all, that no man doth annoy
 The key of kingdoms and the seal of everlasting joy
 The treasure and the store, whom all good things began,
 The nurse of lady Wisdom's love, the link of man and man
 What words shall me suffice to utter my desire ?
 What heat of talk shall I devise, for to express my fire ?
 I burn and yet I freeze, I flame and cool as fast,
 In hope to win and for to lese, my pensiveness doth last,
 Why should my dull spirit appal my courage so ?
 O, salve my sore, or sle me quite, by saying yea or no !

 Ten thousand suitors in a year are cast away thereby
 Now, if your mind be surely fixed so,
 That for no toil nor cost my love you will forego, Bethink you well, and of this monster take good heed,
 Then may you have with me the greater hope to speed
 Herein use good advice, to make you strong and stout,
 To feud and keep him off a while, until his rage be out
 Then when you feel yourself well able to prevail,
 Bid you the battle, and that so courageously assail
 If you can win the field, present me with his head,

twain !

STUDY

Go, that go list, I will at home remain,
I have more need to take a nap in my bed

WILL

Do so, and, hear you, couch a cod's-head ! [Inside

INSTRUCTION

Well, since it will none otherwise frame, Let us twain, Study, return¹ from whence we came

Agreed [Exit.

WIT

And let us three bestir ourselves like men , Unlikely things are brought to pass by courage now and then

My Will, be always priest, and ready at an inch,
To save thyself, to succour me, to help at every pinch

Both twain on either side assault him, if ye can,
And you shall see me in the middes, how I will play the man ,

This is the deadly den, as far as I perceive, Approach we near, and valiantly let us the onset give
 Come forth, thou monster fell, in drowsy darkness hid,
 For here is Wit, Dame Nature's son, that doth thee battle bid

TEDIOUSNESS, WIT, WILL, DILIGENCE

TEDIOUSNESS

What pryncev have we here, that dares me to assail?
 Alas, poor boy, and weenest thou against me to prevail?
 Full small was he thy friend, whoever sent thee hitherto,
 For I must drive thee back with shame, or slay thee altogether

WIT

Great boast, small roast I warrant thee, do thy best,
 Thy head must seive my turn this day to set my heart at rest

WILL

And I must have a leg of thee, if I can catch it

TEDIOUSNESS

First I must quite this brain of thine, if I can reach it [Fight, strike at Will

WIT

Well shifted, Will, now have at thee, sū knave

These fūscols shall not serve your turn for all yōur vaunts so brave,
Ho, ho! did I not tell thee thou cam'st to thy pain!

Help, help, help, our master is slain

WILL

Help, help, help, &c

Where are these lusty bloods, that make them match with me?

Here lies a pattern for them all, to look at and to see To teach them to conspire against my force and might,

To promise, for their woman's love, to vanquish me in fight

Now let them go and crape, how wisely they have
sped,

Such is the end of those, that seek this curious dame to wed

[Exit TED]

ACT IV, SCÆNA 3

WILL, RECREATION, WIT

WILL

Rub and chafe him

For God's love, haste, see, lo, where he doth lie

RECREATION

He is not cold, I warrant him, I
SING

*Give a leg, give an arm, arise, arise Hold up¹ thy head, lift us thy eyes,
1 A leg to stand upright
2 An arm to fight amain,
1 The head to hold thy brains in plight,
2 The eyes to look again
Awake, ye drownd powers
Ye sprites, joy dull with toil
Resign to me this care of yours,
And from dead sleep recoil
Think not upon your loathsome luck,
But arise, and dance with us a-pluck*

[Both sing, Give a leg, as is before
2 What, though thou hast not hit
The top of thy desire,
Time is not so far spent as yet
To cause thee to retire
Arise, and ease thyself of pain,
And make thee strong to fight again

SING BOTH

*Let not thy foes rejoice,
Let not thy friends lament,
Let not thy lady's rueful voice
In sobs and sighs be spent,
Thy faith is plight, forget it not,
Twixt her and thee to knit the knot*

*Give a leg, &c
This is no deadly wound
It may be cured well*

¹ Old copy, by

See here what physic we have found Thy sorrows to expel

[*Wit lifting himself up, sitting on the ground
The way is plain, the mark is fair,
Lodge not thyself in deep despair*]

What noise is this, that ringeth in my ears,
Her noise that grieveth my mishap with tears?
Ah, my mishap, my desperate mishap, On² whom ill-fortune poureth down all mishap at a clap,
What shall become of me, where shall I hide my head?
O, what a death is it to live for him that would be dead?
But since it chanceth so, whatever wight thou be,
That findeth me here in heavy plight, go, tell her this from me
Causeless I perish here, and cause to curse I have The time that erst I lived to love, and now must die her slave,
The match was over-much for me, she understood, Alas, why hath she this delight to lap in guiltless blood?
How did I give her cause to show me this despite,
To match me where she wist full well I should be slain in fight?
But go, and tell her plain, although too late for me, Accursed be the time and hour, which first I did hei see
Accursed be the wight, that will'd me first thereto,
And cursed be they all at once, that had therewith to do

Now get thee hence in haste, and suffer me to die Whom scornful chance and lawless love have slain most traitorously

O noble Wit, the mirrour of God and eke of Nature
 Why curtest thou thyself and every other creature?
 What causeth thee thine innocent dear lady to accuse?
 Who would lament it more than she to hear this wotful news?
 Why wilt thou die, whereas thou may'st be sure of health?
 Whereas thou seest a plain pathway to worship and to wealth
 Not every foile doth make a fall, nor every soil doth slay,
 Comfort thyself be sure thy luck will mend from day to day

These gentlewomen of good skill are¹ come to make you sound.
 They know which way to salve your sore, and how to cure your wound
 Good sir, be ruled by her then, and pluck your spirit to you
 There is no doubt, but you shall find your loving lady true

WIT

Ah, Will, art thou alive that doth my heait some ease,

¹ Old copy, This gentle news of good Will are The gentle women referred to are Recreation and Idleness

The sight of thee, sweet boy, my sorrows doth appease
How hast thou 'scap'd? what fortune thee befel?

WILL

It was no trusting to my hands, my heels did serve me well,
I ran with open mouth to cry for help amain,
And, as good fortune would, I hit upon these twain

WIT

I thank both thee and them, what will ye have me do?

To rise and dance a little space with us two

WIT

What then?

RECREATION

That done, repair again to Study and Instruction, Take better hold by then advice, your foe to set upon

WIT

Can any recompense recover this my fall?

My life to yours, it may be mended all

WIT

Speak, Will

WILL

I have no doubt, sir, it shall be, as you would wish

WIT

But yet this repulse of mine they will lay in my dish

No man shall let them know threof, unless you self do it

WII

On that condition, a God's name, fall we to it

WILL

Nay, stand we to it, and let us fall no more

WIT

Will dancing serve, and I will dance, until my bones be sore,

Pipe us up a galliard, minstrel, to begin

[Let Will call for dances, one after another

WILL

Come, damsel, in good faith, and let me have you in,

Let him practise in dancing all things to make himself breathless¹

Enough at once, now leave, and let us part

WIT

This exercise hath done me good, even to the very heart

Let us be bold with you more acquaintance to take,

And dance a round yet once more for my sake,
 Enough is enough, farewell, and at your need
 Use my acquaintance, if it may stand you in stead Right worthy damsels both, I know you seek no gains

In recompense of thus desert your undeserved pains

But look what other thing my service may devise,
 To show my thankful heart in any enterprise
 Be ye as bold therewith, as I am bold on you,
 And thus with hearty thanks I take my leave as

Farewell, friend Wit, and since you are relieved, Think not upon your foil, whereat you were so griev'd,
 But take your heart to you, and give attempt once more
 I warrant you to speed much better than before [Exeunt

ACT IV , SCÆNA 4.

WIT, WILL, IDLENESS, IGNORANCE.

WIT

One dance for thee and me , my boy, come on

WILL

Dance you, sir, if you please, and I will look upon

WIT.

This gear doth make me sweat, and breathe apace

IDLENESS

Su, ease yourself awhile, here is a resting-place

WIT

Home, Will, and make my bed, for I will take a nap

IGNORANCE

Sure, and it please your masteriship, here in my dame's lap

IDLENESS singeth

*Come, come, lie down, and thou shalt see,
None like to me to entertain Thy bones and thee oppresed with pain
Come, come, and ease thee in my lap,
And if it please thee, take a nap,
A nap, that shall delight thee so,
That fancies all will thee forgo
By musing still, what canst thou find,
But wants of will and restless mind?
A mind that mars and mangles all,
And breedeth mars to work thy full!
Come, gentle Wit, I thee require,
And thou shalt hit thy chief desire
Thy chief desire, thy hoped prey,
First ease thee here, and then away*

WIT

[Falls down into her lap
My bones are stiff, and I am wearied sore,
And still me think I faint and feeble more and
more,
Wake me again in time, for I have things to do,

And as you will me for mine ease, I do assent thereto

[Nulls him

Welcome, with all my heart sin boy, hold here this fun,
And softly cool his face, sleep soundly, gentleman
This char is char'l¹ well now, Ignorance, my son, Thou seest all this, how feately² it is done,
But wot'st thou why³?

IGNORANCE

Nay, bumfay,³ mother, not I
Well, I wot 'tis a gay worched trick and trim Should rejoice my heart to chance coots⁴ with him

Dost thou remember how many I have serv'd in the like sort?

IGNORANCE

It doth my heart good to think on this sport

IDLENESS

Wilt thou see this proper fellow served so?

IDLENES

Come off, then, let me see thee in his doublet and his¹ hose

IGNORANCE

You shall see a tall fellow, mother, I suppose

IDLENESS

Help off with this sleeve softly for fear of wakmg,
We shall leave the gentleman in a pretty taking Give me thy coat, hold this in thy hand

This fellow would be married to Science, I understand

But, ere we leave him, tell me another tale !

Now let us make him look somewhat stale
There lie, and there be the proverb is verified,
I am neither idle, nor yet well-occupied

IGNORANCE

Mother, must I have his coat² now, mother, I must

Chalt be a lively lad with hey tisty-tust

IDLENESS

Sleep sound, and have no care to occupy thy head, As near unto thy body now, as if thou had'st been dead

For Idleness hath won, and wholly thee possess'd,
And utterly disabled thee from having thy request

¹ Old copy, thy—thy, but Ignorance is to change clothes with Wit, while the latter sleeps in the lap of Idleness

Come on with me, my son, let us go couch again,
 And let this lusty ruffling Wit here like a fool remain

ACT V, SCÆNA 1

WIT, SCIENCE, REASON

WIT

Up and to go, why sleep I here so sound ?
 How falls it out that I am left upon the naked ground ?
 God grant that all be well, whilst I lay dreaming
 here
 Me-thinks all is not as it was, nor as I would it were
 And yet I wot not why, but so my fancies gives me, That some one thing or other in my tire¹ that grieves me,
 They are but fancies, let them go to Science now will I,
 My suit and business yet once again to labour and apply

[Enter Science and Reason

SCIENCE

What is become, trow ye, of Wit, our spouse that would be ?

REASON

Daughter, I fear all is not as it should be

¹ Old copy, is my tryer He has indistinct misgivings that his clothes are not all right

WIT.

Yes, yes, have ye no doubt, all is and shall be well.

REASON.

What one art thou ? thereof how canst thou tell ?

WIT.

Reason, most noble sir, and you, my lady dear :
How have you done in all this time, since first I saw you here ?

SCIENCE.

The fool is mad, I ween ; stand back, and touch me not.

WIT.

You speak not as you think, or have you me forgot ?

SCIENCE.

I never saw thee in my life until this time, I wot ; Thou art some mad-brain or some fool, or some disguised sot.¹

WIT.

God's fish-hooks ?² and know you not me ?

SCIENCE.

I had been well at ease indeed to be acquainted with thee !

² Old copy, fish-hosts.

WIT.

Hop haliday !¹ marry, this is pretty cheer,
 I have lost myself, I cannot tell where !
 An old-said saw it is, and too true, I find,
 Soon hot, soon cold : out of sight, out of mind.
 What, madam, what meaneth this sudden change ?
 What means this scornful look, this countenance so strange ?
 Is it² your fashion so to use your lovers at the first :
 Or have all women this delight to scold and to be curs'd ?

REASON.

Good fellow, whence⁷ art thou ? what is thy name ?

WIT.

I ween ye are disposed to make at me some game.
 I am the son of lady Nature ; my name is Wit.

REASON.

Thou shalt say so long enough, ere we believe it.

SCIENCE.

Thou Wit ? nay, thou art some mad-brain out of thy wit.

WIT.

Unto yourselves this trial I remit.
 Look on me better, and mark my person well.

¹ A colloquialism, of which the exact import must be matter of guess. Old copy, Hope haliday. Perhaps a corruption of upon my haliday.

² Old copy, It is.

SCIENCE

Thy look is like to one, that came out of hell

REASON

If thou be Wit, let see, what tokens thou canst
tell

How cam'st thou first acquainted here? what said
we?

How did we like thy suit, what entertainment made we?

WIT

What tokens?

SCIENCE

Yea, what tokens? speak, and let us know

WIT

Tokens good store I can rehearse a-row
First, as I was advised by my mother Nature,
My lackey Will presented you with my picture

SCIENCE

Stay there, now look, how these two faces agree!

WIT

This is the very same that you received from me

SCIENCE

From thee? why look, they are no more like,
Than chalk to cheese, than black to white

REASON

To put thee out of doubt, if thou think we say not true,
It were good for thee in a glass thy face to view

WIT

Well-remembered, and a glass I have indeed,
Which glass you gave me to use at need

REASON

Hast thou the glass, which I to Wit did give ?

WIT

I have it in my purse, and will keep it, while I live

REASON

This makes¹ me muse how should he come thereby ?

WIT

Sir, muse no more, for it is even I,
To whom you gave the glass, and here it is

REASON

We are content thou try thy case by this

WIT

[Looking in the glass
Either my glass is wonderfully spotted,
Or else my face is wonderfully blotted
This is not my coat, why, where had I this weed ?

By the mass, I look like a very fool indeed
 O haps of haps, O ruetul chance to me !
 O Idleness, woe-worth the time, that I was ruled by thee !
 Why did I lay my head within thy lap to rest ?
 Why was I not advis'd by her, that wish'd and will'd¹ me best ?
 O ten times treble² blessed wights, whose corps in grave do lie
 That we not driven to behold these wretched cares which I³ !
 On me you⁴ furies all, on me, have poured out your spite,
 Come now and slay me at the last, and rid my sorrows quite
 What coast shall me receive ? where shall I show my head ?
 The wrold will say this same is he that, if he list, had sped
 This same is he, that took an enterprise in hand ,
 This same is he that scarce one blow his enemy did withstand
 This same is he, that fought and fell in open field
 This same is he that in the song of Idleness did yield
 This same is he that was in way to win the game
 To join himself whereby he should have won immortal fame ,
 And now is wrapp'd in woe, and buried in despai O happy case for thee, if death would rid thee quite of care !

² Old copy, trouble

³ Old copy, die The same appears to be, "That are not driven to behold those wretched cares, which I am driven,

ACT V, SCENA 2

SHAME, REASON, SCILNCE, WIT

Shame

SHAME

Who calls for Shame?

Here is a merchant,¹ Shame, for thee to tame

SHAME

A shame come to you all, for I am almost lame With trudging up and down to them that lose their game

And here is one, whom thou must lightly blame,
That hath prefer'd his folly to his fame

Who? this good fellow? what call you his name?

REASON

Wit, that on wooing to lady Science came

¹ Fellow. The word is frequently used, as we now use the word chap, which is in fact the same, being an abbreviation of chapman.

SHAME

Come aloft, child, let me see, what fiscols you can fet,¹

[If] he hath deserved it, let him be well-bet

WIT

O, spare me with the whip, and sle me with thy knife

Ten thousand times more dear to me were present death than life

Nay, nay, my friend, thou shalt not die as yet

REASON

Remember in what case dame Nature left thee,
Wit,

And how thou hast abus'd the same—

Thou hast deceived all our hope, as all the world
may see

A shame

Come to it!—

REASON

Remember, what fair words and promises thou diddest make,

That for my daughter's love no pains thou wouldest forsake

Remember in what sort we had a care of thee

¹ Fet (or feat) seems to be here employed in the sense of play or perform. Fiscols has occurred before in this play

Thou hast deceived all our hope, as all the world
may see.

SHAME.

A shame come to it.

REASON.

Remember, how Instruction should have been followed still,
And how thou wouldest be ruled by none but by
Will.
How Idleness hath crept, and reigneth in thy breast,
How Ignorance her son hath wholly thee possess'd.

SHAME.

A shame come to it.

WIT.

O woful wretch, to whom shall I complain ?
What salve may serve to salve my sore, or to redress my pain ?

REASON.

Nay, I can tell thee more : remember, how Thou was subdued of Tediousness right now.
Remember with what crakes thou went unto his den,
Against the good advice and counsel of thy men, What Recreation did for thee in these thy rueful haps,
And how the second time thou fell into the lap.¹

¹ So old copy ; but perhaps we ought to read this hap in the line preceding.

SHAME

A shame come to thee !

WIT

O, let me breathe a while, and hold thy heavy hand,
My grievous faults with Shame enough I understand Take ruth and pity on my plaint, or else I am forlorn,

Let not the world continue thus in laughing me to scorn

Madam, if I be he, to whom you once were bent,
With whom to spend your time sometime you were content

If any hope be left, if any recompense
Be able to recover this forsworn negligence, O, help me now poor wretch in this most heavy plight,
And furnish me yet once again with Tediumness to fight

SCIENCE

Father, be good to these young tender years,
See, how he doth bewail his folly past with tears !

REASON

Hold, slave, take thou his coat for thy labour, We are content, at her request, to take you to our favour

Come in, and dwell with us, till time shall serve
And from Instruction['s] rule look that thou never swerve

Within we shall provide to set you up once more,
This scourge hath taught you, what default was in you heretofore

ACT V, SCÆNA 3

WILL

Once in my life I have an odd half-hour to spare,
 To ease myself of all my travail and my care
 I stood not still so long this twenty days, I ween, But ever more sent forth on messages I have been Such trudging and such toil, by the mass, was never seen,

My body is worn out, and spent with labour clean
 And this it is that makes me look so lean
 That lets my growth, and makes me seem a squall,¹ What then, although my stature be not tall,
 Yet I am as proper as you, so neat and cleanly,
 And have my joints at commandment full of activity

What should a servant do with all this flesh and bones,
 That makes them run with leaden heels, and stir themself like stones?

Give me a proper squire much after my pitch,
 And mark how he from place to place will squich,² Fair or foul, thick or thin, mire or dusty,
 Cloud or rain, light or dark, clear or misty Ride or run, to or fro, bad or good
 A neat little fellow on his business will scud
 These great lubbers³ are neither active nor wise,
 That feed till they sleep, and sleep out their eyes
 So heavy, so dull, so untoward in their doing,

² Squich, a word of most uncommon occurrence and of dubious meaning. From the immediate context we should infer that it signified skip, move lightly and quickly

³ Old copy, labores

That it is a good sight to see them leave working
 But all this while, while I stand prating here,
 I see not my master, I left him snorting here

ACT V, SCÆNA 4

SCIENCE, WIT, WILL, [to them] INSTRUCTION, STUDY, DILIGENCE, TEDIOUSNESS

SCIENCE

Mine own dear Wit, the hope of mine avail,
 My care, my comfort, my treasure and my trust,
 Take heart of grace our enemy to assail,
 Lay up these things, which you have heard dis-cuss'd,
 So doing, undoubtingly you cannot fail
 To win the field, to 'scape all these unhappy shewers,¹
 To glad your friends, to cause your foes to wail,
 To match with us, and then the gain is yours
 Here in this closet ourself will sit and see Your manly feats and your success in fight
 Strike home courageously for you and me,
 Learn where and how to fend, and how to smite
 In any wise, be ruled by these thhee,
 They shall direct both you and Will aright Farewell, and let our loving counsel be
 At every hand before you in your fight

WIT

Here in my sight, good madam, sit and view
 That, when I list, I may look upon you
 This face, this noble face, this lively hue,

Shall haiden me, shall make our enemy rue
 O faithful mates, that have this care of me, How shall I ever recompense your pains with gold or fee?
 Come now, and, as you please, enjoin me how to do it,
 And you shall see me prest and serviceable to it

WILL

Why, master, whither [a]way? what haste? am I no body?

INSTRUCTION

What, Will, we may not miss thee for no money

WIT

Welcome, good Will, and do as thou ait bid,
 This day or never must Tediousness be rid

WILL

God speed us well, I will make one at all assays

INSTRUCTION

Thou shalt watch to take him at certain bays, Come not in the throng, but save thyself always You twain on either side first with your sword and buckler,
 After the first conflict, fight with your sword and daggers,
 You, sir, with a javelin and your target in your hand,
 See how ye can his deadly strokes withstand
 Keep at the foin,¹ come not within his reach,

¹ Push, i.e., do not close

Until you see, what good advantage you may catch Then hardly leave him not, till time you strike him
 dead,
 And, of all other parts, especially save your head

WIT

Is this all, for I would fain have done ?

WILL

I would we were at it, I care not how soon

INSTRUCTION

Now, when ye please , I have no more to tell,
 But heartily to pray for you, and wish you well

WIT

I thank you , go thou, and bid the battle, Will

WILL

Come out, thou monster fell, that hast desire to spill
 The knot and linked love of Science and of Wit, Come, try the quarrel in the field, and fight with us a fit

 DILIGENCE.

TEDIOUSNESS

A doughty dust ¹ these four boys will do
 I will eat them by morsels, two and two !

¹ Old copy, duste (dirt) We still say, to make a dust

Thou fightest for a wife ! a rod, a rod !
 Had I wist this, I would have laid on load,
 And beat thy brain and this my club together,
 And made thee safe enough for returning hither

A foul whoreson ! what a sturdy thief it is !
 But we will pelt thee, knave, until for woe thou piss

TEDIOUSNESS

Let me come to that elf

WIT

Nay, nay, thou shalt have work enough to save thyself

[Fight

INSTRUCTION

Take breath, and change your weapons, play the men

TEDIOUSNESS

Somewhat it was that made thee come again Thou stickest somewhat better to thy tackling, I
 see,
 But what, no force, ye are but Jack-Sprat to me

WIT

Have hold, here is a morsel for thee to eat

[Strikes

STUDY, INSTRUCTION

Here is a pelt to make your knave's heart fret

DILIGENCE

There is a blow able to fell a hog

WIT

And here is a foin behind for a mad dog !
 [Let Will trip you¹ down
 Hold, hold, hold, the lubber is down !

O !

WILL .

Strike off his head, while I hold him by the crown

WIT

Thou monstrous wretch, thou mortal foe to me and
 mine,
 Which evermore at my good luck and fortune
 did'st repine,
 Take here thy just desert and payment for thy hire Thy head this day shall me prefer unto my heart's desire

INSTRUCTION

O noble Wit, the praise, the game is thine

STUDY

Hove up his head upon your spear, lo, here a joyful sign !

O valiant knight, O conquest full of praise !

WILL

O bliss² of God to see these happy days !

¹ A direction to Tediousness, that he is to be tripped up by Will

² Old copy, blest

WIT

You, you, my faithful squires, deserve no less,
 Whose tried trust, well-known to me in my distress
 And certain hope of your fix'd faith and fast good-
 will,
 Made me attempt this famous fact, most needful to fulfil
 To you I yield great thanks, to me redounds the gain,
 Now home apace, and ring it out, that Tediousness is slain
 Say all at once, Tediousness is slain

ACT V, SCÆNA 6

SCIENCE, WIT

SCIENCE

I hear and see the joyful news, wherein I take delight,
 That Tediousness, our mortal foe, is overcome in fight
 I see the sign of victory, the sign of manliness
 The heap of happy haps the joy that tongue cannot express
 Our¹ welcome fame from day to day for ever shall arise

WIT

Avaunt, ye griping cares, and lodge no moie in me,
 For you have lost, and I have won continual joys and fee

Now let me freely touch, and freely you embrace,
And let my friends with open mouth proclaim my blissful case

The world shall know, doubt not, and shall blow out your fame,
Then true report shall send abroad your everlasting
name

Now let our parents dear be certified of this,
So that our marriage may forthwith proceed, as meet it is

Come after me, all five, and I will lead you in

WIT

My pain is pass'd, my gladness to begin,
My task is done, my heart is set at rest,
My foe subdued, my lady's love possess'd
I thank my friends, whose help I had¹ at need,
And thus you see, how Wit and Science are agreed,
We twain henceforth one soul in bodies twain must dwell
Rejoice, I pray you all with me, my friends, and fare ye well
